FINAL TARIFF VOTE IN SENATE THIS WEEK

Bill Now in Open Session for Amendments, Which May Not Take More Than Two Days.

PUTS ON HIGHER DUTIES

A Comparison of Its Schedules Shows That the Bill Strongly Provides for Revision Upward.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—As was predicted in these dispatches the Senate Committee of the Whole to-day passed the Payne-Aldrich Tariff bill and reported it to the Senate. The final motion came at 1:17 o'clock, and was agreed to without a roll call. The Senate then adjourned to await a reprint of the bill as passed by the Senate; but when the body reconvened at 3:30 o'clock the reprint was still on the presses, and adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Immediately after passing the Tariff bill as amended the measure was reported by the Vice President to the open Senate. It is generally expected that debate and voting in the open Senate will not last over two days.

It is recalled that on July 7, 1897, one day later than the recent action of the Senate, the Committee of the Whole reported the Dingley bill to the open Senate, and the Senate that day passed it. Seventeen days later the bill was signed, on July 24, 1897. Among Senators to-day there is a feeling that history will come near repeating itself, and that if there is any change it will have the effect of advancing the legislative calendar.

Both measures were reported to the House on March 18, though the Payne bill would have been reported sooner but for the unsuccessful insurrection against the House rules. The Dingley measure was passed on March 31 and was reported by the Senate Committee on March . The Payne bill did not get through the House until April 9, and was reported by the Senate Committee on April 12. The Payne bill has been in the Senate eighty-six days.

For a Revision Upward.

The bill as reported back to the Senate shows a number of important increases over the more moderate House provisions. Some reductions, indeed, have been made, generally on unimportant matters, but even in point of numbers the Senate increases over the House bill are greater than the Senate decreases.

The House bill was estimated to make an average of about 2 per cent. higher than the existing law. Leaving out the silk, woolen, and cotton schedules, all of which show heavy increases over the House provisions and existing law, the Senate measure shows 120 increases over the House provisions as against only 80 decreases.

These figures omit entirely a number of technical changes which are impossible for the layman to determine in comparison with the original bill. Briefly tabulated the changes are as follows:

Schedule A—Chemicals, oils, and paints —28 increases, 10 decreases, 81 paragraphs in all.

Schedule B—Earths, earthenware, and glassware—3 increases, 10 decreases, 33 paragraphs.

Schedule C—Metals and manufactures of —34 increases, 24 decreases, 80 paragraphs.

Schedule D—Wood and manufactures of —4 increases, 5 decreases, 16 paragraphs.

Schedule E—Sugar, molasses, and manufactures of—1 increase, 4 paragraphs.

Schedule F—Tobacco and manufactures of—1 decrease, 5 paragraphs.

Schedule G—Agricultural products and provisions—16 increases, 9 decreases, 75 paragraphs.

Schedule H—Spirits, wines, &c.—19 increases, 13 complete paragraphs.

Schedule J—Flax, hemp, jute, &c.—9 increases, 2 decreases, 25 paragraphs.

Schedule N—Sundries—12 increases, 10 decreases, 52 paragraphs.

Convincing as are these figures of the upward nature of the Senate's revision, they are still more so when it is noted that the increases are often on important matters, while the decreases which show up as convincingly in the table are in reality on items of no comparative importance.

Thus the earthenware decreases are not significant, while the increases in metals are on the most important paragraphs in the bill. These far-reaching increases are set off against little items like certain grades of wire or by-products of the important manufacturer.

In the same way, where the wood schedule shows four increases to five decreases, as a matter of fact the schedule as a whole is increased by the imposition of a $1.50 duty on lumber against the House rate of $1.

About the only schedule that shows any real reduction is that relating to pulp, papers, &c., a fact indicating the pressure the country has put on the Finance Committee in regard to this schedule. Again, however, in the sundries schedule, among the twelve increases is included such an item as coal, and the relative importance of that fact is not at all indicated in the cold figures showing twelve increases to ten decreases.

Agree on Amendment Vote.

Under the agreement reached to-day when the full Senate meets to-morrow all amendments will be voted on en bloc except those especially reserved. Chief among the reservations will be Senator Bristow's objection to the sugar schedule as it stands, the reservation of the increases proposed in the tobacco internal revenue taxes, the customs court clauses, Senator Bailey's announced intention to reserve the corporation tax amendment, and Senator Beveridge's reservation in regard to watch works and cash registers. Unless spurred to the issue, however, Mr. Beveridge is expected to "forget" the issues he has raised.

On the House side it is decided that after Thursday daily sessions shall be held so that managers on the part of the House for the conference committee can be appointed and the bill referred to them whenever the Senate is ready. The effort of the insurgents will be to defeat the special rule referring the Senate amendments to the conference and then to move

WIFE SUES YOUNG BROWN.

Ex-Governor's Daughter-in-Law Also Asks $100,000 in Alienation Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 6.—Charging that her husband set his bulldog on her, twisted her arms, pulled her hair, compelled her to take off his shoes and perform other menial services for him, the wife of Frank Snowden Ridgley Brown, only son of former Gov. Frank Brown, to-day applied to the courts for absolute divorce. She also instituted suit against the young man's father, charging him with alienation of her husband's affections and demanding $100,000 damages.

Young Brown was married on Oct. 24, 1906, to Miss Mabel Michael of this city by the Rev. Henry M. Warren in New York. The wedding was a surprise to society and club circles, in which the Browns are prominent.

Mrs. Brown's bill for divorce also charges her husband with misconducting himself with other women; that he struck her, kicked her, and used profane language to her; that he insulted and humiliated her in the presence of her friends; that he brought women companions to his wife's apartments and forcibly excluded her, locking the door on her.

It is further alleged that he frequently threw food in her face when they had friends to dinner, and that on one occasion he threw a pin in her face; on still another occasion, when visitors were present, as Mrs. Brown charges, he threw a pack of playing cards in her face. She also stated that he would destroy her clothes and articles of personal adornment while friends were present.

At one time, the complaint says, he aimed a revolver at her, threatened her life, and compelled her, long after the proper hour for retiring, to get up and wait on some of his jolly friends, serving them with food and drink. This was on the occasion of the stopover here of a Massachusetts regiment on its way to Washington.

Mrs. Brown says that once when her husband came into the apartments with his bulldog and threatened to set the brute on her, several of her friends were present. She remonstrated with him because of his many cruelties, she says, and he informed her that he had only just begun. Fearing the bulldog, she fled and took refuge with friends. Subsequently, she returned to her parents' home.

Another of Mrs. Brown's charges is that her husband is excessively addicted to alcohol, and has not properly supported her. The bill says that he has an income of $10,000 a year, and that from the mid-Winter holidays to the present time he has given her less than $100. Accordingly an order was submitted for alimony and for an injunction restraining young Brown from disposing of his property for the purpose of defeating his wife's marital rights, as she alleges he has threatened to do.

Judge Elliott signed an order allowing Mrs. Brown $50 a week temporary alimony, and $250 counsel fees.

AUTO HONK SCARES ROBBERS.

Had Shot Contractor and Were About to Rob Him When They Heard Car.

The honk of an auto coming down the road probably saved the life of George Bugbee, a contractor of Armonk, near Mount Vernon, who was held up by three highwaymen yesterday morning while he was on the way to the home of C. R. Agnew with $300 to pay off a gang of Italian workmen who are doing some work there. Mr. Agnew is a brother of Senator George B. Agnew of New York City.

As the contractor was passing a lonely place on the highway, three Italians jumped from behind the bushes and each leveled a revolver at him, at the same time demanding the money. Bugbee, who was unarmed, started to run, and one of the bandits, who was only fifteen feet away, fired on him, and the bullet struck him in the shoulder, putting his right arm out of business. Then a second Italian fired and the bullet went through his coat grazing his back. Seeing that he could not escape Bugbee stopped, and his assailants, revolvers in hand, were closing in on him, when a big auto was heard honking along the road. Bugbee had expected the bandits to pounce on him and take his roll, but when they heard the auto they stopped a moment and then fled. He was taken to White Plains to have his wounds dressed. The bandits fled to the woods, and they are being pursued by Sheriff Scherp and deputies. Bugbee says that they were strangers and were not any of the Italians employed on the Agnew place.

HELD AS A PICKPOCKET.

Manufacturer Locked Up, Protesting That He Is Innocent of the Charge.

Benjamin Diamond, a mattress manufacturer of 198 Sixteenth Street, Brooklyn, was locked up in the Adams Street Station last night, charged with larceny, on the complaint of William Hoffses, a painter of 996 Halsey Street. The story told by Hoffses recalled the arrest of Louis Wolf, a well-to-do rug manufacturer in East New York, and an alleged pickpocket, now a fugitive from justice. Diamond was charged by Hoffses with picking his pockets on the Bridge Street station of the Brooklyn elevated railroad.

Hoffses said he was waiting for a train on the station when he felt a hand in his pocket. He grabbed the arm as it was drawing out of his pocket and discovered, so he says, that it belonged to Diamond. Hoffses is a big man, while Diamond is short and slender. The indignation the painter felt at what he alleged was an attempt to rob him of a roll of bills amounting to $55 caused him to start right in to pummel the mattress maker. Two detectives interfered and saved Diamond from further punishment. The prisoner is a member of the firm of Diamond & Spiwack, who have a factory at 193 Sixteenth Street.

"The man is crazy to charge me with larceny," he said, looking at Hoffses. "I am a business man of reputation, and I can produce $5,000 at any time. There is no need for me to steal, as I have enough money. I do not have to be crooked."

Hoffses was positive that the prisoner did as he charged him and swore to the complaint. Diamond will be arraigned in the Adams Street Court to-day. He lives with the Spiwack family in a two-story building in front of the factory at the address he gave.

BROKERS HELD UP BY SUFFRAGETTES

Grabbed as They Come from the Stock Exchange and Asked to Buy Fans and Magazines.

UPROAR IN WALL STREET

Women Aggressive and Will Invade Coney To-day and Sell Toy Balloons and Other Things.

Wall Street suspended business and enjoyed itself for a lively hour yesterday afternoon. The usual after 'Change street trading was entirely done away with, while the suffragettes held the boards. Fully 2,000 curious persons followed them about, but apparently more for curiosity's sake than out of enthusiasm over their programme.

This week has been set aside by the local suffragettes as one of "self-denial" and money getting. There may have been a great deal of self-denial in yesterday's Wall Street gathering, but they admitted that the money getting was on a small scale as compared with the millions of dollars of wealth with which they were surrounded.

On Monday afternoon the suffragettes invaded the Polo Grounds for the purpose of selling matches, and following their programme they started from their headquarters in East Twenty-third Street yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and boarded a Subway train for the financial district determined to be on hand when the Stock Exchange closed that they might offer their wares for sale and thus earn an honest penny for the cause.

Promptly at 3 o'clock as the gong sounded for the trading on the floor to stop, the suffragettes, headed by Mrs. Sofia M. Loebinger, Treasurer of the local organization; Miss Helen Murphy, Chairman, and Miss Mary Ting, one of the executive officers, lined up in front of the New Street entrance to await the coming into the open of the bulls and bears, and never were rapacious wolves more ready for their prey.

By ones and twos the members of the Exchange came out to the street, and as they did so they were buttonholed by the women and urged to buy a suffragette fan or a magazine printed by the organization. Some of the brokers managed to get away and lose themselves in the crowd, only to be followed by others who received the same treatment.

"Don't run, we won't bite you. We won't hurt you. We are only women," said Mrs. Loebinger as she urged upon one gray-haired financier one of the cigar-shaped fans she was trying to dispose of. "Come, now, help us along. Buy a fan. Buy a magazine."

Sometimes her persuasive powers were successful, but at other times when her prey appeared to be slipping from her grasp, she would grab a retreating coat tail and hold on like grim death, cheered on by the shouts and howls of the crowd, which was all the while increasing at a rapid rate.

By this time the windows in all of the offices in the neighborhood began to fill because of the hooting and yelling in the street. At times the roar in the street sounded like the yelling on 'Change when the market suddenly breaks or soars.

"Go home and wash your dishes!" "Go home and mind the babies!" and "If you want to vote wear pants," were some of the remarks hurled at the women by the men and boys as they offered their literature and fans for sale. The suffragettes took these jibes good-naturedly.

Those on the street pushed and jostled, yelled and cheered and kept the women moving back and forth from one side of the pavement to the other, while those in the windows amused themselves pelting the suffragettes with lumps of sugar and throwing out long strips of ticker tape. At one time there were thousands of yards of this tape flying about the air and floating gently down on the crowd.

When it was felt that the last sale had been made on New Street the suffragettes began to move in the direction of Wall Street. By this time the crowd had become tremendous. The office boys and messengers on the way from banks to brokers' offices and going from one office to another stopped to swell the numbers. But this did not daunt the suffragettes.

"We will go through Wall Street and down Broad," shouted Mrs. Loebinger. Miss Murphy with Miss Ting trailed along behind trying at the same time to dispose of their fans and magazines.

At the corner of Wall and Broad Streets they stopped and Mrs. Loebinger mounted a high step and prepared to make an address, but she was rudely interrupted by a lone policeman and told to move on.

"All right, I'll move on," she said. "But when we get our votes we will have women policemen, and then we will see if a woman cannot talk when she wants to," said Mrs. Loebinger as she walked away defiantly crying out, "Buy a magazine! Buy a fan! Don't be scared, we are not wild animals. We won't hurt you."

"See here, my man, buy a fan and help along the cause," she said to a dapper looking broker's clerk.

"But I don't believe in the cause," he replied.

"I'll bet you are tied to some woman's apron strings, young man, and when at home are afraid to call your life your own, or to speak above a whisper," was Mrs. Loebinger's retort.

And so it went for more than an hour, down Broad Street to Exchange Place, and then up to Broadway, and then through Wall Street again to catch the offices as they were closing for the day.

But the end is not yet. To-day the campaign will be taken to Coney Island. The women will lay in a stock of toy balloons and try to dispose of them to the excursionists who go to that resort. Then will follow a series of hurdy gurdy concerts through the streets of New York with suffragettes as the performers, and then they will try to sell their wares in the various theatres that are still open. Altogether they look for a very active week.

"We are very well satisfied with our campaign in Wall Street," said Mrs. Loebinger to a TIMES reporter yesterday afternoon.

"Indeed we are," broke in Miss Murphy. "We certainly let them know that the suffragettes are very much alive."

"That we did," said little Miss Ting. "And it will do a lot of good, too. We don't mind their hooting and jeering at us so long as we know we are right. And all of them will go home and talk to their families about the great gathering we had, and our cause will get great advertising."

"You wait until we go out with the hurdy gurdies and we will make them sit up and take notice," said Mrs. Loebinger. "We have a righteous cause and we will work for it in our own way until we drop in our tracks."

And then the suffragettes, having braved the bulls and the bears in their den so to speak, boarded a Subway train for their headquarters, where they spent half an hour in arranging to-day's programme.

POET-PRISONER WINS FIGHT FOR FREEDOM

Gyula Rudnyansky Not to be Deported Because of an Old Crime in Hungary.

8 MONTHS AT ELLIS ISLAND

Plot to Bar Him from This Country Laid at the Door of a Rival Journalist.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Gyula Rudnyansky, a Hungarian poet and journalist of note, who has been detained at Ellis Island since last November, will be released to-morrow, on orders from the Department of Commerce and Labor, when he will be free to return to his home, in Cleveland, Ohio.

The case of Rudnyansky attracted the attention of Hungarians all over the United States, and the department has been visited by scores of delegations seeking his release and has been inundated by petitions seeking the same end. The prisoner was held on charges that he had been guilty of a crime in his native country and that, according to the law, he could be deported.

Rudnyansky is the editor of an influential Hungarian paper in Cleveland, and has been a power in Hungarian circles in the United States since he came here, three years ago last January. Last November charges were filed against him with the Department of Commerce and Labor.

Assistant Secretary McHarg declined to divulge the names of Rudnyansky's accusers, but it is intimated that they were the publishers and proprietors of a rival Hungarian newspaper. The charge was that more than a quarter of a century ago Rudnyansky was convicted of distorting some declaration of a civil debt, and on conviction was sentenced to serve six months in jail in Hungary.

A complete investigation of the editor's subsequent career satisfied this Government that he had lived this down and was fully qualified for citizenship. The order for his release from custody accordingly was issued to-day.

Commissioner of Immigration Williams said last night that he would not receive the order for Rudnyansky's release until to-day.

WILBUR WRIGHT HERE.

Probably Confers with Backers—Delay in Flights Disturbs Signal Corps.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The Signal Corps officers concerned in the aeroplane trials are beginning to exhibit signs of irritation at the apparent leisurely unconcern of the Wright brothers regarding aspects of the matter which to the army officers seem exceedingly important, principally the relation of Congress and its power to make appropriations. Congress will soon dispose of the tariff question and disperse to places and interests far removed from aerial navigation.

Beginning with Brig. Gen. James Allen, the Chief Signal Officer, every member of the corps wants the members of the House and Senate to witness the remarkable flights made by the Wright brothers, in order that they may treat more kindly the requests for appropriations for aeronautical work. The Wrights acknowledge no other interest than to fulfill the conditions of their contract as soon as possible, but without assuming any unnecessary risks.

Wilbur Wright left for New York last night in a decidedly unmilitary manner. He failed to notify the officers stationed at the aeroplane shed that he intended to go, nor did he leave any word as to when he would be back, or as to what necessitated his departure in the midst of the Fort Myer trials. While Orville is expected back from Dayton to-morrow, it seems hardly likely that there will be any more flights at Fort Myer before next week.

Wilbur Wright arrived here from Washington early yesterday morning and registered at the Park Avenue Hotel. It was said there last night that Mr. Wright had gone out after registering and leaving his suitcase without indicating when he would return. He had not returned late last night, and it was surmised that he was in conference with some of the brothers' friends and financial backers here.

AUTO HIT BOY; SPED ON.

Edward Gibbon Knocked Down and Badly Hurt in Eighth Avenue.

Fourteen-year-old Edward Gibbon of 2,064 Seventh Avenue was knocked down at Eighth Avenue and 123d Street last night at 11 o'clock by a south-bound automobile on Eighth Avenue. The chauffeur did not stop. The boy may die.

Young Gibbon was attempting to cross the street with his brother, George. The automobile came down Eighth Avenue, hit the couple, knocking down Edward Gibbon, but not injuring his brother. Isaac Fay of 2,295 Eighth Avenue and others, who saw the accident, said that the number of the machine was 58,491 N. Y. The police believe that it was the property of the Union Automobile Taxicab Company of 305 West Fifty-fourth Street.

At the time of the accident the men who picked up Edward Gibbon did not think he was seriously injured. He was taken home by them. About midnight, however, he became unconscious, and was removed to Harlem Hospital, where it was said that he had suffered concussion of the brain and might not live. The Harlem Detective Bureau then set to work to trace the missing automobile and its chauffeur.

Early this morning the police arrested Frank Bradbury, a chauffeur of 1,995 Webster Avenue, the Bronx, at his home on a charge of assault believing him to be the chauffeur in the case. They said they learned his name at the garage.

TUCKER WEDS NURSE FIRST WIFE ACCUSED

Former Son-in-Law of Gen. Logan, Just Divorced, Makes Mrs. Myrtle Platt His Wife.

IN LONG DOMESTIC QUARREL

Once Exonerated by Army Board, but Later Retired Because of Ill-Health —Ceremony at Detroit.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., July 6.—Col. F. W. Tucker, U. S. A., retired, recently divorced from Mary Logan Tucker, daughter of Gen. John A. Logan, was secretly married here to-day by Justice of the Peace Felix A. Lemkie to Mrs. Myrtle Platt, correspondent in the divorce case. The civil ceremony will probably be supplemented later by a church ceremony, though this is not definitely known. Mrs. Platt is a Catholic.

To-day's ceremony took place at the residence of the Rev. William S. Sayres, State field missionary of the Episcopal Church. Mrs. Platt has been his guest for several weeks, and it has been rumored, and indefinitely denied several times, that as soon as Mrs. Tucker obtained her divorce Col. Tucker would wed Mrs. Platt. Just when Mrs. Platt came to the city no one who knows will state. Neither is it known when Col. Tucker came here or where he has stayed since his arrival.

After the ceremony the wedding party proceeded to the Hotel Pontchartrain for a wedding breakfast, after which Mr. and Mrs. Tucker left for an extended journey. Their destination is kept secret.

The religious ceremony, it is understood, will not be performed until they return to this city. It is believed they will make their permanent residence here.

The matrimonial troubles of Col. William F. Tucker started in 1907, when Mrs. John A. Logan, then the Paymaster's mother-in-law, asked Secretary of War Taft to investigate the personal conduct of Col. Tucker. Mrs. Elizabeth Logan Tucker, Col. Tucker's wife, and a daughter of the late Gen. Logan of Illinois, later took up the fight and carried her complaint to the War Department. The question was referred to Inspector Gen. Garlington of the army. It was then no hidden fact that Mrs. Myrtle Platt was the woman named by Mrs. Tucker in her charges against her husband.

Gen. Garlington spent some time in the Philippines taking testimony in the case while investigations were also made at Portland, Ore., and Seattle, stations where Col. Tucker was formerly located. The result of these investigations was a bitter disappointment to Mrs. Tucker, for the board of inquiry entirely exonerated Col. Tucker of all the charges brought against him. It was then believed that Senator Cullom of Illinois, a personal friend of Gen. Logan, was aiding Mrs. Tucker in her fight to oust her husband from the army.

In 1908 Col. Tucker became very ill, it being feared for a time that he would not recover. He obtained a three months' leave of absence, and as he was no better at the expiration of this time he was ordered to the Government Hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., for observation and treatment, which, subsequently, led to his retirement from the army.

While on his way to the hospital from the Department of the Lakes, where he was then stationed, Col. Tucker was taken from the train at Decatur, Ill., on Oct. 14, by a Chicago detective, on a charge of wife desertion. Col. Tucker was too ill to be taken to Chicago, and on his promise that he would return without requisition papers was allowed to go on to St. Louis. When he registered at a hotel in that city it was learned that the woman with him, whom he registered as his nurse, was really Mrs. Platt.

Early last month Mrs. Tucker began divorce proceedings in the Chicago Supreme Court. She won her decree on June 29.

BOY DROWNS IN PARK LAKE.

Man Who Goes to His Rescue Has a Narrow Escape.

Two men went to the rescue of a six-year-old boy who had fallen into the Harlem Mere, in Central Park, yesterday, and one of them almost lost his life. The boy, Angelo Dorando of 338 East 108th Street, was drowned before help could reach him. With his cousin, Paul Cassimenpo, 8 years old, who lives with the Dorando family, the boy was skipping stones along the surface of the lake. Young Dorando finally lost his balance and fell in. He floundered about for a minute, and then, apparently, caught his foot in the muddy bottom. He sank from view, and witnesses say he did not reappear.

Walter Costello of 2,093 Third Avenue and William Conisray of 1,503 Park Avenue, were near by when the boy fell in. Costello ran forward, and, without taking the time to remove any of his clothing, plunged into the water. It was about four feet deep, and Costello had no trouble in finding the boy. He reached down for the body, but slipped on the muddy bottom as he did so, and it was carried out into deeper water. Costello tried to follow, but found himself in deeper water, and being unable to swim, began floundering about in an attempt to get back.

In the meantime Conisray had picked up a gardener's rake, and reached it out to Costello, who grabbed it and was pulled back into shallow water.

With the rake Costello then pulled the body back into shallow water. It was finally lifted out on to the sidewalk and taken to the East 104th Street Station to be held until claimed by relatives.

ARRESTED ON EVE OF SUCCESS

Inventor Who Denied Himself for Seven Years Accused by Wife.

After working seven years on a motor mowing machine invention, denying himself all luxuries, cooking his own meals, which, with the family rent, took all the $40 a month allowed him by a motor farm implement company which was backing him, Robert Phillips of 4 Hancock Place saw success ahead, he says, only to be arrested for not supporting his family. He was arraigned before Magistrate Herbert in the Harlem Court yesterday.

There appeared also in court the inventor's wife, his daughter Winifred, 20 years old, and his son Robert, Jr., 21 years old. They backed up their mother's complaint that Phillips had failed to supply them with food for the past few years.

"He pays the rent, but eats by himself and cooks his own meals," said Mrs. Phillips. "For twenty years he has neglected his family and given himself up to his old inventions."

Phillips said this week would prove success or failure of his invention. If his mowing machine succeeded he would be wealthy. If it failed he would give up inventing and turn all his energy to the support of his family.

Magistrate Herbert postponed the case until Aug. 21, pending the outcome of the inventor's work.

LONDON, July 6.—"In recognition of the literary eminence of their grandfather, and in consideration of their straitened circumstances," is the reason given in a White Paper issued to-day for the granting of a civil list pension of $2.50 a week to each of the four granddaughters of the late Charles Dickens.

The recipients are Mary Angela Dickens and her three sisters.

SUFFRAGE PROSPECT PLEASES

Mrs. Shaw Sees a Magnificent Outlook for the Cause.

SEATTLE, Washington, July 6.—The Convention of the American Woman Suffrage Association closed to-night with a mass meeting. National President Anna H. Shaw thought the prospects bright. She said:

"There never was such a magnificent outlook for the cause. New people are coming in and money is provided. The opportunities increase beyond our ability to furnish workers. Our new headquarters in New York will put us in touch with the great newspapers and with the freshly aroused suffrage sentiment of the great city, which influences the thought of the whole country."

INTEREST IN CUNARD CHANGE.

Move to Fishguard Considered Reply to White Star's Use of Holyhead.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 6.—THE NEW YORK TIMES's announcement to-day that the Cunard Line has decided to make the experiment of having its mail and passenger steamships call at Fishguard, on the coast of Pembrokeshire, South Wales, has attracted considerable attention here and is prominently displayed in all the papers.

A Liverpool dispatch says the Cunard officials maintain their customary reticence in regard to the matter, but in shipping circles it is considered that the move to Fishguard will be made in reply to the White Star Line's use of Holyhead.

It was made known yesterday that the Cunard liner Lucania, which sails to-day for Liverpool, will be transferred to the Boston service for the rest of the Summer passenger season to take the place of the Ivernia which will be put on the New York-Fiume service in place of the Slavonia, which was wrecked recently on Flores Island.

EEL PLUGGED WATER PIPE.

Kept a Police Station Dry for Two Days—Finally Popped Out Alive.

The East 104th Street Police Station was without water for two days up to yesterday afternoon. Such plumbers as could be found on Sunday and Monday were brought in to see why, but they hadn't found out yesterday.

Hugh Armstrong, who was once a plumber and is now doorman at the station, went to the basement yesterday to see if he had lost his skill. He opened a trap of the main supply pipe, finding it dry. Using a long wire, he began prodding into the depths of the pipe that ran to the street.

He was surrounded by a half dozen reserves and Pete, the station cat. Suddenly the water came rushing down the supply pipe, out through the trap, and upon the reserves. With it came a live eel, two and a half feet long, which had just been freed and was glad of it.

Pete, the cat, got the eel, and now the East 104th Street Station has all the water it wants, which is considerable.

GUARDING MRS. TAFT.

Must Have Rest, and Secret Service Men Keep Intruders Away.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, Mass., July 6.—Until she has regained her health sufficiently Mrs. Taft will not entertain or be entertained by the Summer colony on the North Shore. This was given out to-day from the Summer White House, at Burgess Point. It was also learned that President Taft before going away had left orders with the Secret Service men that under no circumstances was Mrs. Taft to be disturbed.

Mrs. Taft is keeping in seclusion as much as possible, and her physician, Dr. Delaney, U. S. A., of Washington, has ordered that she get all the rest and quiet possible. Since her arrival she has been seen by only a few friends, such as the Boardmans and the Meyers.

Secret Service men are constantly around the Summer White House to meet all callers, and the town of Beverly has sent two special policemen to stand at the driveway. Tradespeople are required to explain their missions to the officers, and they are not allowed to go in until the housekeeper, Mrs. Jaffrey, has been communicated with.

21 REVENUE AGENTS DROPPED.

Not Enough Denatured Alcohol Made to Keep Them Busy.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Seventeen Inspectors and four revenue agents on the denatured alcohol rolls of the Internal Revenue Bureau have been dismissed because their serivces are no longer needed.

It is explained that the expectation that denatured alcohol would make rapid strides in supplanting gasoline as a motive power for small farm engines, automobiles, &c., has been disappointing; first, because the engines now in use are not adapted to alcohol, and, second, because of its comparatively high cost of manufacture by present methods.

Considerable progress in its utilisation in certain classes of manufactures is, however, apparent, notably in the production of celluloid, ether, gunpowder, and as a solvent for paints, varnishes, and the like, and to a slight degree as fuel and light.

TAFT'S AUTO SKIDS ON DANGEROUS HILL

Crowd at Fort Ticonderoga Frightened, but Danger Is Quickly Averted.

PEACE TALK ON BATTLEFIELD

President and Ambassadors Bryce and Jusserand Express Hope That World's Wars May Cease.

BLUFF POINT, N. Y., July 6.—With the arrival of President Taft, Ambassador Jusserand of France, Ambassador Bryce of Great Britain, Secretary of War Dickinson, and Vice Admiral Uriu of Japan, the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the discovery of Lake Champlain, which was confined during the past two days to the States of New York and Vermont, to-day took on an international interest.

Ambassadors Jusserand and Bryce and President Taft committed their respective countries to policies of peace, and in the shadow of an old fortress which had witnessed some savage battles they expressed the hope that never again would the peace among the great nations of the world be interrupted by war.

The President and the other distinguished guests had an afternoon of continuing interest from the moment of their arrival at 2:30 P. M. by special train from Albany. The President arrived at Albany from Norwich, Conn., and New York; the French Ambassador from Washington, and the British Ambassador from Lenox, Mass. The various cars then were made into one train for the run to old Fort Ticonderoga, where the principal celebration of the day was held.

The President and the Ambassadors and the members of their staffs were shown through the historic runs of "Old Ti," as the natives call the stronghold, which is now being restored.

There was historic interest in the old place, alike for the representatives of Great Britain, of France, and the United States, for the rocky promontory was held in turn by the French, the English, and the American Revolutionists.

Some of the old cannon were in place to-day and hundreds of rusty relics were on view. Some of these were reminders of the days of Indian conflicts, others were links of history leading back to the bloody fights of Montcalm, Abercrombie, and Amherst, to the famous taking of the place by a band of eighty-three American colonists under Gen. Ethan Allen, and to naval battles which helped to make famous the waters of the lake discovered three centuries ago by Samuel Champlain.

Below the fort on the placid waters of the lake and set among a flotilla of modern naval vessels of the smaller classes was a reproduction of Champlain's little caraval, the Don de Dieu.

A heavy rain fell during the morning over the Lake Champlain country, threatening a postponement of some of the outdoor features, and left the steep roads leading up to Fort Ticonderoga from the water level dangerously slippery. After the President had inspected the fort and had enjoyed the view of the lake from its commanding position, he proceeded to the grandstand, which stood half way down the hill, and which was surrounded by several thousand people.

The President in Danger.

The cheering of the people as the President's automobile was seen coming down the steep incline was suddenly changed to a tense silence when the big machine, its wheels locked by the brakes, but slipping over the treacherous surface, began to skid toward the edge of the roadway. The chauffeur quickly got the car under control, however, and the danger was over in an instant. The President was the least concerned of any person in the large throng.

An afternoon shower came up following the ceremonies at the stand, and the President had to walk a quarter of a mile or more in the rain to the boat, which, after a twenty-mile sail up the lake, landed its distinguished passengers at Port Henry, where the special train again was boarded for the trip to Bluff Point and the Hotel Champlain, where the President and the other guests are quartered.

The President seemed rather to enjoy the shower. He was provided with an umbrella, and, walking alone behind Capt. Butt, his military aide, held the umbrella over himself with one hand while he acknowledged the cheers and applause along the way by lifting his hat with the other. To reach the boat from the home of S. H. Pell, the owner of the estate upon which the old fort is located, and where the President had stopped for a brief call and a cup of tea, Mr. Taft had to scramble down a rocky and steep path, but not once did he lose his footing.

President and Governor Together.

During the ride up the lake the rain stopped and the sun shone again. The President roamed here and there about the big steamer, the Ticonderoga, and finally gathering together Ambassadors Bryce and Jusserand, Gov. Hughes of New York, and Gov. Prouty of Vermont, he went with them to the spacious pilot house, where they met the captain and sat for nearly an hour enjoying the changing panorama of water and mountains.

The President to-night was the guest at dinner of Walter Witherbee on the latter's houseboat, which is anchored in the lake off this point. There for the first time on the trip the President met his son, Robert A. Taft, and his daughter, Miss Helen, who have been guests of the Witherbees for several days.

To-morrow the scene of the celebration shifts to Plattsburg, where the President again will make a brief speech, and where Senator Elihu Root will deliver the historical oration of the celebration. Mr. Taft will take back with him to Washington several relics from "Old Ti," which were given to him to-day. Among these were an ancient key and the head of an Indian tomahawk.

Each Talked Peace.

Ambassador Jusserand, in his speech this afternoon, voiced peace and good-will toward America, toward Great Britain, and toward all the world. He referred with much feeling to the fact that France and Great Britain soon are to celebrate the completion of 100 years of peace.

Ambassador Bryce took up this them and declared that although he was surrounded by martial scenes and men of arms, he himself was a man of peace.

"Not until I visited the old fort yonder to-day," said Mr. Bryce, "did I realize how many memories cluster around its ruins, but I cannot but believe its Creator meant this beautiful spot for something else than fighting, and I trust that it never will see fighting again."

Ambassador Bryce declared that the English and French in the fighting about Ticonderoga found each other worthy foes. And while he admired them, he said, for their courage in the cause they went forth to fight for, he hoped they would never fight again.

President Taft, who followed, then said that New York and Vermont were fortunate "in being able to find a place upon which three nations could celebrate the past with entire consistency and with great joy, because, exercising proper discrimination, they can find deeds of valor and success for each nation on every spot about this lake."

A little later in his speech he said:

"I think it is well for us to go back through the history of all nations, in order that our own heads, a little swelled with modern progress, may be diminished a bit in the proper appreciation of what was done by nations before us, under conditions that seemed to limit the possibility of human achievement, but limitations that were overcome by the bravery, the courage, and the religious faith of nations that preceded us in developing the world."

Other Ways of Conquering.

Somewhat further along in his speech the President spoke of other ways of conquering a people than by guns.

"For sixteen years," he said, "it was my good fortune to go to Murray Bay in Canada for the Summer. There is a limitation, however, upon the Presidential office that now prevents it.

"While there I learned some things, and one was that while Murray Highlanders and other soldiers of England conquered on the plains of Abraham, quite a number of those soldiers, went down the St. Lawrence and were induced to settle on the French Seigneuries, which lie some eighty miles below Quebec. There were Blackburns and Warrens and MacNeils and Fraziers and Nairns and all the Scotch names that bring back the memory of the Murray Highlanders. And what did they do? They had the good sense to marry Frenchwomen. And what happened? That country is full of Blackburns and Fraziers and MacNeils and Warrens and Nairns to-day, and they don't any of them speak a word of English.

"There are other ways of conquering a people than merely by guns.

"This valley," he continued, "in which we are, in the 300 years since it was discovered by Champlain, has furnished almost as much of a battleground for the three nations and the Indians who were on all sides as Belgium in Europe, and one does not have to seek far for the reason. If you will read the account given by Benedict Arnold of his attempt to reach Quebec through Maine, you will understand why everybody else that went that way went by Lake Champlain. The truth is it was the only passageway, and as the St. Lawrence on the one hand offered a great place for settlement and the Hudson on the other, and all the Atlantic coast—in order to reach the two this was the passageway, and here were fought the battles, continued for 200 years, and, as we now say, never to recur again.

"They did not occur in the civil war, I believe, except a little adventure by some rash representatives of the Confederacy, who tried to break a bank in St. Albans, but with that exception we have to go back to the War of 1812 for the use of this as a battleground."

Recurring to the peace theme of the Ambassadors, the President said, concluding his speech:

"I echo and emphasize the statements of the two Ambassadors and repeat their prayer that never again may this great valley be given a name in history by reason of its being the seat of bloody war."

Hamilton Wright Mabie read a history of Lake Champlain, and Percy MacKaye read a ballad, "Ticonderoga," whose concluding stanzas are:

Battles whose blood is liberty,
Heroes whose dreams are history,
Imagination hath them wrought,
Tempering all things to a thought,
Painting the land, the lake, the sky,
With pageants of the dreamer's eye.

So, by my visionary shore,
Soldier and saint and sagamore
Live in my shadow evermore,
Where, lapt in beauty, sleeps Champlain.
Lulled are the passion and the pain;
The legend and the race remain.

Gov. Hughes and Gov. Prouty spoke briefly at Ticonderoga, where the Indian pageant was repeated to-night. The President will not see this pageant until he arrives at Burlington on Thursday.

President Taft thought for a time to-day of returning to Beverly from Burlington to spend Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at his Summer home with Mrs. Taft, but later decided to adhere to his original schedule and return to Washington, which he will reach late Friday afternoon.

The lien is on cottages under course of construction.

COURT STILL OPPOSES WASHINGTON MERGER

Erlanger Calls It a Fraud on Policy Holders, Despite Higher Court's Decision.

NEW SUIT FOR POLICIES

Leo C. Dessar Seeks to Recover the Value of Six Policies Which He Holds in Washington Life.

Supreme Court Justice Erlanger, who some weeks ago decided to appoint receivers for the Washington Life Insurance Company, arising out of its absorption by the Pittsburg Life and Trust Company, but whose decision was reversed by the Appellate Division, took occasion yesterday in the argument of a motion in an action brought by a policy holder of the Washington Life Company to say that he still adhered to his original opinion, and added, "If ever a gross fraud was perpetrated on policy holders that was one."

The matter came up yesterday, when Frederick M. Czaki, counsel for the Washington Life Company, asked for an extension of time in which to file an answer to a suit brought against the company by ex-Justice Leo C. Dessar, under which he seeks the recovery of the value of six policies held by him in the Washington Life, by reason of breach of contract brought about by the merger. Mr. Dessar has begun three actions, one on a policy for $7,000, the second covering four policies, and the third, one policy. The actions are regarded as a test case, and it was in respect of the first action—covering the $7,000 policy—that yesterday's application was made.

Recently a similar action was begun by S. Herbert Wolfe. The Washington Life Company filed a demurrer to Mr. Wolfe's complaint, but this was overruled by Justice Greenbaum. A similar step was taken by the company in the Dessar action, but Justice Blanchard, following his colleague's ruling, also overruled the demurrer and directed the Washington Life Company to file its answer. The time for this expires to-day, and it was with the object of obtaining an extension that Mr. Czaki appeared before Justice Erlanger yesterday.

Herbert R. Limburg, counsel for Mr. Dessar, opposing the motion, said he could only agree to it on the stipulation that the company would not enforce its demand for the $400 premium due on the $7,000 policy next October, and would also agree to let the matter of premium payments stand in abeyance—without affecting the policy in any way—pending the determination of the action. Then, said Mr. Limburg, the company can have all the time it wants to prepare its answer.

Mr. Limburg said he took that stand on the ground that if the premium were paid, it might be held that by such a payment Mr. Dessar gave his approval to the merger. It was at this point that Justice Erlanger took a hand in the argument. He said to Mr. Czaki:

"If the defendant wins they would probably declare this policy void with great gusto, but they shall not do so if I can prevent it. The Appellate Division has ruled against me, but I still concur in my own opinion, and my conviction is as strong as ever. If ever a gross fraud was perpetrated on policy holders that was one."

"I appeared before the Appellate Division," said Mr. Czaki, "in the argument in this case with Judge Hatch, and I think probably I know something about it that has not come to your attention. The State Superintendent of Insurance has ratified the reinsurance contract."

"Yes," said Justice Erlanger, warmly, "the State Superintendent of Insurance gave me a promise in writing when the case was before me, that he would never consent to that reinsurance contract. Of course, he is now relieved of any statement made in court since the decision of the Appellate Division in this case. Nevertheless, he told me he would never ratify that so-called merger."

Mr. Czaki asked the court's permission to answer this statement. He said: "These remarks, Your Honor, will be circulated widely in the press, and will work great injury to the Washington Life Company."

"We will now adjourn court," broke in Justice Erlanger, "I don't want to hear anything further."

Mr. Czaki was given ten days in which to consult the Pittsburg Company as to whether it would agree to the stipulation demanded by Mr. Limburg. He said the company was willing to put up a $14,000 bond, twice the value of the policy, as security.

AMATEUR JOURNALISTS MEET.

James M. Beck Presides at Their Dinner—Woman Elected President.

The third day of the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Amateur Press Association passed off yesterday in a blaze of glory. The 150 members inspected the Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, which, as all good amateurs know, is the shrine of amateur journalism, because within its walls is contained the Edwin Hadley Smith Library of Amateur Journalism, the finest collection of the kind in America.

For several hours the members pored over these priceless manuscripts. Such journals as The Sentinel, The Gazette, The Idle Hour, The Bugle, and a host of others may not live in the annals of fame, but they are none the less dear to the hearts of the present-day descendants in the ranks of amateur journalism.

Tearing themselves away at last, the convention members hurried back to Manhattan and after a light luncheon proceeded to the real business of the day, the election of a President. For the first time since the founding of the association in Philadelphia in 1876 a woman had been nominated for President. At that time there was only one woman amateur journalist in America, but times have changed and a good share of the members represented at this convention are of the gentler sex.

Whether it was due to their influence or because mere man has become unsuited for the office, woman's suffrage won a notable victory, and Mrs. Edith Miniter of Roxbury, Mass., was elected President with scarcely a dissenting voice. The important question of settling the spot for next year's convention was also decided. It is to be Cleveland, and the time will be next July.

Last night the largest dinner of the convention was held in the Broadway Central Hotel. James M. Beck, former Assistant United States Attorney General and founder of the association, was toastmaster. On his right sat Mrs. President Miniter, proudly conscious of her new office, and on his left Edward H. Cole of Summerville, Mass., a youth yet in his teens, who later received a large silver loving cup, the gift of W. G. Snow of Meriden, Conn., for the best amateur paper of the year. Others there were Edwin Markham and James F. Morton, Jr., whose grandfather wrote "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

At the dinner editors and ex-editors of amateur journals chatted over the strenuous task of the journalist who would keep himself clear of the materialistic spirit of the professionals. One man who evidently was a corrupted journalist cried "Copy!" to a waiter by mistake, but this was ignored by the rest of the diners.

Among the well-known papers represented was the Gothamite and Brooklynite of this city, The Watchout, The Scimeter, The Fossil, which is anything but what you might think; The U. S., The New Enterprise, "up to the minute," as its editor puts it, and The Mayflower, a magazine for Puritans.

A thorough discussion of an endowment fund is on to-day's programme, and there is a rumor that some one, possibly Andrew Carnegie, is going to present something to the association.

ESTATE IN A QUEER MUDDLE.

Mrs. Freeman Claims Daughter's Fortune, Though Not Mentioned in Will.

Mrs. Mary A. Freeman of this city, who formerly lived in East Orange, N. J., has filed an appeal in the Surrogate's court in Newark, from the probate of the will of her daughter, Theone E. Freeman, which was admitted on Jan. 5 last. Mrs. Freeman is the widow of Theodore T. Freeman of East Orange, who died intestate about seven years ago, leaving about $40,000.

Theone E. Freeman was the granddaughter of Albert Freeman of East Orange, who died about eight years ago, and received from him his fortune, which she in turn willed to her grandmother, Sarah E. Freeman, and to a servant, Ruth Gustafson of Udden, Sweden. The girl died on last Christmas day, and her grandmother survived her about three months. The fortune left by Theone Freeman was then divided among charities, her mother not being mentioned in her will.

Out of the muddle of many wills, the present Mrs. Freeman, who had a life interest in her husband's estate, seeks to obtain that of her daughter, alleging lack of testamentary capacity and the exercise of undue influence upon her daughter. Mrs. Freeman, as executrix of her daughter's estate, has not made the customary accounting required of executors, and has disregarded a citation by the Surrogate's office to do so, so that her standing in the New Jersey courts is doubtful, it was said yesterday.

The situation is an unusual one in New Jersey, as it involves the passing of an estate from one generation over the second to the third and from the third once more over the second back to the first, with the additional complication of passing out of the possession of the family entirely through the fact that the second and ignored generation is the surviving one.

POLITICS CAN'T RULE POLICE, SAYS BAKER

Commissioner Issues an Edict Concerning "Pulls" and the Transfer of Men.

McGOWAN SITS ON THE LID

Acting Mayor Pays an Unexpected Visit to Headquarters at Night, but Finds Baker Gone.

Police Commissioner Baker announced a declaration of independence as far as politicians, big and little, are concerned, yesterday. It follows:

"I want it understood that it will be useless for patrolmen to solicit aid of the politicians to accomplish transfers. Such patrolmen must send their applications through official channels. Then they will receive due consideration and will stand more of a chance than if the patrolmen try to accomplish the transfer through a fancied 'pull' of a politician."

As to the two deputies not yet announced, the Commissioner said he had not made up his mind about them, but he was considering a number of applications. The Fourth Deputy Commissioner, he said, will have charge of Brooklyn, and the order of things in that borough before the changes ordered by ex-Commissioner Bingham will be re-established.

A report was current yesterday that the Commissioner had mailed to Mayor McClellan for approval several nominations for the vacant deputyships. Mr. Baker's secretary said it was news to him.

In reply to a question Commissioner Baker said he was very well satisfied with the conduct of the people at Coney Island on Sunday.

"I was told that games of chance were running down there," he said, "but I saw no evidence of them. What I saw pleased me very much, and I am entirely satisfied with the way things were run."

Regarding gambling there and in other parts of the city, Acting Mayor McGowan said yesterday that the lid would be kept down while he was the temporary head of the city government.

He said that he had taken no steps in the police situation, and does not expect to.

"It is likely," said he, "that Commissioner Baker will communicate with me in these matters as a form of courtesy, but the thing will undoubtedly be settled by him and the Mayor."

The Acting Mayor intimated that there will be no such thing as a "wide-open town" during the next month if he can help it.

The Acting Mayor paid an unexpected visit to Police Headquarters last night. He asked the doorman if the Commissioner was in his office. He said he knew that it was after office hours, but thought, as he was in the neighborhood, he would make a brief call.

The policeman on duty told the Acting Mayor that the Commissioner had gone to his home, and probably would not return until 10 o'clock to-day. Mr. McGowan then entered the Bureau of Information and had a talk with Capt. Murphy. As he was leaving Police Headquarters, Mr. McGowan said that his visit was purely of a social nature, and simply due to the fact that he was in the neighborhood.

A visit to Police Headquarters in the afternoon by City Sanitary Supt. Walter Bensel caused some of the reporters to ask him if a Deputy Commissionership had been offered to him. He replied with an emphatic "No." It is generally understood in some quarters that Dr. Bensel could have been Commissioner.

Another Police Headquarters visitor was Theodore Shonts, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

Capt. James E. Dillon of the Alexander Avenue Station, the Bronx, was made an Inspector by Commissioner Baker. The new Inspector was sent to look after the Eighth Inspection District, comprising the lower section of South Brooklyn. Dillon is one of the men reduced by ex-Commissioner Bingham, and his successor was Inspector Russell, who was recently reduced to Captain by the Mayor's order following the Duffy case.

The Commissioner announced also the transfers of Inspectors Dennis Sweeney and Miles O'Reilly. They change places, O'Reilly going to the Flatbush district, the Eleventh Inspection District, and Sweeney to the Tenth Inspection District, Williamsburg.

MINE EXPLOSION KILLS NINE.

They Were Descending the Shaft in a Cage When Their End Came.

TRINIDAD, Col., July 6.—Nine men were killed to-day in an explosion of gas in the mine of the Cedar Hill Coal and Coke Company at Tollerville, near here. The dead were foreigners except one man.

The men were descending the shaft in a cage. The explosion partly wrecked the shaft, and those who were not instantly killed were suffocated by gas. All of the bodies have been recovered.

FLOODS IN THE WEST.

Trains Not Running, Streets Under Water, and Crops Damaged.

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., July 6.—Reports to-night show alarming flood conditions northeast and northwest of here on the forks of the Grand River. Damage to the extent of $100,000 is reported from Trenton, which is isolated by high water.

There has been no loss of human life, but owners of fancy live stock are heavy losers. Traffic on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific is demoralized. At Pattonsburg the west fork of the Grand River is running through the town and the Wabash switch yards.

Hard rains sent Medicine Creek out of its banks at Galt to-day, and washed out eight miles of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad tracks. There is water to the depth of two and a half feet in the Milwaukee station at Galt. Traffic on the road north of Laredo is at a standstill. The current was sufficiently strong to float box cars away.

OMAHA, Neb., July 6.—As a result of a rain storm, which continued practically all last night, floods and heavy property damage are reported in the Missouri Valley. In Omaha there were many washouts, and at least two suburban car lines were put out of commission temporarily. Crops on low lands are almost entirely destroyed.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, July 6.—The worst flood in the history of Council Bluffs occurred last night, when several inches of rain fell within a few hours. The entire city from Sixteenth Street west was under from two to four feet of water at midnight.

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 6.—Trains are arriving here from one to six hours late and reports indicate that in some sections of Iowa no trains have appeared since Monday because of washouts caused by heavy rains since last Saturday. The Chicago Great Western Railroad is tied up between Des Moines and Kansas City and the Kansas City train is stranded at Conception, Mo.

HARRIMAN'S NEPHEW FINED.

Pays $20 for Speeding His Motor Car Through Flushing.

Herbert H. Harriman, who lives at Westbury, L. I., and is the nephew of E. H. Harriman, was fined $20 in the Court of Special Sessions at Jamaica yesterday for speeding his automobile through Flushing at the rate of twenty-six miles an hour. Mr. Harriman paid the fine from a big roll of bills. He smiled when he heard Judges Ryan, Forker, and Fleming say that if he did not pay he would be sent to jail for ten days.

Mr. Harriman pleaded not guilty to the charge of speeding, which was made by Bicycle Patrolman Harry McAvoy of the Flushing Precinct. He said his automobile was going so slowly that the policeman was able to pedal leisurely around the back of it, tell Mr. Harriman, who was driving, that he was under arrest, and then spurt ahead to lead the way to the police station.

"I did not change my speed after having been told that I was under arrest," said Mr. Harriman, "and this man pedaled away so fast that I had to call him back because I was afraid that if I went fast enough to catch up with him I would be arrested again."

Morgan Belmont, the sixteen-year-old son of August Belmont, was also to have been arraigned on a charge of speeding his father's automobile, but counsel for the Belmonts explained that the family will sail for Europe to-day, and that it was impossible for the boy to be present. The case was adjourned until October.

METZ IN THE ENEMY'S CAMP.

It Was Thirst, However, Not Ambition, That Led Him to the Republican Club.

Controller Metz, who, according to report, might consent to run for Mayor this Fall and ask no questions as to where the nomination came from, caused a mild sensation last night by dropping in at the Republican Club with a friend who is a member, just as a number of Republicans who believe their names would look well at the top of the Republican column on the ballot were joining with their fellow-members of the club in a celebration incidental to the opening of the club's roof garden.

"No," said Mr. Metz to a friend, "I am not looking for the Republican nomination for Mayor. I came here looking for something I know I can get quickly and without much trouble."

With this Mr. Metz disappeared into the Flemish Room, where thirsts are attended to. Several members of the club, with a sort of "look who's here" expression on their faces, dropped in and shook hands with the Controller.

The Old Guard Band and two male quartets helped in the entertainment on the roof garden, which will remain open until the middle of September.

HIS SHORT-LIVED REVENGE.

Pupil Who Had Been Punished Steals Teacher's Pocketbook—Arrested.

The last official act of Prof. Philip Light of the staff of Public School 75, at 25 Norfolk Street, prior to adjournment for the vacation a few days ago, was to punish Michael Murphy, one of his pupils, for throwing missiles across his classroom. As a part of the punishment Michael was kept in almost an hour after all his classmates were on their way rejoicing in their vacation freedom. Young Murphy resented this punishment, and openly expressed to the teacher his intention of "getting even."

Michael's time came on Monday, when Prof. Light with some friends was playing tennis on a court near 150 East 124th Street. Michael greeted his teacher in the friendliest manner:

"Hello, professor. Hope you are having a glorious Fourth?"

"Fine time, fine time, Michael," replied the teacher, as he continued the game.

A few minutes later he heard a voice shout, "I'm even with you now," and as he turned he saw Michael dashing away, waving the teacher's pocketbook which he had taken from the pocket of the professor's coat lying on a settee. The professor gave chase, but the boy got away, only to fall into the clutches of Policeman Warren of the Central Park squad. The pocketbook, containing $15, was recovered.

Michael was remanded yesterday for further hearing on Saturday in the Children's Court.

HIS "TRIFLES" DIAMONDS.

Nonchalant Passenger Held Up by Loeb's Men—News from Canal Zone.

When L. A. Wilkinson, a passenger, walked down the gangway from the steamship Colon on its arrival from the Isthmus of Panama yesterday, he was unexpectedly greeted by Isaac Wilson and James F. Yorke, special agents of the Treasury Department, who asked him what he had to declare.

"Only a few personal trifles," Mr. Wilkinson replied, with a nonchalant air.

"Sorry to disagree with you on the value of trifles," said Inspector Yorke, "but I must ask you to come back on board with us."

The suspected passenger hesitated, then went on board, where he was searched. The result was the discovery of these articles: Three watches, an envelope containing diamond stick pins, and six solitaire diamond rings concealed in a truss which Wilkinson was wearing.

He said he had been formerly in the employ of a sewing machine concern in South America, where he had purchased jewelry in pawn shops.

Edgar S. Garrison, a District Judge at Colon, and a passenger on the same vessel, spoke enthusiastically of the improved conditions in the Canal Zone. An average of only one a month of Canal employes was brought before him, he said. The death rate was lower on the Isthmus than in New York City, he said, and the progress of the work on the Canal he considered wonderful.

Forty babies, born on the Isthmus, were brought up on the Colon by their parents, who came up on leave to visit relatives.

LAWYER GLASER TO BE TRIED.

He Is Charged with Perjury in the Kissena Park Investigation.

Lawyer George L. Glaser will have to stand trial on an indictment charging him with perjury, returned more than a year ago by the special Queens County Grand Jury. It was found, under the direction of Special Attorney General Nathan Vidaver, the Grand Jury making an investigation into the sale to the city for park purposes of a track of swamp land about eighty-five acres in extent and known as Kissena Park, near Flushing, L. I., for more than $400,000.

Since the indictment was returned various objections have been filed against its validity, but the last obstacle was removed yesterday when Justice Garretson, in the Flushing Supreme Court, dismissed the demurrer filed against the indictment and directed that Mr. Glaser be tried.

This same course was taken last week by Justice Aspinall sitting in the Flushing Court, who dismissed the demurrer interposed in behalf of John Welz of the brewing firm of Welz & Zerweck, who also was indicted for perjury in connection with the park scandal, and directed that Welz stand trial.

Following the sale of the park site in the city, which occurred more than two years ago, Mr. Glaser admitted that his commissions out of the transaction amounted to more than $60,000 and his alleged perjury consisted in the testimony he gave concerning the disposition of some of the money he received from the transaction.

While Welz had nothing to do with the sale of the park, he appeared on the scene as a friend of Joseph Bermel, then President of the Borough of Queens, and the indictments against him charged that he testified falsely concerning the date of a transfer of mortgage in which Bermel figured, and he was further charged with presenting a fraudulent document in the shape of the mortgage in question to the Grand Jury as evidence.

It was while this investigation was under way that Bermel, against whom removal charges were pending, resigned his office, and, eluding a Grand Jury then in session, sailed for Europe.

SHOOTS HERSELF, REPENTS.

Woman Attempts to End Life on the Anniversary of Her Father's Suicide.

Driven to nervous prostration by the continuous roar and bang of Fourth of July fireworks about her home on Monday, Miss Agnes Campbell, a seamstress, of 313 West Fifty-fourth Street, tried to take her life early yesterday by shooting herself in the right temple with a revolver. Immediately after she fired the shot she repented, and cried to Miss Catherine Sullivan, with whom she shares the apartment:

"Get a doctor; I must have been crazy!"

Miss Sullivan ran to the street and called in Policeman O'Connell. He stopped long enough to summon an ambulance from the Flower Hospital, and Dr. Tator was on the scene in a few minutes. He took the young woman to the hospital, and said she was not likely to recover.

Miss Sullivan said that Miss Campbell's father committed suicide just three years ago to the day by shooting himself in the temple.

instructions accepting every Senate reduction and sending the remainder of the bill to conference. The success of such a move would mean, it is conceded, a revision downward like that promised by the President, but it is expected that the insurgents will meet their customary defeat.

Exempt From Corporation Tax.

The session of the Senate this morning lasted a little over three hours. Some of the ammunition was taken from the opposition to the corporation tax clauses by the exemption from the proposed 2 per cent. tax of certain beneficiary organizations. The modifications were suggesed by Senators Burkett and Bacon, and were accepted by Senator Aldrich, though he assured the Senate that most of the exemptions involved were provided for in the careful language of the bill.

Corporations exempted from the tax will be: Labor organizations, fraternal beneficiary societies, orders or associations operating under the lodge system, and providing for the payment of life, sick, accident, and other benefits to their members and dependents; domestic building and loan associations organized and operated exclusively for the mutual benefit of their members, and any corporation or association organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, or educational purposes, no part of the profits of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder, or individual, but all the profit of which is in good faith devoted to these purposes.

Clark Attacks Trinity.

Objections from Senator Clark of Wyoming to the exemption of Trinity Church of New York brought both Senators Depew and Root to the rescue. Mr. Clark stated that Trinity was engaged in the leasing of lands in a method far from churchly, and he did not believe its profits should be exempted. Both Mr. Root and Mr. Depew declared the wealth of Trinity was much exaggerated, in the public prints, that her income was devoted to the support of many small churches and that every penny of her income was devoted to religious work.

Mr. Clark denied any desire to be unfair to Trinity, and in reply to a stern inquiry from Senator Depew said that, while he did not rely on statements in magazines that the Trinity Corporation was one of the "greatest landlords" in New York he did let such articles "put him on his guard."

These exemptions, said Mr. Heyburn, amounted to a total capitalization of $1,800,000,000, and when he asked Mr. Aldrich what would be left for taxation the Senator from Rhode Island promised to investigate the subject carefully in committee.

The committee's report on the increased internal levies on tobacco drew a challenge from Senator Daniel of Virginia, the ranking Democrat of the committee and a representative of a State seriously interested in the production of the weed. He denied that the committee as such had reported anything and challenged Mr. Aldrich to prove that his report was ordered by committee.

This drew the reply that a majority of the committee, the Republican members, had ordered a report, though Mr. Aldrich, following his custom, promised to take the matter up in the Senate and examine carefully the state of proposed amendments. That brought the debate to an end.

Shortly after the Senate adjourned the reprint of the bill was sent up from the printing office, and that will be used by Senators to-night in deciding on reservations from the general vote to adopt the amendment. The reprint, however, gives no recapitulation of the changes wrought by the Senate.

Plan to Put a Duty on Oil.

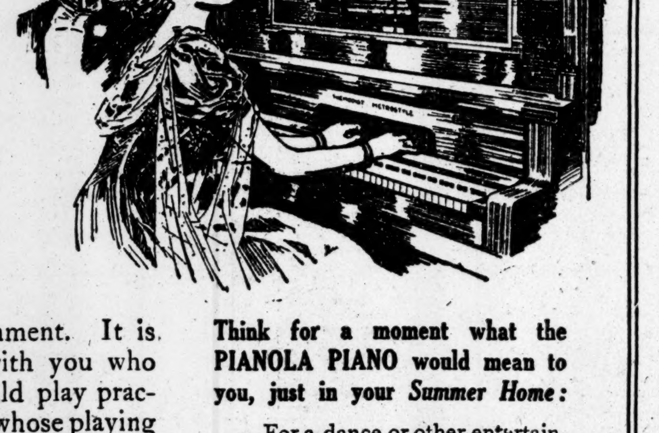
One of the items that will come up in the Senate will relate to oil. Senator Curtis has an amendment providing that this country levy one-half of the duty imposed by other countries on American oil, and he is quoted as believing that he has enough votes to pass this amendment in the open Senate.

It is said to-night that everything had been arranged for the passage of Senator Penrose's amendment fixing a duty of half a cent on crude petroleum, when that came up several days ago, and that Senators who could not vote for the measure had been persuaded to stay away. That plan was broken, it is said, by the call for a quorum, which forced absent Senators to their seats, where they were forced to vote against the duty.

Six Republicans are expected to vote against the Tariff bill on its final passage. They are Cummins, Dolliver, La Follette, Mason, Clapp, and Bristow. In regard to the conferences, it is said late to-night that objections from Senator Lodge have driven Senator Aldrich to return to the old rule of choosing conferrees by seniority. That will replace Mr. Smoot, who was suggested by Mr. Cullom. Mr. Hill of Connecticut, who is considered the hardest fighter in the House, will be supplanted by a more pliant member, according to a decision announced some time ago.

Kingdon Gould Studying Railroads.

Kingdon Gould, second son of George Gould, the financier, returned from Europe on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie yesterday to take up his studies in railroading. He said that after taking a trip out West to get acquainted with the Western Pacific lines controlled by his father he intended to return to school. He has already spent some time studying the operation of European railroads, and also taken lessons in surveying and construction work. On his way across from Cherbourg he held a wireless conversation with his father, who was on board the Kaiser [illegible]



Summer home entertaining is a pleasure to those who own the

Pianola Piano

With a PIANOLA PIANO in your country home, you have something you can always rely on for your own and your guests entertainment. It is just as though you had a pianist with you who would always be on hand—who could play practically everything ever written—and whose playing was so exceptional that even the greatest musicians took pleasure in hearing him.

Would not the presence of a pianist like this make your summer more enjoyable—enable you to entertain your guests with less worry for yourself?

When you buy the PIANOLA PIANO you also buy the ability to play

If you take an interest in it and will practice a little, your playing will be as Gustav Kobbé says, "Infinitely better than the most gifted amateurs."

Think for a moment what the PIANOLA PIANO would mean to you, just in your Summer Home:

—For a dance or other entertainment requiring music—a pianist who knows all the latest dance pieces, etc.

—For an evening when you have someone to entertain—a piano recital of the very finest program music, beautifully rendered.

—And for the moments when you are alone, the ability to appropriate to yourself the choicest treasures from music's storehouse—to learn how much delight music can really give, when one plays it for himself.

When you understand that in addition, the Pianola Piano can be played and practised on just as a regular piano; that it is just as fine musically as any other piano, and that it will outlast most pianos, you will see why so many people buy the Pianola Piano and why it is pre-eminently the piano for the Country Home.

Do not confuse the genuine PIANOLA PIANO with so-called Player-pianos. Not one of these imitation instruments contains either the METROSTYLE, the THEMODIST or any of the other features that have made the PIANOLA PIANO so wonderfully successful.

PIANOLA PIANOS cost $550 to $1,150

CADET IN HOSPITAL SHIELDS ASSAILANTS

West Point Authorities Investigating a Report That Roland Sutton Was Hazed.

SET UPON IN LONELY SPOT

Thought to Have Been the Victim of the Old Ghost Prank While on Sentinel Duty.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., July 6.—Cadet Roland Sutton of Oregon, a member of the present fourth, or first year, class at the United States Military Academy, is in the West Point Hospital, suffering from injuries believed to have been inflicted by fellow-cadets. The authorities in charge of the Academy realize that an infraction, and that a very serious one, of the mandatory law, passed by Congress, with reference to hazing may have taken place, and a rigid investigation is now under way.

Sutton is physically one of the best men in the fourth class, and rumor has it that he was injured in an effort to protect himself while walking one of the lonely posts surrounding the cadet encampment. The old-time ghost trick is said to have caused all the trouble.

This prank is only played on new cadets, at a time when the victim is walking the most unfrequented post near the encampment, a post hidden away beneath the boughs of great trees, where uncanny sights are most apt to create the desired impression on the cadet.

Army Board Investigating.

Whether or not Sutton was injured as a direct result of this prank is not known, and until the fact has been established neither Col. Scott, the Superintendent, nor any of his subordinates will say a word. It will be some time yet before the board now taking testimony will report. This board consists of Lieut. Col. Sibley, Commandant of Cadets, President; Capt. O. J. Charles, Seventeenth United States Infantry, and Capt. M. F. Smith, Twentieth United States Infantry. Capt. Isaac Newell is the Recorder.

Sutton's Fists His Weapons.

About two weeks ago it is said a number of cadets, whose names are not known, decided to play "Ghost" with Sutton. When they dashed out of the forest young Sutton was not afraid to assert his rights as a sentinel. But he used fists instead of his bayonet, it is said. At any rate Sutton, according to rumor, was so badly done up that he had to go to the hospital.

That Sutton was the probable victim of a cadet prank, that on investigation, might prove to be hazing as defined by the Congressional law, is said to have been discovered by Major Gandy, the chief medical officer at West Point. Lieut. Col. Sibley next heard of it, and immediately reported his suspicions to Col. Scott, and the board of which Col. Sibley is the President, was the outcome.

The board has been in session daily for a week, and about fifty cadets have been examined under oath. Under the law the cadets must answer all questions, but they are not required to volunteer any information. Last year during the investigation the first classmen are said to have advised the lower classmen to "tell the truth, but do not be bureaus of information," and that is the rule the cadets are said to be following in the present investigation.

Told Mother He Had a Fall.

Sutton has been before the board, but he proved a fine witness for the defense. He is said to have testified that he did not recognize any of his assailants, and since has not learned who they were. Sutton wrote to his mother, it was said, the other day, that he had fallen and injured himself. He has not said a word so far that would furnish any clue as to the identity of those who are believed to be responsible for his injuries.

PROBING LIEUT. SUTTON'S DEATH

Brother of Cadet Adjudged a Suicide—Mother's Appeal Wins.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The case of Second Lieut. James M. Sutton of the Marine Corps, who died of a pistol shot wound in October, 1907, at Annapolis, and who was at that time adjudged a suicide by an investigating board, is to be reopened on July 19. On that date a board of four officers will meet at the Naval Academy to inquire into all the circumstances, and several officers have been summoned as witnesses, one of them having traveled from the Far East to be present.

The inquiry is the result of the protestations of Mrs. James N. Sutton, mother of the dead Lieutenant, against the verdict of the first board. Interest is lent to the affair by the fact that Cadet Roland Sutton, a brother of the officer who was declared to have ended his life, is at present suffering from injuries said to have been sustained at the hands of the upper classmen at the Military Academy at West Point. An inquiry is also ordered into that occurrence.

One of the principal witnesses in the inquiry into Lieut. Sutton's death, Second Lieut. R. E. Adams of the Marine Corps, is now at Sea Girt, N. J. According to the story of the affair, Sutton, Adams, and Second Lieut. E. P. Roelker were returning to their quarters after attending a dance at Carvel Hall, when Sutton engaged in a quarrel with the other officers. The testimony at the inquest was to the effect that he drew a revolver and fired at Adams and that Adams grappled with him. In firing again Sutton hit Roelker, but the bullet only penetrated the latter's clothing.

In the meantime Adams had thrown Sutton, who fired a third shot, wounding Adams in the hand. Upon hearing the cry "Roelker is dead," Sutton was said to have drawn a second revolver and to have fired a bullet into his brain. The bullet entered the back of the head.

Mrs. Sutton, mother of the dead officer and the West Point cadet, lives in Washington. It is not known what new proof she has submitted to the department in the year she has pressed her claims to influence it in reopening the case.

SALOON SIGNS COME DOWN.

Jersey City Police Enforce New Law Against All Liquor Sellers.

Jersey City saloon keepers were busy yesterday removing all liquor signs, save the name of the owner and the nature of the business. This was done in accordance with a recently enacted law providing that any violation shall be a misdemeanor.

Chief of Police Frank Monahan issued orders to the police to give warning to all saloon keepers that he intends to make arrests of those who do not have their signs down and out of sight to-day. Not only must all signs come down from in front of buildings, but no liquor sign over nine feet square may be displayed in the window of any saloon. Thousands of dollars were spent yearly by the brewers in purchasing signs.

Thirteen School Teachers to Wed.

Nine women and four men school teachers obtained marriage licenses at the City Clerk's office yesterday. Two of the women teachers are to marry policemen, one a musician, and four of them are to join hands with the four male teachers.

PAROLE SUGAR DEFENDANTS.

Eight, Indicted for Conspiracy, Released in Counsel's Charge.

The eight individuals indicted for conspiracy last week on account of the Sugar Trust's $1,250,000 loan to Adolph Segal and the subsequent closing of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company appeared before Justice Hand, in the United States Circuit Court here yesterday and entered provisional pleas of not guilty. John E. Parsons is ill at his home in Lenox. John Mayer, a Director of the trust, is in Europe.

Tompkins McIlvaine, Mr. Parsons's lawyer, said that he would be responsible for the appearance of his client. Mr. Mayer's attorney promised to have his client in court on July 19. Mr. Parsons is 80 years old, and his health is such that his physicians forbade the trip from Lenox to New York.

After receiving the pleas, Judge Hand rejected the request of Assistant United States Attorney Crim that the defendants be held in $10,000 bail each, announcing without any request from the attorneys for the indicted men that he would parole them individually in the custody of their counsel. The Judge added that in view of the character of the lawyers and of the fact that none of the defendants would be likely to flee the jurisdiction, he would assume the responsibility for this action.

The defendants who appeared were Washington B. Thomas, President of the American Sugar Refining Company; Arthur Donner, Vice President and Director; Charles H. Senff, Director; George S. Frazier, Director; Gustav Kissel, the broker who acted as agent for both sides in the loan, and Thomas B. Harnard, who was attorney for Segal when the loan was made. The American Sugar Refining Company, which was also indicted, appeared through H. D. Closson, its attorney.

The indictment against the individuals and the corporation charges a conspiracy to violate the Sherman Anti-Trust act and alleges that the conspiracy continued down to the time of finding the indictment itself.

HAFFEN DENIES CHARGES.

Says Politics Were Not Back of Request for Street Repair Funds.

Borough President Haffen of the Bronx replied to the criticisms of his administration by the Commissioners of Accounts yesterday in a letter to Acting Mayor McGowan. He denies that there was any political significance in his request for increases to his budget appropriation. Some time ago he asked the Aldermen for $224,000 for street improvements. The money was voted, but when the matter came before the Board of Estimate it refused to act upon it without investigation. The Commissioners of Accounts were then asked to report on their findings in the recent investigation of Mr. Haffen's office and declared that the majority of the streets specified by Mr. Haffen were not in need of repair.

They said that his administration had been wasteful and extravagant and that it was significant that the largest expenditures on streets in the Bronx had been made in the two months when they should be the smallest, August and October, the "two months, respectively, preceding primaries and regular elections."

"The injection of political innuendos in any official or business report," says Mr. Haffen, "even by alleged reformers, is to be deplored, but the facts do not justify the statement thus made in regard to the so-called extraordinary expenditures. It should be remembered that the dollars spent do not vote at either the primary or general elections. It must be remembered that I have not been a leader in any organization since 1905, nor have I been a candidate for office since that time, therefore I would not have any reason to vary the custom that obtained in this office."

CHILDREN TO AID EDWARDS.

Street Cleaning Commissioner Reorganizes Juvenile Leagues.

The reorganization of the Juvenile Leagues of the Department of Street Cleaning will be celebrated to-day at Dexter Park, Jamaica and Drew Avenues, Woodhaven, L. I., by a festival, including parades, games, and music. It is expected that at least 2500 school children will be present. They will be under the charge of Commissioner Edwards, Controller Metz, and other city officials.

The leagues, the object of which is to impress the children, and particularly the boys, with the necessity of their aiding the department in keeping the streets of the city clean, were first organized by the late Col. Waring, when he was Street Cleaning Commissioner. They were discontinued in 1900. A short time ago Mr. Edwards took up the matter again, and with the assistance of R. S. Simons, who did similar work with Col. Waring, he has reorganized the bands of children. Mr. Simons has been delivering lectures in civic pride at the various public schools for some time.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR CUT.

Only 632 Cases Awaiting Trial in General Sessions.

In swearing in two new Grand Juries for July yesterday Judge Rosalsky, in General Sessions, called attention to the reduction of the standing calendar since last year. There are now only 632 cases awaiting trial, as compared to 1,329 last year. This, he said, was due to the energy of the Judges in sitting eighteen additional terms of court.

In charging the jurors, Judge Rosalsky said that "if they found it necessary to consider willful misconduct on the part of public officials," it would be desirable for them to return for further instructions from the court. When asked what he meant, Judge Rosalsky refused to say.

Emerson McMillin, President of the Emerson McMillin Company, investment brokers at 40 Wall Street, was appointed foreman of the morning Grand Jury and Benjamin H. Herts, furniture dealer at 542 West 112th Street, foreman of the afternoon Grand Jury.

TAMMANY YIELDS IN BUILDING ROW

Report of Aldermanic Committee on New Code Put Over a Week.

THE SULLIVANS INTERVENED

"Little Tim's" Advice to Murphy to Go Slow Believed to Have Resulted in Changes in the Measure.

The crisis in the Building Code revision fight has been postponed for a week, although there was a little skirmish on the floor at the Board of Aldermen's meeting, which demonstrated that the alleged compromise between Tammany Hall and the opposition to the principal provisions of the code was not as thorough as it might be.

The committee did not report on the matter at all, Chairman Kenneally announcing privately that it had been decided to "talk the matter over a while longer." Last week the committee decided to make material modifications in the provisions of the new code which were objected to most strenuously. The entire exclusion of cinder concrete was changed so as to admit this kind of concrete for fireproofing, providing it is made of "hard, clean, steam-boiler cinders"; the limitation on the height of reinforced concrete buildings was done away with, and the provisions granting an alleged monopoly to a certain paint concern in structural paint and to another single manufacturer of standpipes for office buildings were struck out.

There were rumors that Alderman T. P. Sullivan, Vice Chairman of the Aldermen, impressed by the force of the opposition, had urged Mr. Murphy and his personal counsel, Daniel F. Cohalan, who is also counsel for the National Fireproofing Company of Pittsburg, not to attempt to put through the code even with the amendments decided upon.

Just before the Aldermen adjourned, Alderman Doull, the leader of the minority of the Revision Commission, and one of the leading members of the Building Committee, moved that the committee be instructed to report at the next meeting of the board if it can do so now. The motion was lost.

"I move we adjourn!" shouted Dowling.

It is now recognized that whatever code is reported by the committee will be passed by the board.

All this leads to the general belief that Tammany Hall has awakened to the conclusion that it must not jeopardize itself in any way by putting through a code to which serious objections can be made.

The Aldermen yesterday passed the ordinance introduced by Alderman Brown some time ago tending to stop "joyriding" in city automobiles. It provides for the conspicuous marking of all the machines used by the municipal departments and imposes a $50 fine for their use for any purpose except city business.

Another automobile ordinance of Alderman Brown's was also passed, which provides that searchlights on automobiles supplied with acetylene must not exceed sixteen candle power.

The unions in the Consolidated Board of Business Agents, with one or two exceptions, are against the majority report of the Building Code Revision Commission, which the committee of the Aldermen is now considering, and will make a protest against the adoption of the report when it comes before the Aldermen for a final hearing. The code, they say, if adopted will make a practical monopoly of hollow-tile fireproofing material, and if the Aldermen as a body confirm the action of the committee they say many men would be thrown idle in trades which are employed in the making of concrete and other work.

COLER AND THE QUARRY CO.

Officials of the Concern Refuse to Permit an Inspection of Their Books.

At the continued hearing into the conduct of his office by Borough President Coler of Brooklyn yesterday, Commissioner of Accounts Mitchel showed clearly that he intends to delve still further into the relations between Mr. Coler and the Medina Quarry Company and its successor, the Orleans County Quarry Company.

It also became evident that his investigation along this line will not all be smooth sailing, a representative of the latter company declaring that it will fight any attempt of the Commissioners to examine its books. Martin Conboy, counsel for the Orleans County Company, said that the concern had never had any direct dealings with the city, and that therefore it would stand on the contention that its books are not public property.

Leonard H. Hole, representing the Borough President's banking house, William N. Coler & Co., said that the firm would gladly turn over all its books having to do with its relations with the Medina Company, but that the Orleans Company was merely a client, and that its rights must be respected. Mr. Coler has admitted that he was at one time interested in the former company.

TWO-DECK SUBWAY NOW.

Lexington Avenue Plan Modified at Property Owners' Demand.

Acceding to the wishes of Lexington Avenue property owners, the Public Service Commission has modified the plan of construction for the Broadway-Lexington Avenue subway, so as to make the subway structure under the avenue a double-deck instead of a single-deck tunnel.

The original plan adopted by the commission contemplated the placing of all four tracks on one level. Many property owners objected on account of the narrowness of the avenue and the resulting interference with abutting property. The commission therefore instructed its engineers to devise a better plan.

The engineers reported in favor of double-decking the road from Houston to 108d Street, and from 113th Street to the Harlem River. The commission has approved this modification, and so has the Board of Estimate.

The commission hopes that the property owners will now also consent, and has written asking them to do so. If consents are obtained from less than one-half, the consent of the Appellate Division must be sought, which will involve a long delay.

END HONEYMOON BY SUICIDE.

St. Joseph River Victims Identified as Mr. and Mrs. H. Lindeman.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., July 6.—The man and woman who ended their lives yesterday by rowing a boat over the dam in the St. Joseph River here were H. Lindeman and wife of Chicago. They were on their wedding trip.

It was learned to-day that they had registered early yesterday at a South Bend hotel, and Lindeman told the clerk that he and Mrs. Lindeman had been married at St. Joseph, Mich., the day before.

Searchers to-day found Lindeman's coat. The police, making inquiries at the hotels, opened the room assigned to the Lindemans, and by comparing the coat with other articles of clothing, established the identification. The bodies had not been recovered at noon to-day.

CHICAGO, July 6.—H. Lindeman, who, with his bride, went over a dam to his death at South Bend, Ind., was foreman of a Chicago printing establishment. Mrs. Lindeman was formerly Elenor Zister, also of Chicago. The relatives of neither to-day could give any reason to support the suicide theory of the tragedy.

Lindeman had long been attentive to Miss Zister, and it caused little surprise when, on last Saturday, they said they were going to Elkhart, Ind., to be married. Apparently this plan was changed and St. Joseph chosen for the ceremony.

PINKNEY ESTATE SHRINKS.

Now Estimated at $6,000,000 Instead of $15,000,000, or More.

For the purpose of paying the debts of Mrs. Julia Morris Curtiss, an alleged incompetent, which now amount to $54,270, Supreme Court Justice Giegerich signed an order yesterday authorizing Elmore S. Bank and John C. Shaw, who compose the committee to look after her affairs, to sell to the Utility Realty Company for $177,000 a piece of property owned by her on the south side of West Sixty-eighth Street. The date for the sale has not yet been fixed.

Mrs. Curtiss, who is about 42 years old, lives at Fairfield, Conn., and is one of the heirs of the late Miss Mary G. Pinkney, who died recently, leaving an estate variously estimated at the time to be worth from $15,000,000 to $80,000,000, but the papers in the case of Mrs. Curtiss disclose the fact that as near as can be ascertained the estate is worth not more than $6,000,000, and the income on it comparatively small, due to the fact that much of it is in unimproved real estate. The property in West Sixty-eighth Street is a small part of the holdings of Mrs. Curtiss, aside from her life interest in one-third of the Pinkney estate.

The extravagances of Mrs. Curtiss have brought her into the Supreme Court on many occasions, where she has declared that $200 a day for spending money is not large for a woman of her means, and has been quoted as saying that "an income is like a reputation—one must live up to it." Attached to yesterday's order was a long list of Mrs. Curtiss's debts, some of which have been paid in part. At one time, it appears, she owed Hepner's Hair Emporium $776, which subsequently was reduced to $338. The Buckingham Hotel is a creditor to the extent of $574, and Delmonico's has a bill against her for $49, while milliners, livery stables, grocers, and many merchants are among the other creditors.

By an action of the Probate Court in Connecticut last Aug. 17, Mrs. Curtiss was adjudged incompetent to manage her property, "for the reason of her intemperance."

AMBULANCE CHASERS GUILTY.

Jerome Recommends Suspension of Sentence in Case of Two Brothers.

Harry Mercer, also known as Harry Remington, and his brother, Theodore Mercer, who have been in the Tombs since their arrest last year in California, where it is alleged they fled with $4,000 belonging to the New York City Railway Company, pleaded guilty yesterday to grand larceny in the first degree before Judge Rosalsky, in General Sessions, and were remanded to the Tombs for sentence on Friday.

District Attorney Jerome recommended to Judge Rosalsky that sentence be suspended on the prisoners in view of the assistance given by them in furnishing the evidence that resulted in the conviction and disbarment of James A. Howard, a lawyer, who was tried for subornation of perjury in a case against the New York City Railway Company. The recommendation of the District Attorney is on condition that the brothers leave the jurisdiction of the court and promise to never again engage in soliciting negligence cases.

The Mercers were "ambulance chasers" and dealers in artificial limbs at 215 Second Avenue. On Nov. 30, last year, a shoemaker named Heiter brought suit against the railway company for injuries to his daughter. Mercer heard of the case and managed to get the man to sign a release, on which they got $4,000 from the company. They then fled to the Pacific Coast, where they were arrested several weeks later.

Howard, the lawyer, was employed by the brothers to handle the legal end of their case, which gave them intimate knowledge of his methods and made their testimony valuable at the trial.

Harry Mercer, while a prisoner in the Tombs, reported to the District Attorney a plot that had been arranged for his release and escape in an automobile. Joseph H. Shay, a lawyer, was indicted on his testimony for aiding a prisoner to escape, but the charge was afterward dismissed. Shay was later indicted on two charges of champerty.

SCANDAL IN CANADIAN DEAL.

Members of Parliament and Cabinet Ministers Involved in Mining Scheme.

The hearing before Commissioner Shields yesterday in the extradition proceedings against William S. Mitchell, who was arrested here on June 24 at the instance of the Canadian Government on a charge of having obtained $5,000 from Alexander C. Ross under false pretenses in connection with the transfer of an option on some Cobalt mining property, brought forth admissions by Charles Fox, counsel for the British Government here, that members of the Canadian Parliament and two Cabinet Ministers were interested in the mining scheme.

Mr. Fox brought out that the Canadian Government virtually forced the complaint against Mitchell against the wishes of the persons concerned, and took the action to clear up intimations of a scandal of considerable proportions. He said that all the witnesses on whose affidavits the arrest was obtained were hostile to the Government, and that the extradition law of Canada had to be amended to permit the examination of these witnesses.

It also developed that Ross, the nominal plaintiff, gave to Mitchell at the time the mining option was transferred to the syndicate which Ross organized a release from all liability in the deal.

William C. Strang, hotel keeper in Montreal, called as a witness for the defense, told about the meeting of Mitchell and Ross in Cobalt and of the organization of the syndicate on the train returning to Montreal. In this syndicate, it is understood, the Canadian politicians involved are interested.

DIVORCES CHAUFFEUR.

Mrs. Silvey Speer Thomas Says She Was Forced to Wed While Drugged.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 6.—In spite of attempts of the parties concerned to keep it a secret, it was learned to-day that Mrs. Silvey Speer Thomas obtained a verdict of divorce in the Superior Court here yesterday.

It was last September that Miss Speer, daughter of W. A. Speer, and prominent in local first family circles, eloped with her chauffeur, Russell J. Thomas. Her parents pursued the couple, had them detained, and carried off the bride of a few hours. She was spirited to New York and thence to Europe, to escape the search of her youthful husband. The latter has brought suit against his father-in-law for alienating his wife's affections.

A statement signed by Mrs. Thomas was read to the court and jury. She said in this statement that young Thomas made love to her, but she resented it. Next he told her that unless she married him he would kill her father. She averred that upon the day of the elopement, Sept. 28, Thomas' father telephoned her that unless she came to Marietta and married his son, her father would be killed.

She went to the place agreed upon and was very nervous. The elder Thomas, she asserts, gave her a tablet and after swallowing it, she did not remember what happened except in a dazed way. She believes now she was drugged, and that while in this state went through a marriage ceremony.

WOMAN FASTS FOR 49 DAYS.

Mrs. Hoag of Los Angeles Breaks the Record—Ailments Cured.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 6.—Mrs. Lillian O. Hoag has set at naught all records for fasting, she having abstained from food for forty-nine days. The highest record previously was that of Etta Priscilla Grove, a Chicago school teacher, who shunned food forty-one days a year ago.

Mrs. Hoag's fast was broken yesterday afternoon when she ate a slice of cantaloupe. This long period of abstemiousness was due to an illness the woman had hoped to overcome by refraining from eating food of any kind. The result was more than was hoped for. Cured of the one ailment, the woman also rid herself of others.

There are times when even a boy should be "dressed up"; but, for everyday wear, fine clothes are out of place.

An ideal summer costume for an active youngster is this: Outing shirt, overalls, undershirt, cap, stockings and a pair of stout shoes.

Thus garbed, it makes little difference how dirty he gets, for it is always possible, by a generous application of Ivory Soap and water, to restore his hands, face and body to a state of cleanliness.

There is nothing better than Ivory Soap for that purpose. It contains no "free" (uncombined) alkali; no harmful ingredient of any kind. It is pure soap and nothing else.

CASHIER SHOOTS NEGRO.

The Latter Had Been Charged with Forgery and Fled from Bank.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 6.—Earle J. Litteer, assistant cashier of the Security National Bank, this afternoon shot and fatally wounded A. G. Hudson, a negro, on Broadway.

The negro had been charged with forgery and fled from the bank with Litteer after him. Litteer fired twice at the running negro. One bullet passed through Hudson's body, and it is believed that he has small chance for recovery.

The shooting created much excitement in the streets.

BEAR HUNT IN FORT PLAIN.

211-Pounder Which Wandered Into Town Killed by Millmen and Farmers.

FORT PLAIN, N. Y., July 6.—A big cinnamon bear was killed this afternoon near this place. The bear ambled into town this morning within a quarter of a mile of the Post Office. The animal weighed 211 pounds and probably wandered from the foothills of the Adirondacks, about twenty miles to the north.

Fort Plain has 4,000 inhabitants and bears are scarce in the corporate limits. Mill employes and farmers suspended work and joined the hunt, which followed the bear's injudicious appearance.

FLAG GIVEN TO OUR CADETS.

Governor and Premier of New South Wales Address California Boys.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., July 6.—The visiting California cadets were presented to-day by Lady Rawson, wife of Gov. Sir Harry H. Rawson, with the flag of New South Wales. Twenty-five hundred local cadets were present.

The Governor and Premier Wade made addresses of welcome in which they expressed the hope that the Star Spangled Banner and the Union Jack would dominate the world, guaranteeing liberty and justice.

OUR TARIFF FIGURES IN FRENCH DEBATE

Member of Commission Declares Government Must Be Armed to Deal with Us.

AMERICA THE AGGRESSOR

Foreign Countries Should Understand That They Cannot Take French Gold and Bar French Products.

PARIS, July 6.—Senator Chaumie followed up to-day the speech made yesterday in the Chamber of Deputies by Minister of Commerce Cruppi on tariff revision with a motion to suspend further consideration of the tariff and to invite the Government to submit a bill which would safeguard France's political and economic interests in foreign countries. He insisted that the present Parliament did not have a mandate for a general revision of the tariff, as in 1893, and he opposed the measures proposed by the Tariff Commission, which, he said, represented the "accumulated appetites of particular interests" and constituted a menace to the export trade of France.

This move threw the ultra-protectionists into a panic. MM. Klotz and Morel and the other members of the commission opposed the motion violently. They declared that the present bill was more moderate than if the verdict of the country at the forthcoming general elections was awaited, and they denied that the proposals were conceived in a spirit of reprisal. In any case, it was contended, France was not the aggressor, and in this respect the action of America was particularly cited. Foreign Minister Pichon here interrupted the debate to declare that France had not ceased to protest at Washington.

"We must do more than protest," declared M. Klotz; "the general rates must be advanced to arm the Government for the coming negotiations."

M. Klotz pointed out that since 1891 the French people had invested 161,000,000,000f. in foreign securities and only 5,000,000,000f. in French securities. He maintained that French capital should be compelled to sustain French industry, and that the Government must make foreign countries understand that they could not close their doors to French products and keep them open to French gold.

M. Chaumie's motion went over to Thursday without a vote being taken.

WILHELM AND GUSTAVE MEET.

Steam Ferry Between Sassnitz and Trelleborg Inaugurated.

BERLIN, July 6.—Emperor William, on the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, met Gustave, King of Sweden, at Sassnitz, Isle of Rügen, to-day to inaugurate the steam ferry for passenger trains between Sassnitz and Trelleborg, Sweden. The Emperor was accompanied by Ministers Von Schön, Von Breitenbach, and Von Moltke. A number of Swedish Ministers also were present.

The two rulers, accompanied by their suites, inspected one of the ferryboats, after which Emperor William entertained King Gustave at breakfast on the Hohenzollern. The Emperor expressed the hope that the ferry would prove a most valuable link in trade and travel between the two countries.

FAREWELL DINNER BY BUELOW

Outgoing Chancellor Invites Finance Ministers of Federated States.

BERLIN, July 6.—Chancellor von Bülow is shortly to give a farewell dinner to the members of the Federal Council and the Finance Ministers of the Federated States, who are in Berlin to consult on the Finance bill.

It is not yet known who will succeed von Bülow. The Emperor is reported to have sent for Gen. von Wedel, Governor General of Alsace-Lorraine, who passed through here to-day. Von Wedel is an old friend of his Majesty's, and it is not improbable that the Emperor desires his advice.

HARMS ACCUSED OF BIGAMY.

May Be Prosecuted After Trial for Swindling J. S. Bache & Co.

LONDON, July 6.—Conrad Harms, alias Henry Clifford, arrested in this city recently on the charge of having swindled J. S. Bache & Co. of New York out of $8,000, was remanded a second time today for a week, after the taking of further testimony with regard to his identity. H. J. Lyon of J. S. Bache & Co. identified the prisoner as Harms, and A. J. East testified that the prisoner's name is Harms, and that he married East's sister-in-law in 1906.

The Prosecuting Attorney said that since the forgery, Harms had married a woman he met in Vienna, and he intimated that a prosecution for bigamy would follow the present suit.

TO REALLOT CHINESE LOAN.

Representatives of American, English, French, and German Bankers Meet.

LONDON, July 6.—Representatives of French and German bankers arrived in London to-day to discuss with American and English financiers the method by which Americans are to participate in the Hankow-Sze-chuen Railroad loan of $27,500,000. Willard Straight, representing American financial interests, is also here.

To-day was given over to informal discussions. The first formal meeting will be held to-morrow.

FRENCH NAVY RULE ASSAILED.

Deputy Says Germany Has Outstripped France with Less Expenditure.

PARIS, July 6.—The debate on the report of the Naval Inquiry Commission was continued in the Chamber of Deputies to-day. Admiral Bienaimé and M. Michel, the reporter of the commission, declared that the public wanted to know why, in spite of the enormous sums appropriated, France had dropped from second to fifth place among the naval powers.

M. Michel pointed out that since 1898 Germany, which had spent $90,000,000 less than France, had gained the place which France had lost. He attributed the principal blame to the total lack of method in the construction department, which had shown incredible slowness in building, and had wasted great sums of money through changes in plans.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

PEKING, July 6.—It is reported to-day that the Chinese maritime customs regulations are now in operation on the Sungari River. The action of Russia in opposing and obstructing navigation on this river is believed here to be based on strategical considerations. AMERICAN BONDS FOR FRANCE.

$10,000,000 Worth of St. Louis & San Francisco Issue Will Be Offered.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 6.—Ten million dollars worth of St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad general lien 5 per cent. bonds will be issued for sale in France about July 22 by the Banque Privée, the leading provincial bank of France, with fifty agencies. The issue is part of the $30,000,000 purchased by Speyer & Co. last December.

Prince Poniatowski, President of the French Finance Corporation of America, is President of the Banque Privée. The bonds will be offered for listing on the Paris Bourse, but little concern is felt as to whether they are accepted or not, as the high interest is expected to make the issue an immediate success.

To meet the requirements of small French investors, the denomination of the bonds will be $100.

PANAMA INQUIRY DIFFICULT.

Many Obstacles in Way of Getting Information in France.

PARIS, July 6.—Henry A. Wise, United States District Attorney at New York, and Stuart McNamara, Assistant United States Attorney for the District of Columbia, who were sent here as a special commission to obtain testimony in the Panama libel cases, have reached Paris, but can do nothing until the arrival of De Lancey Nicoll and John D. Lindsay, counsel for the Press Publishing Company, publishers of The New York World.

The prospects of the commission's obtaining much information are not bright, as its path is blocked by numerous obstacles. The consent of the French Government, which is not based upon treaty stipulations, but is merely an act of courtesy, has not yet been obtained, the Government having replied to the American Embassy's communication that the list of witnesses and the questions to be asked must first be submitted to the Minister of Justice, who will decide whether it is possible to comply with the request.

The position of the French Government is extremely delicate. The old Panama Canal scandal, which wrecked so many fortunes and reputations and brought the country almost to the verge of a revolution, is now legally closed, and no matter how willing the Government might be to accede to the American request it would probably hesitate if such action involved the slightest risk of reopening the old question.

Even should a favorable response be given, the French, and not the American, procedure would doubtless be followed. Judge Ditte, President of the Tribunal of the First Instance of the Seine, would nominate a Judge before whom the witnesses must appear to answer questions previously drawn up. No cross-examination or new line of evidence is possible under the French system in such cases. Moreover, neither the attendance of witnesses nor their giving of testimony is compulsory. Witnesses would simply be cited to appear by a bailiff and could refuse to answer, on the flimsiest pretext, without penalty.

The question of documents and papers, which the defendant's attorneys desire to examine, presents even greater difficulties, as subpoenas such as are issued in the United States are unknown in France.

COAL STRIKE IN CANADA.

Test of Strength Between United Mine Workers and Local Union.

SYDNEY, C. B., July 6.—The members of the United Mine Workers of America employed at the collieries of the Dominion Coal Company struck to-day, when about 6,000 men failed to appear at the mines. The strike is regarded here as a contest between the mine workers and the Provincial Workingmen's Association. Each organization claims the majority of the workers in the mines.

The agitation, of which the strike is the culmination, has been in progress for nearly a year. It began with the efforts of officials of the United Mine Workers of America to secure recognition by the company operating in this province.

The American labor leaders have been strongly opposed by the officers of the Provincial Workingmen's Association, which was formed here some time before the appearance of the United Mine Workers, and by the coal company, whose managers declared that the American labor leaders were seeking to divert the Canadian coal trade to the mines of the United States.

In the course of the last month the controversy between the two labor organizations became very bitter. Fearing violence the coal company built stockades around its property, with electric wires capable of carrying high-powered currents on top. The company also enlisted more than 150 special officers for guard duty.

The strike was practically declared last night, when the members of the United Mine Workers came out of the pits with their tools.

DR. HAMMANN ACQUITTED.

Wife's Former Husband Has Been Persecuting the Couple.

BERLIN, July 6.—Dr. Hammann, Privy Councilor and Director of the Press Bureau of the Foreign Office, was acquitted to-day of charges of perjury brought against him by Prof. Schmitz, the former husband of the present Frau Hammann. Schmitz was made to pay all the costs of the trial.

It appeared from the testimony that he was responsible for a system of persecutions against Dr. Hammann and his wife.

DIES OF BALL GAME INJURY.

Player Jumped on While Sliding to a Base in Game Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., July 6.—While sliding to second base during a baseball game between the Montereys and Simpson Athletic Club at Rutherford on Saturday, William MacNamara, right fielder of the Montereys, was so badly injured that he died yesterday at his home in Kingsland.

MacNamara had singled in the seventh inning and was stealing second base. Catcher Marsh's throw to Howarth at second was high and the latter had to leap into the air, making a great stop.

MacNamara slid under to the base, Howarth coming down on his stomach, and the runner had to be carried off the field.

On reaching home he was attacked by violent pains, sank gradually, and died in great agony.

Grandchildren Contest Will.

Alleging that the will was obtained by fraud and undue influence, and that Mrs. Catherine Mortimer of 400 Hudson Street was not of sound mind when she executed the document, her grandchildren, Edgar E., Harry E. G., and Ethel M., children of her deceased son, John S. Mortimer, have begun a contest in the Surrogate's Court over the estate, which is said to be worth about $20,000. Mrs. Mortimer died on June 8. Her will, dated May 29, 1907, divided her property between her daughters and the latters' children, excepting the three grandchildren named, on the ground that they had been well provided for already.

Thomas M. Hall's Will Probated.

The will of Thomas M. Hall, junior member of the firm of W. W. & T. M. Hall, builders and real estate operators, who died at Würzberg, Germany, on April 25, was filed for probate yesterday. The accompanying petition gives the value of the estate as $50,000 in real property. The amount of the personal proerty is unknown. His widow, Francis Dawson Hall, who lives at the Apthorpe apartments, Broadway and Seventy-eighth Street, receives $5,000 absolutely, the household furniture, insurance money, and a life interest in the estate. His sister, Josephine V. Hall, receives $1,000, and $500 each goes to his brother, William N. Hall; [illegible] and a friend, [illegible]

RUSSIANS ADVANCE TOWARD TEHERAN

Troops Sent by Water from Baku Begin Disembarking at Enzeli.

PANIC IN THE CAPITAL

Conflicting Rumors Regarding Movements of Bakhtiari Tribesmen and Constitutionalists Create Excitement.

TEHERAN, July 6.—The Russian troops from Baku were being landed at Enzeli to-day. Enzeli is in the southwestern corner of the Caspian Sea, about 180 miles from here in a direct line. It is estimated that the Russian advance from Enzeli to Teheran, which is through a mountainous country, will take at least a week for the cavalry.

There is an unconfirmed report here that the Russian force consists of 3,000 infantry and 800 cossacks.

No news has been received as yet of a junction of the Bakhtiari tribesmen with the Nationalists under Siphadar.

LONDON, July 6.—According to a special dispatch from Teheran that city is completely invested by the Persian revolutionary forces, who are expected to attack at any moment.

The latest dispatches from Teheran report a great state of tension and excitement in anticipation of an advance by the Nationalists. Many residents are fleeing from the city, but there is no confirmation of the rumored investment.

Some protests are being voiced by the newspapers and in Parliament against what is characterized as unwarrantable interference by Great Britain and Russia in Persian domestic affairs. Special attention has been directed to the attempts of the British and Russian representatives to prevent the Constitutionalists from marching on Teheran and to the dispatch to Persian territory of a Russian force.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 6.—The first detachment of the Russian expedition that may march to Teheran, the capital of Persia, consisting of a battalion of infantry, sailed yesterday from Baku for Enzeli, and further detachments will sail to-day.

The revolutionists showed great courage, but they were finally scattered and driven back by the machine gun fire. The revolutionists lost a cannon and four flags, while the Cossacks had three men killed and three wounded.

BUREAU OF CHILD STUDY.

One to be Established at Clark University—Conference On.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 6.—Forestalling the establishment of the new child study bureau at Clark University, a conference was opened to-day which has for its object the welfare of the child. It is hoped that as a result of this conference an organization of all the societies and movements looking to the social, intellectual, and physical betterment of children will be effected.

President G. Stanley Hall of the university, Dr. Louis N. Wilson, librarian of the institution; Mrs. Frederick Schoff, President of the National Congress of Mothers, and Miss Patty S. Hill, President of the National Kindergarten Association, made addresses to-day.

NEWPORT AT COPENHAGEN.

American Schoolship to Stay Ten Days —Admiral Marix Arrives.

COPENHAGEN, July 6.—The United States schoolship Newport arrived here this afternoon. She will remain for ten days.

Rear Admiral Adolph Marix, U. S. N., Chairman of the Lighthouse Board, is here to make an inspection of the lighthouses of Denmark.

Charles Richardson, Secretary of the American Legation, has resigned and will return to the United States.

DENY PERIL TO BATTLESHIP.

Nevertheless an Electrician Was Discharged for Smoking Near Nebraska's Magazine.

It was denied by officials in the Brooklyn Navy Yard that the battleship Nebraska had been in danger of being blown up on Wednesday last by the carelessness of an electrical worker who was caught smoking near the magazine of the vessel.

It became known yesterday, however, that one of a force of electricians who had been at work near the magazine of the big ship was discharged on Wednesday, and when he went to Building No. 6 later in the day to draw his pay he was heard shouting a loud denial through the hall that he had been smoking near the magazine.

On board the vessel it was denied that electricians or their helpers have been at work near the magazine. The executive officer said that the magazine was never opened when workmen were at work on board.

There are 700 tons of powder stored in the magazine on the Nebraska, and it is stored away from any danger behind double sets of water-tight doors.

WHY HE MISSED TAFT DINNER.

Senator Davis Explains That He Had to Hunt for His Son.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—As one father to another, Senator Jeff Davis of Arkansas explains to President Taft in a letter made public to-day that his failure to attend the White House dinner the other night at the President's invitation was due, not to intentional discourtesy, but to his pursuit of his 12-year-old son, who went to Fort Myer to see the Wright aeroplane fly, and didn't return. Explaining to the President the presence of the youthful Davis in the city, the Senator says to the President:

"On the evening of the dinner I allowed him to go to Fort Myer with a little companion to see the airship. He did not return until such a late hour that I became very much alarmed about him and went to look for him. I did not return until it was too late to be present in obedience to your kind invitation."

The Senator states further that his letter owes its origin to newspaper criticisms, and he says he writes in the fear that some of these may fall within the President's observation. He adds that he does not want to be considered rude.

DIVORCES NIXON-NIRDLINGER.

Wife of Philadelphia Theatre Manager Gets Decree on Desertion Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—Mrs. Theresa Burke Nixon-Nirdlinger obtained a divorce in Common Pleas Court to-day from Frederick G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, manager of the Park and People's Theatres. The action was based upon the charge of desertion.

Although there was a rumor that Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger had sued for divorce six months ago, she denied at that time that any such action had been taken. The couple were married fourteen years ago, and have two children.

ALOHA CUP RACE TO-DAY.

Big Fleet of Auxiliaries in New York Y. C. Run to Newport.

The biggest racing fleet that has been gathered together by the New York Yacht Club in several years will start to-day for the week's racing and annual regatta to be held off Newport and Block Island. The policy of encouraging ocean racing, instituted early in the year by Commodore Arthur Curtiss James, has been received by the club members in a manner highly encouraging to the Regatta Committee and the yachtsmen who have been anxious to bring the big boats of the fleet out for deep-sea racing.

The week's sport will begin to-day with a race from Glen Cove to Newport, 111 nautical miles. All classes are to sail in cruising trim, and it will be good news to yachtsmen to know that J. Rogers Maxwell's big schooner Queen has been put in commission and will sail with the fleet. Among the other sailboats that are ready for the long run are the three 57-footers, Cornelius Vanderbilt's Aurora, George M. Pynchon's Istalena, and Henry F. Lippitt's Winsome, the old cup defender Vigilant, now converted into a yawl and owned by William E. Iselin; Charles Lane Poor's Weetamoe, Cord Meyer's Altair, H. G. S. Noble's Irondequet, Henry F. Parmelee's Rosalie, Cleveland H. Dodge's schooner Corona, and Robert P. Doremus's schooner Lasca. Besides these there will be a good showing of the New York thirties and a number of other boats in the smaller classes.

Particular interest will be centred in the special race of the auxiliaries for the Aloha cups given by Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, wife of the Commodore. This is somewhat of a new departure for the New York Yacht Club, but the owners of the big auxiliaries have responded liberally, and a dozen boats and possibly more will start. They will be allowed to steam two minutes beyond the starting line "on honor," and then the big spread of sails will be depended upon in the battle for the prizes. There will be one cup for auxiliaries rated in Classes A, B, and C, and another cup for the auxiliaries of smaller rating, both divisions racing under full-time allowances.

Commodore Arthur Curtiss James has set a worthy example to the club members by entering his flagship, Aloha, for the long race down the Sound, and the other entries received yesterday by the Regatta Committee are N. L. McCready's Enchantress, Commodore Wilson Marshall's Atlantic, James Laughlin Jr.'s Ariadne, W. Harry Brown's Visitor II., a big three-masted auxiliary schooner slightly larger than the Atlantic, Charles N. Nelson's Xarifa, brig-rigged like the Aloha; George Mercer, Jr.'s Seneca, Francis L. Field's Swannanoa, George F. Peabody's Iris, F. Lewis Clark's Emerald, Henry W. Putnam's Alcyone, and Dallas B. Pratt's Sea Fox.

A fleet of this size will make a yachting start that will be a treat to witness, and a number of steam yachts are preparing to follow the sailing craft to Newport. The start will be made shortly after 1 o'clock off Matinnecock Point, and the Regatta Committee, consisting of H. de B. Parsons, Ernest E. Lorillard, and Walter C. Kerr, has chartered Albert C. Bostwick's fast power yacht, The Limited, to follow the boats, and from which the races later in the week will be managed. The fleet is expected to arrive in Newport early to-morrow morning. Friday will be devoted to a series of special races off Newport for cups offered by the Newport Yacht Racing Association. On Saturday the New York Yacht Club's sixty-second annual regatta will be held, starting off Brenton Reef Lightship and going around Block Island, forty-two nautical miles. On Monday there will be another Long Island Sound race for all classes from Newport back to Glen Cove, arriving Tuesday morning, July 13.

HER LINCOLN MEDAL LOST.

Rose Levine Asks The Times to Help Find Her Competition Prize.

Rose Levine of 341 East Nineteenth Street has lost the medal which she won in THE TIMES's Lincoln competition and is so much distressed in consequence that she has advertised for it in THE TIMES's Lost and Found column.

Miss Levine is 12 years old, and ever since she won one of the medals offered for children of her age for the best essays on Abraham Lincoln, she has worn it on a silver chain around her neck.

On Sunday she went, with her father and mother, for an all-day outing on Long Island. At about 8 P. M., on the way home, they had to change cars at Ridgewood. There was a big crowd there and considerable confusion. Just as the Levines made their way to a seat Rose cried, "I've lost my medal!" and burst into tears. The broken chain was hanging over her shoulder.

Mr. Levine got out of the car and searched about, but he could not find it. After the car started he hunted on the floor; it was not there. They came back without it, and ever since, so her sister says, Rose has begun to cry on remembering her loss.

The Levines are not sure that the medal was lost just at that spot, but they hope to recover it, particularly, as Rose's name is engraved on it.

POLICE CHIEF A DYNAMITER?

Russian Official Accused of Complicity in Plot to Kill Alexander III.

PARIS, July 6.—It was learned here to-day that the Russian revolutionist Bourtzeff has written a letter to the Minister of Justice charging that M. Harting, Chief of the Russian political police abroad, with headquarters in Paris, was no other than Michael Landesen, alias Hekkelman Petrowsky, who was sentenced in default in 1890 by the Correctional Court of the Seine to five years' imprisonment as the organizer of the dynamite plot against Emperor Alexander III.

Premier Clemenceau has ordered an investigation of the charges, and if they are substantiated Harting will be expelled from France. He is a member of the Legion of Honor, and this title will be taken from him.

TAGGART'S NAME BROUGHT IN.

Ella Gingles, on Trial, Says Her Accuser Mentioned the Politician.

CHICAGO, July 6.—The name of Tom Taggart of French Lick Springs, Ind., former Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, was brought into the record of the Ella Gingles trial in Judge Brentano's court here to-day.

The young Irish lacemaker, on cross-examination, had told of the alleged search of her room by Miss Agnes Barrette, her accuser, and the late Mrs. Cecilia Kenyon, who were looking for lace, which, Miss Barrette asserted, Miss Gingles had stolen.

This brought the story around to Miss Gingles' visit to Miss Barrette's room at the Wellington Hotel, when, according to Miss Gingles, certain proposals were made to her.

"Was any man mentioned?"

"Yes. Tom Taggert, I believe.

"You knew he was proprietor of French Lick Springs?"

"Yes."

"Who mentioned the name?"

"Miss Barrette. She said: 'If Taggart were only here.'"

Last Friday Miss Gingles testified that she had been told she could have plenty of money, good clothes, and no work if she would go to French Lick Springs.

"What did you think when Miss Barrette told you the advantages of this visit?" Mr. Short asked to-day.

"I thought she meant I was to marry a man."

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 6.—Thomas Taggart was a passenger on the Southwestern Limited reaching Syracuse at 5 o'clock this afternoon. When shown the Associated Press story of Miss Gingles' trial he said:

"I never saw, never knew, or never heard Miss Gingles' name until the same appeared in this case, and have since never seen her. The only person I ever saw or knew who has been in any way involved in this case is Miss Barrette, who kept a curio stand at French Lick. I never met her but in a business way."

TWO SHOCKS KILL SANDUCCI.

Italian Murderer Showed Signs of Life After the First at Auburn.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 6.—Giuseppe Sanducci, who murdered Joseph Dordano, an Italian detective at Belfast, Allegany County, on the morning of Dec. 21, 1907, was put to death in the electric chair in Auburn Prison at 6:18 o'clock this morning.

The execution was remarkable for the celerity with which it was carried out. Two shocks were used, one lasting for three seconds over a minute, and the second being of less than ten seconds duration. The first contact was timed at 6:12:45, and lasted until 6:13:48. After tests showed slight heart action the second contact was given at 6:14:40. The voltage was 1,850, and it ranged from eight and one-half to nine amperes.

Sanducci's crime was committed in the broad light of day, and in the presence of forty or fifty people, who were at the railroad station in Belfast early in the morning of Dec. 21, 1907. It was a sequel to the arrest of his employer, Michael De Cicilo, on a charge of violation of the liquor tax laws. The evidence against De Cicilo was secured by Dardano and Albert J. Mantica, private detectives of Albany. De Cicilo was arrested the day before the shooting. The detectives, after De Cicilo was held on the charge, waited until the following morning before starting for Albany. They were just boarding the train when four shots were fired. Mantica was wounded in the head, but recovered. Dardano was shot twice, one bullet striking him under the right shoulder blade and proving fatal.

After the shooting Sanducci escaped on a hand-car, but a posse of forty or fifty residents captured him within three hours. He was tried and convicted and on April 2, 1908, was sentenced to die. An appeal to the Court of Appeals resulted in the reaffirmation of the sentence.

Sanducci made his will on Saturday evening and bequeathed $10 to his attorney to pay him for an effort to get a stay of execution. The balance of the property he bequeathed to a cousin in this city.

BUTLER WOULD HAVE HIGHER CITIZENSHIP

Ignorance of Institutions Leads to Demagogy, He Tells Educators in Denver.

INFLUENTIAL ICONOCLASTS

Who Call Fundamentals Obstacles—Courts Attacked, Although the People Gave Them Authority for the People.

DENVER, Col., July 6.—The second day's session of the National Educational Association Convention to-day opened with ten departmental meetings. At night the second general session was held at the auditorium, when President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University was the principal speaker.

His subject was "The Call to Citizenship." He said that the educational instrumentalities of the country schools, colleges, and universities alike had before them, in the matter of his theme, a task which took precedence over all questions of school organization and management, of programmes of study and curriculum, of teachers' salaries and tenure of office, and of secondary and ancillary questions of every sort. The task was the preparing of intelligent American citizens to take up each his own share of the Nation's responsibilities.

"The unrest which is abroad in the world," he said, "and which is found alike in Europe and in America, in the unchanging East, as well as in the restless and rapid-moving West, is in no small part due to the lack of understanding of what is going on in the world and what has gone on hitherto.

"The world has been for more than a hundred years under the spell of abstract principles, admirable in themselves, and yet the world in large measure lacks the ability or the capacity so to organize itself and its business that those principles shall find just and equable expression.

"Everywhere old beliefs, old traditions, and old customs are giving way before the corroding tooth of time, and as the time-honored creeds, political, social, and religious, lose their hold others equally controlling and imperative do not come forward to take their place. Immense masses of men are left, therefore, with almost boundless opportunities for good or evil, but without guiding principles with which to work. This leads to intellectual, political, and moral restlessness.

"There are many who feel that the rising generation of Americans is growing up without any proper knowledge of the fundamental principles of American institutions and American Government. Because of this lack of knowledge well-meaning men lend ear quite too readily to demagogues who propose to them all sorts of schemes without any relation, save one of antagonism, to established political principles.

"From listening to demagogues it is but a short and easy step to a state of mind in which envy, greed, and hate are elevated to the lofty place which should be occupied by respect and confidence, as well as by political insight, political knowledge, and political experience.

"The Americans of an earlier day got their training in the fundamental principles of citizenship from the stern facts which faced them. To-day, however, one hears much less of these fundamental principles. There are those among us, some of them in places of responsibility and great influence, who call them outworn, antiquated, obstacles to popular government, and who would substitute the passing desire of to-day for the carefully wrought design of all time.

"The courts are attacked as usurpers of an authority which the people themselves have given them for the people's own protection. The carefully built guards which have been put about individual rights and liberties are denounced as fortresses of privilege by those who seek privileges for themselves at the expense of the rights of others.

"There are only two really deep-seated and influential enemies of human happiness and human order, ignorance and selfishness. These do pretty much all the damage that is done in the world, and they are the always-present obstacles to improving the condition of mankind. It is the province of intellectual education to address itself to the first of these, and it is the task of moral education to deal with the other.

"If one, seeking to know the story of civilization, casts his eye back over the pages of recorded history, he will find that the record of progress can be written in a single sentence. It is the development of liberty under law. Liberty and law are the two words upon whose true and faithful exposition all training for citizenship must rest. He who truly understands the meaning of liberty and the meaning of law, and the relation of one to the other, is ready to face his full duty as an American citizen.

"An intelligent citizenship, which is also good citizenship, implies, however, much more than a knowledge of fundamental principles, indispensable as that knowledge is. Good citizenship implies a habit of will by which the individual instinctively conforms his action in concrete cases to the abstract principles in which he professes belief."

The power of self-deception kept many of the worst citizens from realizing that they fell short of perfection in any degree, President Butler thought.

"They go through all the forms," he continued, "and recite all the formulas of the creed of respectability and of duty. They dole out a little something to charity now and then, with quite the air of a martyr going to the stake for his beliefs. What more can be asked of them?

"The answer is instant and imperative: Make some show of genuine human feeling. Give some expression of honest human sympathy. Offer some real sacrifice for the common interest and the common good. Dwell upon something other than one's own physical comfort and material welfare, and lend a hearty hand to the huge task of making more human beings intelligent, property holding, and free from the harassing and in large part unnecessary cares which now torment them.

"If the decent men and women of America would begin to-morrow to do the things which their private beliefs and their public professions require, the sum total of the world's comfort and happiness would be marvelously increased before sunset. Let us put a bounty on good citizenship by giving to it great influence, by rendering it high honor, and by holding it in incomparable esteem. Let these standards be set early in the home and in the school. Before all else, keep the inspiring maxim, liberty under law, before every American child, and as he grows in power of appreciation see that he understands what it means and involves.

"The perpetuation of democracy depends upon the existence in the people of that habit of will which is justice. Liberty under law is the process for attaining justice which has thus far been most successful among civilized men. The call to citizenship is a call to the exercise of liberty under law, a call to the limitation of liberty by law, and a call to the pursuit of justice, not only for one's self, but for others."

During the day session W. W. Hastings of Springfield, Mass., urged these precepts:

"No teacher with round shoulders and a hacking cough should be permitted in the schoolroom."

"The city is responsible for lower mentality and a weakened body in an increasing number of school children."

"Give the physical body its education as you feed the brain its words and figures."

[illegible] general for a more [illegible] schoolrooms, both from the standpoint of the pupil and teacher.

FERRY RIGHTS TRUSTEED.

East River Companies Turn Over Holdings to Knickerbocker Trust.

The New York Terminal Company transferred yesterday to the Knickerbocker Trust Company by a deed of trust "for $1 and other valuable considerations," title to the land, riparian rights, and boats of the Grand Street, Broome Street, and Roosevelt Street ferries, and the East River ferry houses, together with the franchises of the Brooklyn Ferry Company, which has beentaken over by the New oYrk Terminal Company.

A mortgage for $6,500,000 for fifty years at 6 per cent. interest was also recorded by the New York Terminal Company to the Knickerbocker Trust Company, trustee, on the land at the foot of Broome, Grand, and Roosevelt Streets on the East River, and also on land in Kings County, franchises, boats, and other property.

It was explained last night by one of the Directors of the Terminal Company that these transactions were necessary to straighten out the complicated affairs of the Brooklyn Ferry Company, the New York Terminal Company, and the Knickerbocker Trust Company. They involve, he said, no new transaction. The Knickerbocker was the trustee of the bondholders of the old Brooklyn Ferry Company, and their property was mortgaged to the trust company. In order to carry out the terms of the agreements between the two companies and to protect the mortgage, it became necessary to record this new mortgage.

This action has been taken at this time on account of the progress made in the negotiations with the city to take over the property of the Terminal Company and to operate the ferries. The Sinking Fund Commission agreed at its last sitting to the purchase by the city of such parts of the Terminal Company's holdings in Brooklyn as were necessary for the maintenance of the ferries at such a price as the Controller might approve. With such an agreement within sight it has been thought advisable to set in proper legal form the various claims on the Terminal Company's property.

CALL TONG WAR ALL TALK.

The Police Laugh at Fears of an Outbreak.

To be on the safe side rather than from any fear of an outbreak of the rival tongs, the heavy police guard, established several days ago in Chinatown, will be kept there for at least a few days longer, but the patrolmen on duty laugh at the talk of impending war.

"It's all talk," said a patrolman on duty in Doyers Street yesterday afternoon, "the chief effect of it being to scare the Chinese."

"People ask me if it is dangerous to come in here. Of course, there isn't any danger, but all these stories about a war between the hostile societies is hurting business, and making the Chinese restless and dissatisfied."

It was said at Capt. Galvin's office in the Elizabeth Street Police Station last night that no outbreak had occurred, and none was now feared. Whatever danger of disturbance had been removed for the present, the police said.

Him Hing, the Chinese launryman of 11 Pell Street, arrested on Monday charged with carrying a loaded revolver, was held in $500 bail yesterday by Magistrate Crane in the Tombs Court for trial. He had nothing to say in court.

Because of lack of evidence the nine Chinamen arrested in a raid on a supposed gambling house in Doyers Street on Monday were discharged by Magistrate Crane. Detectives Miller and Nammack of the Elizabeth Street Police Station said they had no evidence of gambling except that dominoes and $19.75 in money were found on a table about which the men had apparently been seated.

GRIEVING MOTHER TOOK GAS.

Seven Children Dead, Last One Dying, She Tried to End Her Life.

Overwhelmed with grief by the death of seven of her children in the last six months, and believing that her only surviving child was on his deathbed, Mrs. Annie Schwartz of 270 Munroe Street attempted suicide early yesterday by inhaling illuminating gas.

As Harry Schwartz, the husband, left home to go to Beth Israel Hospital to the bedside of the dying son, 3-year-old Jacob, Mrs. Schwartz was so despondent that he asked his friend, Benjamin Shapiro, a fellow-tenant, to keep watch on her. He had only got out of the house when the woman closed tight the windows, sat down in a chair, and placed in her mouth a tube connected with the gas jet.

Shapiro smelled the gas, ran into the room, and after snatching the tube out of her mouth summoned Policeman Krober of the Delancey Street Station. The latter walked the woman around the house and by the time Dr. Wilson of Gouverneur Hospital arrived she had nearly recovered. The woman was taken to the Essex Market Court and after Magistrate Breen had heard her story he discharged her.

"My children have died one after the other," she sobbed. "No sooner would we get through burying one than another would fall ill and die. Seven of my boys and girls, from 10 years old down to a few days, have passed away in the last six months, leaving me only one child."

She promised not to repeat her attempt at suicide.

JOHN KELLY'S AUTO WRECKED.

He Had Started Some Friends Home in It—Chauffeur Locked Up.

Policeman Clancy of the West 100th Street Station, on duty in Columbus Avenue, near 110th Street, was startled early yesterday morning by a high-powered automobile, which passed him at great speed. Soon after the car disappeared the policeman heard a crash. Running forward to investigate he found a man, who said he was chauffeur for "Honest John" Kelly, the gambler, bending over the wreck of an auto in Amsterdam Avenue, a few blocks further up. The chauffeur said he was Richard Cullen of 263 West Fifty-fourth Street.

There was no one else about the car, but a short distance away under a telegraph pole the policeman saw two men and two women talking earnestly together.

"There comes a cop; let's beat it," Clancy says he heard one of the women say. They did "beat it."

Mr. Kelly was notified of the disaster to his car, and went to the scene of the accident in another automobile owned by a garage at Broadway and Seventy-fifth Street. He said he had ordered the chauffeur to take some of his friends home in his automobile, which cost $10,000. Then he proceeded to gather up the remains.

Cullen, the chauffeur, was locked up in the West 100th Street Police Station charged with intoxication.

SCARED BY A STRAY DOG.

Policeman's Uniform Torn in a Fight with an Overheated Mongrel.

A stray mongrel dog caused some excitement yesterday afternoon by running along the boardwalk at Far Rockaway, frothing at the mouth and snapping at people as it went. A cry of "Mad dog!" was raised, and the crowd scattered in all directions. Policeman Stegmuller of the Far Rockaway Station pursued the dog and cornered it at Rue St. Felix and Broadway, and after a fight with it in which he had his coat torn in three places, he killed the dog with a shot.

While the policeman was chasing it two other dogs crossed its path and were bitten. They belong to Dr. J. H. Frankenburg of Greenwood Avenue and Herman Schrader of the Waldorf Hotel, 161 Central Avenue, Far Rockaway. Both animals were placed under observation last night.

CITIZENS' UNION ASKS PLACE ON THE TICKET

Wants a Column in Which to Put the Names of Candidates It Indorses.

NO STRAIGHT-OUT FUSION

Organization to Begin the Enrollment of Voters Who Are in Sympathy with Its Policies.

The Citizens' Union wants a column of its own on the municipal ballot this Fall. It will not enter into any old-fashioned fusion arrangement on the basis of getting a mite for its members when it comes to nominations. Its own column on the ballot will be filled mostly with names picked from the Democratic or Republican column, dependent on which party candidates in the various districts meet with the approval of the organization. All this was made clear in a statement issued yesterday at the Citizens' Union headquarters. It follows in part:

> At the coming election the union will have in each Assembly district a militant group of workers and will actively support at the polls the best candidate for each office to be filled, and these candidates will probably be indicated in a separate column on the ballot.
>
> The selection will be based upon a careful investigation of all candidates proposed or nominated for each office, and in cases where no satisfactory candidate has been nominated the union will itself put a fit candidate in the field. The facts on which the union bases its judgment will be made public in each case.
>
> It is hoped that the non-partisan Committee of One Hundred will secure the nomination of suitable candidates for Mayor, Controller, and President of the Board of Aldermen, but groups of independent citizens in each municipal court and Assembly district must take steps to insure the nomination of candidates for Municipal Court Judge, Assemblyman and Alderman.
>
> For this purpose the Union asks the co-operation of all independent voters throughout the greater city in securing the renomination of all good men now in office and a union of all possible political forces against unfit candidates.

It was announced that the union would begin at once an enrollment-at-large of all voters, regardless of party, who are in sympathy with its principles and aims in the coming municipal election. With this end in view, such persons are asked to send name and address to the headquarters of the union, at 252 Fourth Avenue.

It was also announced that information regarding candidates would be received by William Jay Schieffelin, Chairman of the union, and that contributions to aid in the work should be sent to the Treasurer, Isaac N. Seligman, at the same address.

The union still holds to the principle on which it was founded—that party lines should cut no figure in municipal elections, and that only the fitness of the candidates for various offices should be considered. In order to spread information regarding men now in office, the union will supplement the work of its Committee on Legislation which recently issued a report containing information regarding the official conduct of the men representing this city in both houses of the Legislature, with similar reports dealing with the records of Aldermen now in office, as well as outgoing Judges of the Municipal Court.

One new line of work the union will undertake this year will be the investigation of the records of candidates nominated or mentioned for office by both parties and by the independent bodies in the municipal campaign, and the publication of facts thus assembled.

The statement issued yesterday was interpreted as indicating that the union would confine its nominating or indorsing activities mainly to what is known as district nominees and would merely commend without placing in the column it may get on the ballot candidates for offices voted for by the entire city. It was announced that while not entering upon any fusion arrangement of the old style, the union would make every effort to assert itself in connection with the choice of fusion candidates and would strive to exercise the same censorship over independent nominations as it will in the case of regular party nominees.

CONGO REFORMS WE ASKED.

Belgium Publishes Correspondence Regarding Recognition of Annexation.

BRUSSELS, July 6.—A Gray Book, containing the history of the negotiations between the United States and Great Britain and Belgium, with reference to the annexation of the Congo Independent State, has just been published. It shows that the American Government refused to recognize the annexation of the State by Belgium unless the condition of the natives was improved and their lands returned to them. It also contains a statement from the Belgium Government of its willingness to fulfill the agreement signed in 1891 dealing with arbitration.

The Government promised that the concession system would be reformed and that a certain amount of land would be placed on sale shortly, pointing out that lands already had been given back to the natives, and finally declared that it was ready to negotiate a new treaty on the lines of that of 1891, assuring the United States of its entire good will, and expressing the hope that the American Government would recognize the immensity of the task, which was only in its infancy.

INJURED ON BOLDT'S YACHT.

Two Engineers Badly Scalded and May Die.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., July 6.—Samuel Porter and Guy Zoller, engineers on the yacht of George C. Boldt of the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, which has been cruising on the St. Lawrence River, were brought here to-day, fatally injured by an accident on board the yacht last night.

Two tubes of the boiler blew out, and both men were scalded by escaping steam.

EASY WAY TO MAKE MONEY.

McCone Says Reis Got It from Him by False Pretenses.

A young man who said he was Richard Reis of 149 East Eighty-first Street was locked up last night at Police Headquarters by Detectives Sussillo and Hunt, accused of having found a new and easy, but illegal, way of making money. Alexander McCone of 152 West 130th Street, the complainant, told how Reis had made money from him.

Mr. McCone advertised that he had a rooming house to sell. He got a letter signed Richard Reis & Co., 206 East Sixty-seventh Street, saying that the company would dispose of his property in fifteen days for a commission of 5 per cent. Mr. McCone wrote asking Reis to call, receiving a card in reply saying that if Mr. McCone would send $4 as an advance the matter would be taken up.

Mr. McCone sent the $4, got a receipt for it, and then waited the fifteen days. He waited a few days after that, and still no one appeared to take his property. Then he went to 206 East Sixty-seventh Street. It is a barber shop.

He took his case to the police, was advised to put in a catch ad., and thus Reis was trapped at Lenox Avenue and 125th Street last night. He had on his person a receipt book showing, according to the stubs, that he had given $4 receipts to some forty-five persons between March 15 and June 5. The charge now against him is obtaining money under fraudulent pretenses.

JUDGE D. M. MASSIE RETURNS.

Has Been Taking Testimony for Spanish Claims Commission in Cuba.

One of the passengers on the Ward liner Saratoga from Havana yesterday was Judge D. M. Massie, who for the last seven years has been in Havana and other Cuban cities taking testimony and acting as referee for the Spanish Treaty Claims Commission, appointed by President McKinley to settle the claims growing out of the destruction of the Maine, &c. The commission has about completed its work, and Judge Massie finished taking testimony on June 30.

Judge Massie said the work of the commission was to investigate 542 claims made against Spain after the close of the war, and which claims were assumed by the United States at the signing of the Treaty of Paris. These claims—of which 142 were for loss of life in connection with the disaster on the Maine—aggregated $61,000,000. All but five of the claimants—except those in connection with the loss of the Maine—were located in Cuba. After taking testimony the commission decided seventy cases in favor of the claimants and made awards aggregating $1,000,000. Thirty cases are still undecided and the other 442 were thrown out for various reasons.

As soon as the thirty cases are passed on by the commission a report will be made to Congress and an appropriation will be made from the Treasury to settle the accounts.

STATEN ISLAND'S INJURED.

Independence Day Victims Include a Child Who Chewed a Torpedo.

Staten Island began last night to report on casualties due to the Fourth, which really was celebrated on the 5th.

Ten-year-old Elsie Relyea of 145 Bodine Street, West Brighton, S. I., whose dress was set on fire by a firecracker in front of her home on Monday night, died yesterday morning in the hospital of the burns she suffered.

Two-year-old Gustave Daeszler of Sherman Avenue, Tompkinsville, while out in the street on a leisurely tour of discovery and adventure yesterday morning, found a small round object in the road. It had around it a piece of white paper, and he judged that it was a piece of candy. At any rate, he decided to take a chance on it. It was a torpedo, and it went off in his mouth, loosening such teeth as he had.

In Montgomery Avenue, Tompkinsville, six-year-old Willie Quarles, colored, was out looking around early yesterday morning, and found a giant firecracker in the street. It had no fuse on it that he could see, but he touched a lighted piece of punk he carried to the blackened end to see if it was still good. It was, and Willie Quarles went to St. Vincent's Hospital. He will lose the sight of one eye.

NO MORE USE FOR SCHOOL 55.

Its Light Shut Off, It Will Be Closed—Mr. Winthrop Off for Europe.

Holding its last meeting for the Summer yesterday afternoon, the Board of Education re-elected its Executive Committee and empowered it to transact the business of the board until September. The board met yesterday instead of on the regular day next week, as President Winthrop, who sails for Europe to-day, to be gone about a month, wished to be present.

The board adopted a resolution looking to the closing of School 55, at 140 West Twentieth Street, near Sixth Avenue, because of its having been almost surrounded by factories and high business buildings, shutting out the light. The children could easily be accommodated in near-by schools, Supt. Maxwell explained.

The board was in executive session a short while considering whether or not certain of its employes should be suspended pending the filing of charges against them.

Following the adjournment the members gathered about President Winthrop, wishing him bon voyage.

CITY BREVITIES.

The Board of Education received news from Helsingfors, Finland, yesterday that the training ship Newport had arrived there on Saturday with every one on board well.

Charles Anderson, whose home was 100 Washington Street, Hoboken, was drowned yesterday while attempting to board the Staten Island Shipbuilding Company's tug W. A. Schneider in West Brighton, S. I. He evidently struck his head against something which stunned him.

George Fisher, chauffeur for H. M. Flagler, was arrested for speeding at 126th Street and Lenox Avenue yesterday while taking Mrs. Flagler, her maid, and a companion downtown from Mamaroneck, where the Flaglers have a Summer home. In the Harlem Court he was held in $300 bail for trial.

The exhibit of the Committee on Congestion of Population in New York opened yesterday at Public School 21, in Mott Street, and was inspected by hundreds of Italians from the heart of Little Italy, in which the school is situated.

HARD TIME FINDING WORKERS FOR HAWAII

Island Farm Jobs Aplenty, but the Unemployed Here Don't Want to Go There.

HAVE TO GET PORTUGUESE

Government Agents Now Abroad Recruiting Laborers—Men Who Started from Here Deserted on the Way.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The unemployed of the great cities, according to the belief of the Department of Commerce and Labor, are not desirous of obtaining work. This conviction has been forced upon the department officials through the failure of the Territorial Government of Hawaii to obtain laborers in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, and other populous centres.

Some time ago the Hawaiian Legislature passed a law authorizing the enlisting and importation into the islands of farm laborers. The alien contract labor laws were practically suspended, so extreme was the need of the planters and agriculturists of the Territory. Agents were sent to the United States to organize parties of idle men who were railing against the economic system that prevented them from getting employment.

These agents made their way first to New York. They were authorized to offer full fare from that city to San Francisco to every one who cared to work, with transportation by boat from the Golden Gate to Honolulu. All of the recruits were assured of work at good wages on the various farms and plantations, once they arrived in the islands.

Several bands of workers were gathered up. In every case it was found that they were not honest in their desire to gain employment. The final illustration came about three weeks ago, when the agents rounded up several score of supposed workers willing to go to Hawaii, and started them across the continent. When the train on which they had left New York reached San Francisco only three of the original party remained. The others had dropped of at various stations along the route.

Agents in other cities reported similar conditions, and the immigration authorities of Hawaii were in despar. It has now been decided to give up all hope of getting American citizens who will take up an agricultural life, and look to Europe for relief. Accordingly, the agents have gone abroad and devote themselves almost entirely to gaining Portuguese farmers, who are said to make most admirable citizens, and who are thrifty, honest, and industrious.

The experiment with the Portuguese has been tried before in the islands, and with success. As a result, recruiting in the old country is comparatively easy, and nearly enough workers to fill a modern steamship have signified their intention of going to the former kingdom of Queen Liliuokalani. As soon as the agents have got their full quota together the department will send an Inspector and a surgeon to Lisbon to make the necessary inspection of the party.

According to a high official of the department, thousands of laborers are needed in the island. The Chinese are leaving by the hundreds, as are the Japanese, and, when they once leave the ports of the territory are closed to their return. This opens up a wide market for labor, which, apparently, cannot be supplied from the United States, although every large city in this country complains of its army of unemployed.

MISSING AFTER ACCIDENT.

Young Bank Clerk of White Plains Strangely Disappears.

WHITE PLAINS, July 6.—Harold C. Cox, a bookkeeper in the Home Savings Bank of White Plains, has not been seen since Sunday afternoon. On that afternoon, Cox, with his friends, Chauncey Griffin and Albert Kroegar, started for a carriage drive. When near Kensico Lake the horse ran away and threw the boys from the carriage. Young Cox was thrown to the ground, striking the side of his head. It is feared this has temporarily affected his mind.

Cox was well liked by his employers and companions. He has a bank account and recently purchased some building lots in the Scarsdale Estates. Examination shows he has not drawn any of his money from the bank. It is said he did not have more than $3 with him when he disappeared.

When Secretary H. S. Hamilton stopped at the Home Savings Bank at 9 o'clock on Monday he met young Cox there. The young man asked if he should go for the bank's mail and was told to do so. After returning to the bank he said he had some blank cartridges to shoot and asked for the loan of a revolver belonging to the bank. Mr. Hamilton consented to this, whereupon Cox drew the cartridges from the revolver, as they contained bullets, and cast them aside for the blanks. He left the building and has not been seen since.

BOYS SHOT FROM AMBUSH.

Brothers Badly Wounded While Walking on Shore Road Near Weehawken.

William and Alfred Kirschner, 12 and 9 years old, whose parents live at 380 Spring Street, West Hoboken, were the victims of a mysterious shooting yesterday afternoon on the Shore Road, near Weehawken. The boys had been swimming in the Hudson River near the Weehawken Ferry.

After their swim they were walking home along the Shore Road at the foot of the Palisades, when they say two shots were fired from up in the trees toward the top of the Palisades, and both boys were hit. They were taken to the North Hudson Hospital, where shot almost as large as buckshot were taken from their wounds.

William had the thumb, two fingers, and part of his left hand so torn that the hand had to be amputated. Another shot struck near his left eye, blinding it and so injuring the right eye that its sight may also be lost.

Alfred was shot in the left shoulder and neck, and it is feared he may not recover. The boys dragged themselves half a mile after being wounded to Baldwin Avenue, where they got help.

The police scoured the woods, but failed to find any one with a shotgun.

HELPLESS SLOOP TOWED IN.

The Dandy's Rudder Snapped in a Blow—Rescued by Sloop's Crew.

The Dandy, a motor sloop owned by William Suric of Rockaway Beach, was on the way back to Rockaway Point from Staten Island, with a load of gasoline yesterday afternoon. When about three miles off Manhattan Beach the rudder snapped. A heavy wind was blowing.

On the boat were Capt. Charles Johnson and Lewis Stenton, the mate. They attempted to drop anchor, but the Dandy began to pitch dangerously, and Johnson and Stenton ran up an American flag ensign down.

Alfred Simon, a clerk in the Oriental Hotel at Manhattan Beach, saw the distress signal at 5 o'clock and telephoned to the Manhattan Beach bathhouse, where were stationed Henry Platorsch and David Hooks, life savers. They tried to get out to the Dandy, but were driven back by the wind when they had gone out less than half a mile.

Simon had also telephoned to Martin Brothers, boat owners at the foot of East Twenty-first Street, Sheepshead Bay, who sent out their auxiliary sloop, the Orthyia, Capt. William Cowdrick. With him were James Martin, one of the owners; Sergt. John Whitworth of the Sheepshead Bay Station, and Policeman Henry Ague.

Ague fell into the water while trying to throw a rope to the Dandy. He was pulled aboard with boat hooks. The Dandy was towed to its destination by the Orthyia. It was not damaged.

FEAR FOR MISSIONARY SHIP.

Last Seen Struggling in Heavy Storm —Twenty Aboard.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—The schooner Monterey, Capt. Anderson, arriving today from Kuskowin, Alaska, reports the possible loss of the missionary schooner J. F. Abler and a score of lives. The Abler sailed from Seattle on June 3 with a crew of eight men and twelve or thirteen passengers.

When the Monterey arrived at Bahel, whither the Abler was bound, Capt. Anderson was informed by Indian trappers that the missionary vessel had last been seen struggling in a heavy storm at sea. The Monterey sailed up and down the coast, but saw no sign of the Abler. Capt. Anderson says it is possible that the missing vessel took refuge at Bristol Bay.

Bayonne Ban on Sigel Pictures.

Mayor Pierre Garven of Bayonne, N. J., instructed Chief of Police John Yore last night not to permit an exhibition of moving pictures depicting the murder of Elsie Sigel. The Mayor declared such pictures would have a bad effect on the morals of children. Several exhibitions which were to have been given last night were stopped and the proprietors warned.

MURDERS A WOMAN, WASHES UP NEAR BY

Slayer Pays a Nickel at Corner Stand to Do Away with Evidences of His Crime.

STOPS TO TALK TO FRIENDS

Killing Done for Robbery at Scene of Marie Barberi's Vengeance—Victim Not Yet Identified.

In the hallway of the crowded tenement at 436 East Thirteenth Street a woman was set upon early yesterday morning and after a desperate struggle was killed. The man who is believed to have murdered her wandered through the house leaving blood-stained footsteps as he went, and was seen by a night watchman to speak to a knot of young men, apparently waiting for him on the street.

Then he went to a fruit and soda water stand at the corner of First Avenue and Thirteenth Street, obtained permission to wash up, and went his way with no one molesting him. The police so far have not succeeded in identifying the woman, and have no information about the man. They hope that some information may yet be forthcoming as to the latter from Filipo Cali, the son of a saloon keeper in business in the tenement house, and Capt. Carey, head of the homicide Bureau, declared yesterday that as two men had seen the supposed murderer, a description of him had been obtained which should lead to his arrest.

The murder was discovered by a small milk boy, Morris Gross, of 302 Second Street. He was driving around with his brother Fred, and about 3 o'clock yesterday morning got off the wagon to run with some milk bottles down the long, dark hall. When he got to the foot of the stairs he tripped over the woman's body. By the light of his lantern he saw blood spattered about the walls, and with a yell he turned and fled to the street.

He found Policemen Cohen and Scherer of the Fifth Street Police Station near by and told them what he had seen. They telephoned to the station and Capt. Morris, with Detectives Hackett and Rocco of the precinct and Detective Boyle of the Central Office hurried to the house.

They found the woman huddled up at the foot of the stairs. Her head was battered in and her face was so bruised that it was almost unrecognizable. The left jaw was broken, her clothes were torn and one shoe was missing. There could be no doubt that she had fought hard and that her assailant, perhaps at last as anxious to get away as she was, had ended the matter by a smashing blow on her head with a blunt instrument.

That one object of the assault had been money seemed proved by the fact that the woman's stockings had been torn down to the heel, and that 2 cents were found near her body, as though they had been overlooked. The woman seemed to be about 35 years old, 5 feet 4 inches in height, and weighed about 150 pounds. Her complexion was fair and her hair black. She was dressed cheaply but neatly in a white shirtwaist and a black and white checked skirt. Her hat was a black straw trimmed with red roses and black ribbon.

Dr. Rutledge of Bellevue Hospital, who was summoned, declared that the woman had been dead about two hours. The police noticed blood-stained footsteps leading away from the body. They traced them along the long passage leading to the back of the building and found that they went both to a door on the right, which led to the poolroom in the rear of a saloon kept by Biagio Cali, and to the door opening into the yard.

From the yard the police were able to look into the poolroom and saw a man stretched asleep on the billiard table. Policeman Sherer found the door into the poolroom unlocked, and, going in, saw that the blood-stained marks led directly to the table and seemed to stop there. Whoever had come in had stood about a little near the table.

There were no marks leading out of the room, but as they had been growing fainter and fainter the police assumed that the blood on the man's shoes had by that time been absorbed. A marked peculiarity of the tracks, however, was that they had evidently been made by ribbed rubber outing shoes.

Sherer awoke the man on the billiard table, who said he was Filipo Cali, son of the saloon keeper. He professed entire ignorance of the murder, and said:

"I heard a noise outside, but it had nothing to do with me. So I just went to sleep again. We closed up at 12:30 o'clock."

The police examined Filipo's clothing and found that he was wearing ordinary leather shoes, which they confiscated. On his shirt were some stains partly washed out, which might have been blood or wine stains. So they took the shirt away, too. They called Biagio Cali, the young man's father, from his home, 442 East Thirteenth Street, and questioned him. He professed to be able to tell nothing of the occurrence, but both he and his son were taken to the station.

Detective Rocco meanwhile had come across Simon Brady of 53 Jackson Street, a night watchman, who said he had seen a man come out of the hallway about 1 o'clock and walk east to Avenue A. There he met five men. He talked to them for a while and then turned back to First Avenue. Brady noticed that his hands were bloody.

The man went to a fruit and soda water stand at the corner of First Avenue and Thirteenth Street and there washed his hands and face. He then hurried east again along Thirteenth Street.

At the fruit stand Tony Delucca, son of the proprietor, corroborated Brady's story. He said that he had been asleep in the stand, and that Vincenzio Galario of 143 Allen Street was looking after customers for him, when a man about 5 feet 4½ inches tall, in a dark suit, with a crushed-in hat, had approached and offered 5 cents for permission to wash his blood-stained hands and face.

"Been in a fight?" asked Galario, but the man said nothing. When he had finished, however, he asked:

"Is there any more blood on my face?"

Galario told him that there was, and after he had removed all traces of it the man hurried away. The only discrepancy between the stories of Delucca and Galario was that one thought the broken hat was a bowler and the other a Panama.

Coroner Shrady conducted a preliminary inquiry into the murder yesterday. The police hunted high and low through the tenement house, but failed to find any trace of a pair of ribbed rubber shoes or of the instrument with which the woman must have been killed. There was some talk of a woman having been seen drinking in the neighborhood during the evening with an Italian, who was wearing such footgear, and it was stated that they had been in Cali's saloon.

This caused the Coroner to hold Filipo Cali in $2,000 bail as a material witness. He does not believe the young man is guilty of the crime, but is convinced that he has not told him all he knows of it. It is possible that the murderer entered the poolroom to speak to him after the crime was committed, or he may have stumbled in there in the dark, losing his way in a strange house.

The neighborhood is an Italian one, notorious in the annals of sordid crime. Just in front of the hallway where this murder took place Marie Barberi some years ago cut the throat of Domenico Cataldo for refusing to marry her.

NOW THINK LING SAILED.

Police Ask Foreign Police to Search the Rickmers.

Believing that Leon Ling, the alleged slayer of Elsie Sigel, shipped at Philadelphia between June 10 and 12 on the steamer Helene Rickmers bound for Itosaki, Japan, the police cabled yesterday to several of the larger cities on the Mediterranean coast and to points along the Suez Canal, and even along the Indian Ocean, asking police agents to make a thorough search of the vessel for the Chinaman.

Capt. Carey, in charge of the Homicide Bureau at Police Headquarters, expressed great surprise yesterday when asked about the cablegrams sent after the Rickmers, saying he could not imagine how the news that the police were on this trail got out. But he admitted the truth of the assertion that he and those working with him on the case attached more weight to this clue of the Rickmers than to any yet in their hands for tracing Ling.

The Helene Rickmers was last reported at Tarifa, a seaport town of Spain, fifteen miles southwest of Gibraltar, on June 26.

Reports were started yesterday that Ling had also been murdered by the Sigel girl's slayer, but the police attached no importance to them.

SON HELD AS HIS SLAYER.

Ex-Policeman Found Dead in Bed with All His Ribs Broken.

Thomas Clinton, a widower, 53 years old, was found dead in bed at his home, where he lived with his son Hugh, at 317 East Seventy-seventh Street, late on Monday night. According to the police and Coroner, the elder Clinton was beaten to death. All his ribs were broken, and his body was a mass of bruises. The son, charged with murder, was locked up in the Tombs.

The dead man was a carpenter. He was once on the police force. He had lived with his son on the third floor of the house in Seventy-seventh Street, an old-fashioned tenement, since the death of his wife several years ago.

Dr. William Lustig of 322 East Seventy-seventh Street was summoned to the Clinton home by telephone on Monday night. He told the police he did not know who called him up. When he reached the room he found Clinton lying on the bed, nude, with the son seated at a table. The young man, he said, was intoxicated, and the physician called in Policeman Fitzpatrick of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station.

The young man was clad only in an undershirt and trousers, and when asked where his shirt was he replied that he had sent it that day to a laundry. Later he admitted he had thrown it into the yard, and when the police found it it was covered with blood.

Near the dead man was an iron bar, which, the police think, was used to beat the carpenter to death. Neighbors of the Clintons say that the father and son frequently quarreled. Apparently both were heavy drinkers. A dozen empty whisky bottles were found in the bedroom. The prisoner, when taken before Magistrate O'Connor in the Yorkville Police Court, was in such a state that he could not make a coherent statement.

The police established that robbery was not the motive of the murderer. One hundred dollars in cash and three bankbooks were found in the room. In the yard back of the house were evidences that a fierce fight had occurred. Most of the neighbors were away from home on Monday, and none could be found who had seen or heard any quarreling.

When arraigned before Coroner Shrady the prisoner said his father had fallen several days ago and that he was subject to fits.

PLAINT OF ELLIS ISLAND MEN.

So Many Aliens to Deport That They Can't Eat at Home, They Say.

The deportation staff at Ellis Island are complaining that owing to the large increase in the number of aliens being sent back they have to work from twelve to sixteen hours daily for $850 a year.

Last week the number of deportations was 600. To-day 278 aliens will be sent back to Europe. They are distributed among these liners: Argentina, 90; Estonia, 53; Lucania, 41; Oceanic, 10; Pennsylvania, 84.

The deportation officers on the Lucania finished their work at 9:30 o'clock last night, and those on the Pennsylvania, at Hoboken, at 10:30 o'clock. They had all begun their duties as early as 6:30 A. M. In addition to the long hours waiting at stations for late trains arriving with immigrants they say that, as they cannot get home, the little money they earn is absorbed by having to buy meals.

600 SCOW TRIMMERS STRIKE.

The Notorious "Paul Kelly" at Their Head—Contractors Turn Down Union.

The 600 union men who trim the garbage scows that operate around Manhattan Island, are on strike, and at their head is Paul Vaccarelli, better known as Paul Kelly, the east side gang leader. Kelly is not a garbage worker, but he is a union delegate. The 600 men went on strike yesterday morning because Giuseppe Marone and John De Marco, the two men who have all the Manhattan scow trimming contracts, would not recognize their union.

This union is of recent origin. It now has headquarters at First Avenue and 107th Street. The scow-trimmers trim the refuse that is dumped on the scows from the carts, incidentally picking out and throwing aside any tin can, shoe, or other stray article that may be sold. Practically all the scow-trimmers are Italians.

$60,000 ESTATE NOW $312.

Mand's Alleged Grandson Had Sued for a Share in It.

The question as to the value of the estate of the late George Mand, who died recently in the Bronx, came up again before Surrogate Cohalan yesterday, and George Francis Murphy, a Deacon in a Bronx church, who had taken out letters of administration on the estate, told how it had dwindled from $60,000, supposed to be its value, to about $310, which he said was all that is now left of the estate left by the decedent, who was his grandfather.

Murphy was examined in a proceeding for an accounting brought by George F. Mand, who said he was a grandson of George Mand, and a son of Louis Mand, an Inspector in the Department of Sewers and one of Richard Croker's bodyguards. George F. Mand brought proceedings in court to prove his legitimacy, which was denied by the other relatives of his grandfather, and was successful in his action. He followed this up by bringing proceedings against Murphy for an accounting in order to obtain his share of the estate.

The accounts were submitted by Murphy, which showed that the estate of Mand consisted of $312.70, of which he had received but $2.70 that was on the decedent's person when he died. In connection with his grandfather's last illness and the funeral he had paid out $203, and there were outstanding bills of about $1,020. He testified that George Mand, prior to his death, had deeded property to his sisters and had given away all his personal property to brothers and sisters.

Surrogate Cohalan reserved decision as to the approval or disapproval of the accounting.

SAY WOMAN SHOT AT PRIEST.

Police Find in Miss Thompson's Handbag a Loaded Revolver.

BURLINGTON, Vt., July 6.—An attempt to assassinate the Rev. Father Joseph Gillis, a priest connected with St. Mary's Cathedral, was made to-day as he was on his way to celebrate mass at St. Mary's Academy. To-night the police arrested Miss Beatrice Thompson, an artist, aged 40 years, of 78 Loomis Street, charging her with assault with intent to kill.

The woman according to the Rev. Father Gillis, came out of her house as he was passing through Loomis Street and fired a revolver at him, the bullet passing through an umbrella which he was carrying.

Father Gillis immediately notified the police, and the house where the woman lived was watched throughout the day and evening. To-night at 11:30 Miss Thompson returned, and she was immediately placed under arrest. She took the matter coolly and demanded the warrant, that she might read it.

"You are getting me into an awful scrape; are you sure I did it?" was her first remark to the policeman.

When a woman was called to search her Miss Thompson observed that "we do not have pockets nowadays." A policeman seized her handbag and found in it a .32 calibre revolver, fully loaded, and a quantity of cartridges.

The police say that Miss Thompson a year ago wrote a letter to the Mayor of the city making charges against priests and nuns which were found to be unwarranted.

Whitridge Says It's None of the Public's Business What New Securities Are Issued.

$900,000 DEFICIT IN SIGHT

Receiver Won't Estimate the Value of the Stock—Public Pays for It, Says Chairman Willcox.

Yesterday's hearing before Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission on the reorganization plan prepared for the Third Avenue Railroad developed that on the figures of Receiver Whitridge a deficit of approximately $900,000 on the interest of the proposed income bond issue would have to be made up before there would be any earning capacity behind the stock, on which a four-million-dollar assessment is called.

The hearing also brought from Mr. Whitridge the assertion that in his opinion the public had no interest in the amount of securities issued in the reorganization, and from John M. Bowers, counsel for the Third Avenue Bondholders' Committee, the contention that in cases of reorganization the principle that the Public Service Commission must pass upon the securities offered does not apply.

For two hours Mr. Bowers and Mr. Whitridge presented their case, the latter going under cross-examination by Chairman Willcox and one of two attorneys representing stockholders of the road. Mr. Bowers spoke first, presenting the legal case for the reorganizers. He argued that the plan of reorganization followed the principles laid down in the Erie reorganization plan, in reducing the fixed charges against the property by having the holders of old mortgage bonds accept an income bond instead of a security involving a fixed charge on the property.

Mr. Bowers presented in his argument the basis of the exchange of the new securities for the old by means of this table:

Old bonds, principal and interest	$40,640,000
Stock	16,000,000
Total	$56,640,000
To be issued:
Refunding mortgage bonds	$15,516,800
Adjustment bonds	31,045,000
Stock	20,000,000
Total	$66,561,800
Difference	9,921,800
To be used to raise cash of	7,500,000

The refunding mortgage and adjustment bonds in the tabulation are those which it is proposed to issue for the old consolidated bonds, plus $6,000,000 of the refunding bonds, and $1,000,000 of the adjustment bonds, which are to be sold by the syndicate. Mr. Bowers said the plan appeared to be the only one under which the cash required could be raised, and that any other plan would involve wiping out the stock. Finally he asserted that the Public Service Commission was not called upon to approve the recapitalization.

The Receiver's Views.

Then Mr. Whitridge was called. He said first that he wanted to answer the criticism that the Third Avenue plan involved stock watering and overcapitalization. Inasmuch as the Third Avenue's existing consolidated bonds were sold for 97 and interest to their original holders and the road's stock for cash in part at $100 a share and in part at $150 a share, there was no water in the road's capitalization under the old conditions, and could not be under the organization, since the plan proposed the exchange of new for existing securities, saving such part of the new capital as is to be sold for cash.

Mr. Whitridge said he based the estimates submitted by him to the bondholders' committee as to the earnings of the property on the income of the Third Avenue system in the December and March quarters—the two worst of the year. The net for December, after paying the interest on the existing $5,000,000 first mortgage bonds, a small amount of taxes, the interest on the receiver's certificates, and on about $6,000,000 additional of underlying liens, was $406,000 in round figures, and it was $177,000 for the March quarter. The April net was $106,000, the May net was $197,000, and the June net would be a little smaller than the net for May. He felt justified in estimating, therefore, that the Third Avenue would begin its reorganized career with net earnings, after payment of interest on the prior liens, of about $1,500,000, and after deducting an allowance of $300,000 a year for depreciation, he felt that $1,200,000 would remain applicable to return on the securities to be reckoned with in the reorganization.

Mr. Whitridge said that after the reorganization there would be some increases in operating cost, but that these would be offset by saving in other directions, such, for instance, as an item of $140,000 which he has paid out this year for lawyers. The development of traffic in the Bronx would help out the Third Avenue's earnings materially.

Chairman Willcox asked Mr. Whitridge some questions, which brought out the statement from the receiver that about 2 per cent. would be earned on the $31,-548,000 adjustment of 5 per cent. income bonds proposed to be issued in the reorganization. The full interest on these bonds would require $1,552,000.

"Then you have a deficit on that interest of $900,000?" Mr. Willcox asked. Mr. Whitridge said that this was the fact.

"And that constitutes an amount due ahead of any return on the stock?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Whitridge.

"Upon what then do you predicate any estimate of value for the stock, on which the stockholders are to be asked to pay $25 a share?" asked the Chairman.

What Is the Stock Worth?

"I don't make any estimate on the value of the stock at all," said Mr. Whitridge. "I may not think it is worth a dollar a bushel. But the stockholders may think it's worth $25 a share, and what they think is another question. I don't think that the public has any interest in anything except that the road is out of the hands of the court and in a running condition."

"But the public generally gets the securities," said Mr. Willcox. Mr. Whitridge replied that if there were some way of safeguarding the public against loss on an investment he might feel differently, but that not being the case he had to assume merely that people who visited Wall Street were of full age and had their eyes open.

"So you don't think it makes any difference to the public how many adjustment bonds or how much stock is issued," said Mr. Willcox. Mr. Whitridge agreed.

"Not even to the investing public?"

"Not even to the investing public," repeated Mr. Whitridge.

Robert R. Perkins, an attorney, asked Mr. Whitridge if he had any statement to show what became of the difference between the $37,500,000 bonds issued in the last Third Avenue reorganization and the $22,000,000 of old indebtedness paid out of the proceeds of the consolidated issue. Mr. Whitridge said he had not, and repeated the statement which has come from him at earlier stages of the receivership that he believed that the property did not get the proceeds of these securities.

Mr. Whitridge also repeated his former statement that it would cost $200,000 or $300,000 to trace the use of the money, and that the chances of recovering from any responsible person were too slim to make it appear to him good policy to undertake the search.

Mr. Willcox asked the witness if he remembered that the Metropolitan Securities Company obtained the restitution of the funds misapplied in the Wall and Cortlandt Street Ferries deal. Mr. Whitridge replied that that was an entirely different case.

The hearings will be continued this afternoon.

HAUNTED BY CRIME FOR YEARS

Conscience-Stricken Firebug Gives Himself Up and Asks Punishment.

After more than three years of remorse and uneasiness of mind, James Hunter Wright of 460 West Twenty-third Street, formerly a member of Harvey & Wright, a firm of art dealers, walked into the District Attorney's office yesterday and confessed to Assistant District Attorney Turnbull that he started a fire in the building at 2,281-2,290 Broadway on Dec. 26, 1905, and wished to surrender himself.

Earlier in the day Alexander Fisher, who said that he was Wright's cousin, called on Mr. Turnbull and told him that the thought of his crime had so preyed on Wright's mind that he had finally decided to take whatever punishment would be meted out to him and start life anew.

Wright was arrested in M. Turnbull's office on a short affidavit by Detective Rayens of the District Attorney's office and taken before Magistrate Crane in the Tombs Court, who held him in $10,000 bail for examination this morning. The charge was one of arson in the second degree. Assistant Fire Marshal David Kelly testified that there was a fire on the premises at 2,281 to 2,290 Broadway on the date named in Wright's story and that the damage was $3,000. Wright's personal losses amounted to $700, as he had no insurance.

Mr. Turnbull refused information in the case, as he said that there was likely to be another arrest. Wright, in his story, it is said, told Mr. Turnbull that his art ventures had not been successful; that he was burdened with a lot of goods which he was unable to dispose of, and had, therefore, taken the easiest way out and set fire to his place of business. Since that time he has traveled considerably, but has been unable to shake off the recollection of his crime.

SAILORS FIGHT FIRE ASHORE.

Men from the Maine Kept Gloucester Blaze from Spreading.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 6.—Sailors from the United States battleship Maine who were on shore leave gave valuable assistance to-day to the local department in fighting a dangerous fire that started in a large furniture store in the business district.

A spark from a bonfire was blown through a window among some mattresses in the furniture store of T. H. Hunt. Almost before an alarm could be sounded the entire block, occupied by the Hunt concern and a cutlery firm, was beyond hope of saving.

Some 200 of the shore-leave men appeared upon the scene, their offer of assistance in protecting endangered property was accepted, and the damage was confined practically to the one business block.

The loss is estimated at $25,000.

UPHOLD BANKER WOOG'S WILL

Testament of Man Who Died in France Admitted to Probate.

By a decision handed down by Surrogate Thomas yesterday, permission was denied about forty claimants to the estate of Charles Rubens, also known as Woog, a banker, to intervene as parties to an accounting of the estate, which is said to be worth $1,200,000. He died in France in 1906.

Rubens, whose right name was Woog, came to this country from Alsace in 1886, and took out naturalization papers under the name of Rubens. He entered the banking business here, was successful, and some years ago went to Paris, where he stayed until his death, at the age of 80 years. Previous to leaving this country he made a will, under which Henry Gickelheimer and Julia Heidelbach, wife of Ichelheimer's partner, Alfred S. Heidelbach, inherited the bulk of the estate. It was said that the original will, which was sent to France in January, 1907, in order that the testimony of the subscribing witnesses might be taken by the French courts, was either lost or stolen in transit, with the result that a certified copy of the document was substituted by consent of the courts.

The contestants contended that the will was invalid in this country on several grounds, one of them being that the testator was not naturalized here under his legal name and that at the time of his death he was a resident of France, and in consequence the paper purporting to be his last will was not executed according to the laws of France. These objections were overruled by the Surrogates' Court, upheld by both the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals, and the will and codicils admitted to probate some time ago.

The Testator's Widow and His Brother George Administrators of Estate.

Letters of administration on the estate of John R. Considine of the Hotel Metropole, who died on June 27, were granted yesterday to his widow, Mrs. Lulu Tabor Considine, and his brother, George Francis Considine, by Surrogate Cohalan. They were also appointed guardians of the Considine children, Louis F. and George Joseph. Bonds for $100,000 each were filed by the administrators.

Henry J. Goldsmith and Timothy P. Sullivan, who made the application, said that Mr. Considine left no will, but his estate was valued at about $250,000 in personal property and about $100,000 in real estate.

CAUGHT IN BALLOON ROPES.

Boy Carried 500 Feet High Hanging by One Foot—Lands in Ocean and Saved.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., July 6.—In the presence of 20,000 persons gathered on the beach to celebrate the Fourth, ten-year-old Jesse Wyman was caught in the ropes of a balloon having an ascension yesterday afternoon and carried head downward 500 feet in the air. The boy's mother fainted as she saw the little fellow carried away. But the rope was securely fastened about his legs and he soon managed to get to an upright position.

As the balloon drifted out over the ocean the aeronaut drew the boy up to him on the trapeze bar. After drifting out over the water for a third of a mile a gust of wind blew the balloon on its side, and it slowly descended to the water as the gas escaped.

A launch from the naval training ship Alert had followed the balloon and dashed up as the aeronaut and the boy touched the water. Aside from a bad fright the boy was none the worse for his experience.

HONOR FOR FATHER PORCILE.

Brooklyn Priest Elected Head of Society of Fathers of Mercy.

A cable dispatch from Rome, received by the Rev. Alphonsus Parker of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, Brooklyn, announced yesterday that the Very Rev. Eugene Henry Porcile, pastor of that church, had been elected Father General of the Society of the Fathers of Mercy.

Since the death of the Father General, Father Porcile, as Vice General, has been acting as the head of the order, which is world wide. He went to Rome a month ago to attend a meeting for the election of a Father General.

Father Porcile, who is 72 years of age, is one of the best-known Brooklyn priests. He is a native of Paris, France, and has worked as a priest in Brooklyn for forty-three years. All that time he has been in the parish of St. Francis De Sales, now known as Our Lady of Lourdes, the church of which, at Broadway and Aberdeen Street, contains a fine reproduction of the famous grotto at Lourdes.

Shot and Didn't Know It.

Not knowing that he had received a gunshot wound in the thigh while watching neighbors celebrate the Fourth on Monday afternoon, Peter Buben, a shoemaker, of 516 East Sixteenth Street, went to his work yesterday. In the evening he took a nap, and woke up suddenly with severe pains in his leg. Then he found the gunshot marks. He was hurried to Bellevue Hospital.

FOURTH'S DEATH LIST IS STILL GROWING

Late Returns from Country Over Show 61 Fatalities, Compared with 72 a Year Ago.

MORE TOWNS SEND REPORTS

Some Reduction in Accidents Certain Because of Legislation Against Fireworks in Many Cities.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Sixty-one dead and 3,246 injured are the returns to date from the two-day Fourth of July celebration of 1909. These figures compare with 72 dead and 2,736 injured, reported up to the same hour of the second day after the one-day celebration a year ago.

This year's enumeration covers 25 per cent. more towns than were reported the first few days after last year's celebration, and is the most complete second-day enumeration made since The Tribune began gathering statistics of Independence Day casualties. For this reason, it is believed the figures represent a larger portion of the final figures than in previous years, and that the figures which come later by mail will show a reduction in casualties as compared with previous years.

Tetanus already has claimed nearly a score of victims among the celebrants who were injured in premature celebrations. The toy pistol, which is responsible for a majority of the deaths from tetanus, this year claimed 380 victims of accidents reported up to Tuesday midnight, as compared with 223 last year and the high record of 428, made in 1902.

Injuries due to runaways caused by explosives were sixty-seven in 1909, as compared with thirty-five last year and 120 in 1907.

The encouraging feature of the figures is the reduction in casualties in the cities which did away altogether with the sale of fireworks.

Washington, D. C., and Cleveland, Ohio, passed through the three-day celebration without a single person being injured. Milwaukee made a brave attempt to regulate the sale and use of fireworks, and had no deaths in 1909, as compared with five a year ago, although the number of injured was greater this year than last.

The fire loss in 1909 was the greatest on record, due mainly to large losses at Spokane, Wash., and Rumford Falls, Me. The loss in 1909 was $1,149,235, as compared with $535,435 a year ago.

Among the cities, New York, with four, and Philadelphia, with five, have the largest death lists. The list of deaths from tetanus is expected to grow as usual from day to day for the next few weeks. The final returns on deaths from Fourth of July accidents, which become available in August of each year, have in former years shown totals of from 158 to 183.

RISKS LIFE TO SAVE CHILD.

Mother Hurls Herself Before a Speeding Auto—Fatally Injured.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 6.—Struck and tossed into the air by a heavy touring car as she rushed out into the roadway to save her four-year-old child from apparent death beneath the automobile, Mrs. Angelo Pilanti of North Haven was fatally injured on the North Haven Road near Quinnipiac to-day. Her skull was fractured. The child was not hurt.

In the automobile were Henry G. Moran of Yonkers, N. Y.; his wife, two children, brother-in-law, and a chauffeur. Mr. Moran was driving. The party was on the way from Boston to New York.

The automobile was stopped and the injured woman carried to her home. Mr. Moran called a physician, and after learning the extent of Mrs. Pilanti's injuries gave himself up to the authorities. Later he was examined by the Coroner and released pending further investigation and a formal verdict.

Mr. Moran insisted he was going at a moderate speed; that as his car rounded a curve he saw the child playing in the roadway, shut off the power, and guided his machine so as to avoid hitting it. He did not see the woman nor her frantic rush to save her child until the car had struck her.

The automobile lamp was broken by the force of the blow.

AUTO DASHES DOWN HILL.

One Woman Killed, Another Perhaps Fatally Hurt, and Two Men Injured.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., July 6.—One woman was killed, another perhaps fatally injured, and two other persons slightly hurt as the result of a wild dash of an automobile down Wilkesbarre Mountain to-day. The dead woman was Mrs. James Hughes of this city. Miss Laura Cannon, a member of the Luzerne County bar, will die of her injuries. James Hughes, husband of the dead woman and President of the Wilkesbarre Automobile Club, and the chauffeur were slightly hurt.

The brakes of the automobile became disabled as the car was descending a steep grade. Losing control of the machine, the driver was unable to stop it. It dashed down the mountain until it struck a sharp curve and plunged into a high embankment. All the occupants of the machine were thrown out.

BIG CROPS OUT WEST.

Wall Street Cheered by Wheat and Corn Reports from Three Big States.

Wall Street had cheering news from the corn belt yesterday in the shape of favorable official reports on the condition of the growing crops from the State Agricultural Departments of Illinois, Ohio, and Missouri. All three States report increased acreages in corn and better conditions in the fields than at the last report in June.

The Missouri State report puts the condition of corn at 86, against 73 in July a year ago, and estimates the acreage at 7 per cent. larger than last year. On the whole the corn outlook in that State is better than in any year since 1902.

In Illinois corn is reported at 93 in the northern section of the State, 90 in the central, and 92 in the southern districts, and the area planted is called 5 per cent. greater than in 1908. The average of condition for the entire State is 17 points better than at this time last year. In Ohio corn is at 88, compared with 87 at this time last season, and the area shows an increase of 2 per cent.

Winter wheat in Missouri is turning out a crop estimated at 23,663,000 bushels, against 21,000,000 bushels last year. In Illinois Winter wheat has improved 8 points in condition since the report for May 1, being at 91 in the northern section, 90 in the central, and 91 in the southern divisions. In Ohio Winter wheat is at 77, against 73 in June and 86 at this time last year. Oats have improved since the previous report in all three States.

AMERICAN BANK IN ARGENTINA

Powerful Capitalists May Establish a Chain of Banks in South America.

The establishment of a bank in South America, under the auspices of a powerful group of New York bankers, was admitted yesterday to be a possibility, but it was denied that it was true that a plan had been completed for the organization of such a bank in Buenos Ayres, as United States Minister to Argentina Charles H. Sherrill was reported in the cables to have said he was authorized by President Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City Bank to announce.

What Minister Sherrill probably said, it was assumed here, was that he had been told that bankers in this country are becoming interested in the banking field in South America, and that this interest may eventually lead to the organization of a bank in Argentina, and possibly in other South American countries under the auspices of strong American banking interests. It is considered most probable that in any such move the interests identified with the National City Bank will have an active part.

The Great Summer Sale of Fur Coats
Repeated by Request
Unusual Response to Summer Fur Sale.

ONCE UPON A TIME selling furs in Summer would have seemed most extraordinary. But times have changed. The remarkable pricing is appreciated by wise women, who realize that we cannot expect to get Fall or Winter figures, and that the REASON for the sale is our desire and the makers' desire to keep expert help employed during the months that used to be idle. The great response of yesterday morning and the many letters requesting an opportunity to share in the sale have led to a repetition of the offering. Of course, these items are merely examples of the underpricing—splendid garments, with the powerful guarantee of Abraham and Straus behind every piece, and savings of many, many dollars.

RECORD HOMER BY DAVIS TIES SCORE

Long Wallop Follows Four-Furlong Drive for Two Jots by Demmitt.

ATHLETICS WIN, 3 TO 2

Elberfeld's Error Makes Oldring Safe, and a Steal, an Out, and a Double Complete the Run.

Metropolitan fashions in homers, as shown on the Hilltop yesterday, run to high crowns and broad brims. The favorite kinds are turned up on one side or another with sprays of forget-me-nots and fronds of touch-me-not ferns. One worn by Mr. Ray Demmitt, a well-known young man-about-town, was built on peach-basket lines and faced with peach-blow mousseline de soie. It was seen at a recherche garden party at which that prominent clubman, Mr. Topsy Hartsel, was host, and which was one of the most exclusive affairs of the season. A novelty in Summer homers was a conspicuous feature of the chic outing costume that set off the attractiveness of Mr. Harry Davis, the popular young Philadelphia cotillion leader. The brim was turned up sharply on the left, with clusters of lemon blossoms attached loosely on the under side. Quite a sensation was created when petals from the blossoms were scattered in passing upon the upturned face of Mr. Claudius H. Engle, one of the most graceful dancing men in the Washington Heights set. The effect of the two widely differing styles, while slightly bizarre, was undeniably comme-il-faut.

Which means, now that the fashion editor has been induced to relinquish the typewriter and give the baseball man a chance, that Demmitt and Davis in yesterday's game between the Yankees and Athletics pounded the pellet for two of the handsomest two-baggers seen in these golden months of 1909. Demmitt's four-furlong drive punctured the perspective of the dexter pasture with speed that made Topsy look like Little Eva and enabled the batter to leg it along the alleys with the celerity and agility of Eliza crossing the ice. Davis's circuit-cincher was a horizon-hunter in the sinister direction that established a record for the Hilltop—that of the highest home run hit in the park's history. It hurdled the corral deep in left centre, skimming over the tire sign at a six-cylinder gait, while C. Hackenschmidt Engle, Esq., pursued it with upraised hands in a moveing attitude of supplication.

Not only did Harry's homer vault the fence, but it did so at the high sign. Balls have been sent over the stockade in American League Park ere this, but never above the double-decker affair that now forms a background for left field. Hoe Ferris, two years ago, straightened one of Smiling A. Orth's twists for a lift beyond the left-central dead line, but the fence of those days was only a one-story structure. Davis's safe hoist was a fatal blow to the Toppers, for it carded a couple of counts that tied the score, and Connie Mack's men in the next round got another run that gave them the decision by a score of 3 to 2.

Morgan and Hughes were the twirl-whirlers off whose bends the two square-circlers were made. Demmitt's smash gave New York a two-jot margin in the third round; Davis's cloud-clipper paralleled the good columns in the next. Coincidentally, in each instance the runner ahead of the home run hitter was on base as the result of four wide ones. Sweeney trudged in the third and went to second on Hughes's sacrifice, Demmitt's homer scoring him. Hartsel strolled in the fourth and registered from the howdy-do station on Davis's timber-topper. It was such sequential swatting that the 2,500 persons constituting a respectable post-holiday crowd didn't have time to simmer down from the uproar following Ray's rap before they were on their feet splitting the off-shore breeze with shrieks of appreciation for Harry's hit.

The only other count of the hard-fought battle was booked in the middle frame. It was due to a Cheshire hurl by Capt. N. Kid Elberfeld that let Oldring negotiate first in spite of Chase's glittering scoop. Oldring annexed another angle by slick work in the alley, and after Ganley raised to Cree went to third on Collins's out at first. He got home easily when Hartsel laced a little joker to the score-board for a brace of bags.

Flawless fielding was served by the Athletics, and the Hilltoppers were guilty of only one error. Hughes was steadier than Morgan, but he was hit more freely, although he hardly was to blame for the decisive tally, that being chiefly Elberfeld's fault. Spicy double plays were pulled off by Laporte and Chase in the first inning, Cree and Chase in the second, and Demmitt, Laporte, Chase, and Sweeney in the ninth. The Yanks missed good chances to recover their lost ground in the fourth, seventh, and final rounds.

Baker hurt his leg when he ran into the fence in the fifth in a gallant attempt at Demmitt's long foul. Umpire Sheridan was hooted for calling Elberfeld out at second in the sixth. He became so nettled by criticism that he ordered the Yankees' trainer off the bench.

This afternoon the Toppers take on the Boston players for a single game before hitting the rail for St. Louis. The old rivalry between the Yankees and the Red Sox promises a lively session. The score:

CHANCE MUST EXPLAIN.

Manager Called to Account for Criticising National Commission.

In the future baseball players and managers will have to be more careful of their remarks when they criticise any action taken by the Board of Directors of the National League or by the National Commission.

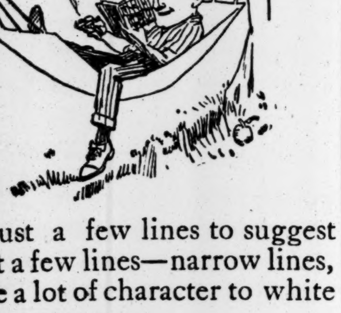
The National Commission now is investigating an interview alleged to have been had with Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago Nationals, in which Chance was quoted as having accused the members of the National Commission of having overstepped their authority in recommending that a bonus of $10,000 be divided among all the players who were declared eligible by the National Commission to participate in last year's world series. The Chicago manager has been called on for an explanation of the remarks attributed to him by the interview.

Pell Wins in Southern Tennis.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 6.—Interest in the Southern tennis championship tournament at East Lake courts to-day centred in the doubles between Thornton and Grant of Atlanta and the Doyle brothers of Washington, D. C., the latter winning the match in a spectacular exhibition. The Atlanta team won the first set, 6—2. The Washington team won the remaining sets, 6—3, 6—4, 6—2, 6—3. In the second round of singles T. R. Pell of New York outclassed Middlebrooks of Atlanta so clearly that the game lost interest, his score being 6—0, 6—1.

Sieger Victor Over Leary.

Charlie Sieger of Hoboken defeated Billy Leary of Summit, N. J. last night in a ten round fight at Brown's gymnasium. Leary was outclased from the start and it was only by holding frequently that he was able to last the limit. Sieger inflicted telling punishment, and, while his opponent fought back gamely, he had no chance to win.



Just a few lines to suggest that a few lines—narrow lines, give a lot of character to white serge trousers.

Lots of such trousers, $8.

Lots of plain white ones too—in the serge that's often called flannel, $7.50.

Though we have about forty kinds of "athletic" underwear, most all of them more or less advertised, we find some customersd on't know what "athletic" means.

It means sleeveless shirts and knee drawers in very thin fabrics—thinner and cooler than our fathers ever have dreamed of for underwear.

Ever tried a sweater knit suit for swimming?

MARQUARD WILD AND QUAKERS WIN, 3 TO 1

Error by Short Stop Doolan Helps to Save the New Yorks from a Shut-Out.

GIANTS' HITS SCATTERED

Battery Errors Bunched with a Two-Bagger in Third Round Carry Phillies to Victory.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—One of those obstacles the pepperiest pennant pursuers must expect to encounter on the road to Winville—an effective pitcher—checked the onspeeding Giants this afternoon. The Phillies got busy early in the game and piled up enough runs to win by a score of 3 to 1. Manager McGraw, evidently pursuing the policy of saving Mathewson, Raymond, and Wiltse for the fast-approaching death grapples with the Western teams on the Polo Grounds, sent Marquard to the slab. The Rube lost control in the third inning, and before he regained it the Quakers had a total of three. Doolan's bad heave was a factor in saving the visitors from a shut-out in the fifth. But it was McQuillan's excellent distribution of the Giants' half-dozen hits and the otherwise perfect fielding of the home team that stalled off McGraw's men.

A juggle by O'Hara in part was responsible for Philadelphia's first run. In the opening stage of the game a single by Grant became good for three sacks because McGraw's gardener in the central parterre had larded his digits. It was distressingly easy for Grant to dust the pan when Knabe pushed out a long sacrifice fly. Marquard looked wabbly then, for a hit by Titus followed, but Magee's attempt was a blue chip for a double play, and the run-getting was over till the third.

Again, in the tertiary round, it was Grant who started the trouble for the McGrawites. He made the midway through his own patience and Knabe's martyrdom. A wild pitch connected with Titus's biceps, and he got a free ride. Rube didn't watch second closely enough, so Grant got such a long lead that a steal of third was accomplished almost without a struggle. Magee's hike filled the nooks. After Bransfield fouled out, Grant and Titus counted on Osborne's two-timer to the left lawn, Magee being bagged at the rubber in an effort to score on the hit.

Devlin, one down, hammered the hide to right for a couple of cushions in the fifth. Arthur made the next perch, when Bridwell got a life on Doolan's short throw. The advance runner came in as Bridwell was forced by Schlei. Marquard had a chance to avert his defeat, but three airy swipes were the best he could do, and McQuillan kept the kibosh on the Harlem hitsmiths through the remainder of the day. The score:

Wilhelm Too Much for Boston.

Pitcher Wilhelm was a mystery to the Boston batsmen yesterday, and only for a mysterious ruling of Umpire Rigler the team from the Hub would have been shut out. With two men out in the ninth inning and Stein on second base, Coffey hit to Wilhelm, who threw accurately to Hummel, but the latter dropped the ball. The ball and base runner met almost simultaneously at first base, and Coffey sent the sphere with his foot into deep right field. Stein scored and Coffey got to third. This brought a vigorous protest from almost the entire Brooklyn team, and as a result Bergen and Hummel were removed from the game. Graham had a chance to tie the game, but he fouled out to Marshall. Rigler was denounced by the "fans" as he left the field, but he declared that he did not see anything wrong. The score:

A. A. C. Entries Close To-morrow.

Owing to the number of important athletic meets held last Saturday and Monday and the difficulty in securing proper handicaps for the athletes in the metropolitan district Amateur Athletic Union the entries for the athletic carnival of the American Athletic Club at Celtic Park, Long Island City, July 11 will not close until to-morrow morning. This will enable many of the athletes who competed in the out-of-town meetings to send in their entries for next Sunday's games. The entry list, which is one of the biggest of the season, includes not only international, but National, intercollegiate, and metropolitan champions. Entries have already been received from the New York, Irish-American, Mohawk, Mott Haven, Acorn, Northwestern, National, Mercury, and other athletic clubs. In order to make the mile event interesting Joseph Bromilow, Irish-American A. C., and M. Geis, unattached, have been added, making it a four-cornered race, with Harold Wilson, the British champion, and M. J. Driscoll the other competitors.

Travis Wins; Plays Par Golf.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 6.—Walter J. Travis of Garden City overwhelmed Richmond F. Robinson of St. Catherines, Ont., in the semi-final round of the tournament for the Western New York Golf Championship o nthe links of the Buffalo Country Club this afternoon. Travis won on the tenth hole, 8 up and 7 to play. The veteran was in magnificent form, and played par golf throughout the match. His score:

Travis—Out .....4 4 4 4 4 4 3 5 4—36
In ....6 4 4 5 3 4 3 5 4—38—74

He won the first four holes and had Robinson 7 down at the turn. The match ended at the tenth, but the running holes were played out.

Reekie of Toronto in the final 36-hole match round to-morrow. Reekie won from A. L. Rose of Rochester 5 up and 4 to play, his score being 77 for the round. Robinson defeated J. Bowman of Rochester in the forenoon round by 3 up.

Two Athletes Reinstated.

The Registration Committee of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union met last night at the Astor House and reinstated two members who had been suspended. They are:

Karl J. Schlobohm, suspended for competing in an unsanctioned race at Warrensburg, N. Y., on May 31. He pleaded that he did not know the race was not sanctioned.

Leo Katzenstein, suspended for slugging E. A. Kelly at the finish of a Marathon race on May 15 in New Jersey. He apologized to Kelly.

M. Geis, who had been declared ineligible to compete for the Junior Championship Saturday next, not having been released from the Holy Cross Lyceum, produced a letter releasing him and was permitted to compete.

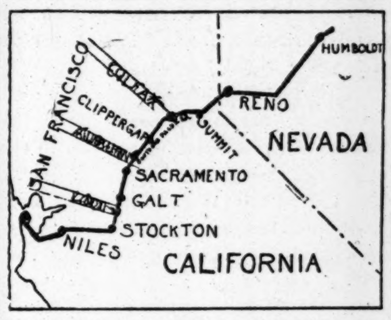
Written Exclusively for THE NEW YORK TIMES
By EDWARD PAYSON WESTON.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., July 6.—After my long walk in the face of a strong wind, which lasted all day yesterday, I was quite tired and rested longer than usual. At 10:30 A. M. this morning I left Hazen. On arriving at Wadsworth I again had the pleasure of seeing a river, trees, and grass, the sight of which made me feel good, and from now on I will have the pleasure of changed conditions, which are inspiring and pleasing.



Weston' Route Through California.

I will arrive at Reno late to-night, where, I understand, I am anxiously awaited by many persons. I am to consult there with the engineers of the Southern Pacific Railroad, who have been very kind to me, about the best way to reach San Francisco. There are about forty miles of snowsheds which I had intended to go through, but this is considered dangerous and may change my plans a little.

EXTENDING THE MERIT SYSTEM.

According to the reports sent to The Chicago Tribune by its correspondent, Mr. O'LAUGHLIN, there is another surprise in store for the advocates of the spoils system in Congress. These gentlemen tried hard to keep control of the patronage of the census, which has always been a rich mine for them. Mr. ROOSEVELT balked the plan by a veto. Mr. TAFT was prepared to do the same, or to put the appointees under the rules by an executive order. Reluctantly they passed the kind of bill the President wished.

Now they are informed that they will be asked to give up about the last field open to their exploitation. The Civil Service Commission has made up its mind to ask for power to supervise promotions and reductions. These have long been more or less subject to partisan pressure, where the head of a department as the chief of a bureau has happened to be a partisan. The rules require that an efficiency record of each subordinate shall be kept, but its character is not clearly defined, nor is its actual weight in determining promotion or reduction. The Commission plans that a specific and minute record shall be kept, and a copy submitted each week to the head of the department and another to the Commission. Any clerk dissatisfied with his rating may appeal first to his superior officer and then to the Commission, which will have power to take testimony and to bring out the facts in the case. We do not understand that it desires to do more than to establish the facts and place them on record.

Probably this is as good a way as any to protect employés against favoritism and discrimination. Efficiency should determine the advancement or the reduction of an employé, and it is quite practicable to keep a record that will fairly and pretty fully show efficiency. Some years ago, when Col. S. W. BUSH was Naval Officer at this port, he put in force a system of records that was admirable for simplicity and thoroughness. It was afterward applied in some branches of the Treasury when his Deputy, the late JOHN M. COMSTOCK, was appointed in the department. Apparently it has not been generally adopted. We are persuaded, however, that a superior officer should be left a certain discretion in action, after a record has supplied him with such information as to efficiency as can thus be secured. He needs it fully to exercise the responsibility placed on him. If the record is a public one, open to all interested in it, and especially if its ratings are subject to examination by the head of the department and by the Civil Service Commission, there will be very little risk of serious discrimination. We take it that the plan of the Commission aims only at systematic and effectual publicity; aims, in other words, to turn on the lights, and not to restrict the proper discretion of appointing officers. In that way real efficiency will undoubtedly be established.

LITERATURE AND EMPIRE.

The other day Lord MORLEY of Blackburn addressed the Imperial Press Conference in London on "Literature and Journalism" in the following astonishing sentence:

> There is a connection, if you will let me say so, between Literature and Empire, [cheers,] because—I only offer a commonplace upon that point—as if, gentlemen, our glorious English tongue were not one of the glories of Empire, [cheers,] as if it were not perhaps the strongest and the most enduring bond of Imperial union, ay, and possibly a thousand times stronger and more enduring and wider in a sense, and deeper than Imperial, than all the achievements, magnificent as they are, of soldiers and sailors and of the statesmen who have directed them.

Twenty years ago plain JOHN MORLEY would have looked with pain on such a sentence from his pen or his lips. Then he would hardly have craved permission from any assembly to express any opinion that he might wish to express, not even in the beaten path of after-dinner courtesy. Nor, had he taken the liberty to express an opinion, would he have cast it in such confused English, or have adorned it with such superfluous adjectives, or have given to it so pompous an air. Especially, the opinion being what it is, he would not have tried to placate even the stupidest audience by calling it "a commonplace."

For that precisely is what Lord MORLEY's thought is not. Doubtless it has occurred to many minds, but none can fully have grasped it, and its significance has surely not been exhausted. To the Secretary of State for India, grappling with the tremendous difficulties that have arisen, in large part, from introducing a few thousand Hindu youth to the study of English literature and English ideas of government, the subject may well have presented itself in a manner both impressive and perplexing. It would be extremely interesting to know what analysis he has made of this influence and how he has decided to act with reference to it. What is puzzling is that he should, since he brought up the subject at all, have been content to apologize for it as a "commonplace," and to discuss it with high-sounding but rather empty rhetoric. Doubtless Lord MORLEY is sorely pressed in his present position, but he had no occasion to take his precious time for the utterance in regard to a weighty matter unless he was prepared to make the utterance weighty.

GUNPOWDER DAY.

The Chicago Tribune's carefully compiled table of Independence Day casualties throughout the country up to midnight of Monday, shows 32 deaths from playing with gunpowder, while nearly 2,000 persons were injured. The death record, which may be greatly increased, however, by the development of tetanus among the wounded, is smaller than last year's by 14, and it is justifiable to suppose that the influence of the general movement to abate the danger and annoyances of the gunpowder celebration has been effective to that small extent. Customs change slowly. Even in Springfield, Mass., where they have been preparing for months for a sane and beautiful celebration of the Fourth by historical pageantry, there were some fires and casualties due to fireworks.

Cleveland, Ohio, on the other hand, had a celebration free from all disasters. There were parades, but no use of fireworks or explosives in the streets was permitted, the only pyrotechnical exhibition being that in one of the parks under the public charge. The townspeople saved $500,000, according to the Chief of Police, by not destroying property of that value and avoiding surgeons' bills. Last year 12 persons lost their lives in Cleveland on Independence Day, and the whole community was aroused to the need of a change in the manner of celebrating the day. In Washington the use of explosives on the streets is prohibited by law. The firecracker has been banished from Baltimore five years. The experiences of these large cities indicate that in course of time the whole country may abandon gunpowder and noise in its celebration of its birthday. The protests against playing with fire July 4 were more general and earnest this year than ever before. The influence of Cleveland and Baltimore will surely be effective. But it will be a long, hard fight, nevertheless, to banish altogether the firecracker and toy cannon and the promiscuous use of cheap fireworks from the celebration of Independence Day.

TEN CENTS TO CONEY ISLAND.

Under the New York State law for the regulation of public utilities things are taking a course similar to that under the Federal law regulating inter-State commerce. That is to say, the heinous practices of the corporations are little disturbed, and in some cases actually are justified, while the public officials take the places of the corporations as objects of public condemnation. Assuredly the Public Service Commission was not appointed with any expectation that it would justify a 10-cent fare to Coney Island, yet such a decision has just been handed down by Commissioner BASSETT, who previously had been the object of a petition for removal from office because of another unpopular opinion. Where shall the people who pay the fares turn for sympathy if disappointed in Gov. HUGHES's Public Service Commission?

If the Commission had established 5-cent fares, however wrongly and arbitrarily, many would have been pleased, but a decision upholding a fare which it declares to be justified by reasoning subversive of almost everything that experience has settled regarding this class of business is of a nature adapted to displease everybody. This corporation is explicitly informed that its fares are justified only as respects this particular proceeding. Doubtless in time there will grow up a body of law resulting from the Commission's decisions by which the Commission and the corporations will be bound alike. The disturbing thing about this decision is not what it contains, but the revelation that it is writing new law on a clean page.

It is not surprising that a corporation should regulate its charges on the same principle as an individual. That is simple business sense. Railways, like everybody else, ask what they think buyers will pay with best results to the business. In the Coney Island case the fares were doubled on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays. The decision is that this was justified as the alternative to bankruptcy, but the opinion is expressed that the fares should be reduced on the other five days of the week. In other words, the Commission establishes dear instead of cheap excursion rates, authorizing the company to raise prices when the density of the traffic would justify reducing them, and adds an opinion that the company should reduce rates when travel is scanty and experience justifies raising them. This reverses the business judgment of the owners of the property, and substitutes the discretion of a body which is in no position of financial responsibility.

The opinion reads throughout like the report of a committee to a Directorate. It is full of phrases admitting the uncertainty of a policy of prices depending upon results for justification. The Commissioner's decision is an argument addressed to commercial discretion, without assumption of knowledge of future events. There is not a trace in it of universality or uniformity, which have hitherto been thought characteristic of law. It would be absurd to apply this decision even to all railways running to Coney Island. It would be derisory to suggest the application of such principles of fixing prices to all public utilities. Bargain days by law are a novelty only surpassed by an increase of prices on certain days by law. Possibly the greatest absurdity of all is that prices should be regulated thus by people who do not own what is sold, but who recognize responsibility to an electorate in antagonism to the owners. The end of this is not clear from the beginning.

LIVES NEEDLESSLY LOST.

It is because of the necessity of profiting by experience that attention should be directed to the loss of three lives in Jamaica Bay, a water park which should be as safe as any salt water in the world. Unfortunately the thousands who take their pleasure there give constant proof of their indifference to the tides. Hardly any of the amateurs who frequent those waters can gauge the tides enough to bring even a rowboat to an anchorage according to their intention, and perhaps never is even a mosquito motor boat anchored so that the anchor can be slipped instantly in case of necessity. Yet this is as elementary as not tying the sheet of a sailboat, as young and foolish sailors will, although what might be forgiven an old hand is unforgivable in them. This was the chief cause of the accident reported yesterday. The boat was anchored in a tideway, and when the child fell overboard it was swept away with no possibility of getting the boat under way without heaving up the anchor by main strength, for almost none of these boats are fitted with even so much as a windlass, not to mention a capstan, or any sort of power gear.

Everything should be forgiven to brave men who have paid the forfeit of their lives, and commentators in cold blood should feel every reserve as to whether they would be so very much wiser under conditions so unsettling as the sight of dear ones drowning. The second man to jump to the rescue of the drowning two appears to have kept his wits about him, and tied a rope around him before starting. According to some accounts his wife dropped the rope in her excitement. Counsel to be cool under such conditions is idle. The swimmers appear to have forgotten even the elementary fact that it is useless for even the strongest swimmers to fight the tide. Both men appear to have been good swimmers, and yet they tried to get back to the boat. They could have floated many minutes if they could swim at all in such a tide rip as runs in that spot, and by swimming across the tide might have had a chance which they threw away.

Jamaica Bay is miles in extent, and at high tide looks to a landsman like the ocean. Yet it is made up mostly of submerged shallows, cut by channels which a swimmer of any power can easily cross. Nowhere are there rocks, and if a lubber goes on a lee shore he is safe if not comfortable. But these conditions making for safety are taken too much as a license for taking chances. The bay is safe if it is not trifled with, but there are constant warnings that there is no such thing as safety without prudence, afloat or ashore. Amateurs venturing on salt water should take at least as much care as when crossing the street when automobiles are about. Yet skillful men will not take the chances of unskillful, who despise the danger they do not appreciate. These yacht club members, above the average in intelligence, and perhaps in caution, would have done better if they had regarded payment of a capable Captain as life insurance. It is altogether likely that he would not have anchored in such a spot, and he might have exercised more care for the drowned child than its mother, who could hardly be expected to be aware, or adequately aware, of just what is dangerous on the water. Prudence is better than regret.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

More Evidence for the Prohibitionists. It is strange that the brewers of Texas, like the manufacturers of intoxicants throughout the country, are unable to appreciate the fact that about the only proof of the efficiency of prohibition, convincing to anybody not a Prohibitionist, is the manifest fear of it shown by the liquor men and the energy with which they everywhere antagonize it. The Texas brewers, acting unanimously through their State association, have brilliantly illustrated this curious inability by offering to give $100,000 to charity if two commissions, each appointed half and half by themselves and by the National and State Prohibition Party, do not report, after a careful investigation of the subject, that prohibition does not prohibit and that more liquor is consumed in "dry" States and sections than in those that are "wet."

This seems like a fair offer, and the Prohibitionists have no obvious excuse for not taking it up. The mystery is why the purveyors of alcohol should make it. Presumably they are confident that the report will be in their favor, since an adverse one would vastly encourage their enemies and redouble their desiccatory efforts. If they are sure, however, what objection have they to the spread of prohibition—a policy which, according to their own claims, is increasing the sale of their products, and consequently adding to their profits? The one thinkable, though not believable, theory of their antagonism is that its basis is anxiety as to what will become of the Nation if prohibition spreads all over the country the baleful effects which they insist it produces—that they consider their business already at least as large as it ought to be and join with the Prohibitionists themselves in fear of its extension, or even of its maintenance on its present scale. This theory, naturally, is too absurd for serious entertainment.

As for the two contentions of the brewers, the first, that prohibition does not prohibit in the sense of making the purchase of intoxicants anywhere impossible, or even very difficult, is of course true; but the same thing can be said of the laws against murder and theft. The assertion that prohibition areas consume a larger quantity of intoxicants than "wet" ones doesn't seem exactly plausible, in view of the fact that internal revenue receipts are declining, in spite of the growth in population, but it is a question that still awaits settlement. Perhaps the proposed commissions will determine it. Anyhow, their conclusions will be interesting.

A Teacher in Need of Lessons. That was a most misguided patriot who in Port Chester on Monday could think of nothing better to do with his Fourth of July leisure than to get into a row with an Italian resident about a flag. To be sure, the flag was also Italian, and the raising of it, unaccompanied by our own, was not quite tactful or entirely courteous, but the man probably intended to show sympathy with our celebration, not antagonism to it, and he was little likely to mend his manners as the result of a harsh command to lower a banner which he had good reason to love and we to respect. Perhaps he had fought under it; at any rate, it meant much to him, and naturally, when the misguided one got a gun and shot away its halyards, bringing it down on the run, its owner was angry.

That the Italian did nothing more desperate than to cause the arrest of his would-be instructor in the international proprieties is fairly good evidence that he has in him the making of a good American citizen after he has been here a while longer, but the treatment of his flag as if it were an unsightly and offensive object was not calculated to hasten the transfer of his allegiance to another. It should be remembered that comparatively few Italians come here, as most other immigrants do, with the intention of becoming permanent residents. Their usual purpose is to work here for a few years, get a little well-earned money, and go home. That is not the best of plans from our point of view, but there is nothing dishonest or reprehensible about it, and such bad features as it has, if it has any, are much mitigated or wholly removed by the fact that it is only the unassimilable that ever go back. The best of them soon abandon the thought of return, "take out papers," and become citizens as soon as they can.

Meanwhile they are no more inconsistent than other foreign-born residents in maintaining a more or less fervid and invidious affection for the land which they evidently found it expedient to quit. That they are here at all is sufficient proof that they hold this country on the whole preferable. One of our correspondents suggests that every unnaturalized foreigner should be subjected to a special tax as a hint that he had better affiliate or get out. The idea has a certain attractiveness, but it is based on the fallacious notion that the unnaturalized resident gets something for nothing. He never does, but in reality bears all the common burdens of taxation without sharing the privileges of citizenship, and if he wants to make that bad bargain nobody else need complain. That he could not be forced to bear arms in the remote contingency of war hardly counts, for if that contingency arose he would come into the fold quickly and willingly in at least nine cases out of ten.

We Can Do Without a Monument. That in all the miles between Eastport and Vancouver the boundary line between Canada and the United States has never a fort or a soldier is, indeed, a pleasing fact, but it is hardly one that needs to be commemorated by the erection of a costly monument. Indeed, such a monument would indicate, or could too easily be interpreted as indicating, a certain surprise on the part of both ourselves and the Canadians that we are good neighbors, living in peace, even though there is no big fence between us, and each trusting the other to be honest and decent.

Other nations who have not arrived at this very moderate degree of civilization will be sure to notice this pretty phenomenon, even though we do not loudly call attention to it, and it would not be quite seemly for two such close relatives as Canada and the United States to claim credit for not flying at each other's throat. They have had their little squabbles in the past, and may have some more as time goes on, but if they continue to settle their disputes without coming to open scandal they will only be acting with common sense, and that needs no monument. And in case real trouble did come how utterly ridiculous would the monument be!

THE COLD WATER PILLOW

Has Advantages During Slumber and While Reading.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that the torridity of midsummer is upon us, let me again recommend to your readers a very simple, harmless, and effective device for getting and keeping cool on warm nights. An ordinary rubber water-bag, half filled with cold water, placed as a pillow under the head on retiring, in about five minutes reduces the temperature of the whole body sufficiently to insure several hours of comparative relief and comfort. On extremely hot nights the water becomes tepid sooner, and may have to be changed once or twice; but the ensuing comfort more than compensates for the trouble. The cold water cushion may also be used as a head rest while reading or resting in hot weather, and is a much simpler method of cooling off than frantically struggling into crowded cars and trains in search of a breeze.

Iced water is, of course, more immediately effective than ordinary cold water; but it should be used with caution, and is not recommended except with the permission of a doctor. Cold water allowed to run from the faucet does the trick quite effectively, and is absolutely harmless, as it merely brings the temperature to normal and lessens the unpleasant sensation of heat. COMFORT.

TRADE VS. BATTLESHIPS.

For Which Should This Nation Make a Sacrifice?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Do our own people ever think or care how high protective tariffs affect the welfare of other peoples? It would seem that they hardly ever do, because it is obvious that trade rivalries incorporated into State policies breed not only individual antagonism, but also State hostility. The establishment of the Hague tribunal is certainly an encouraging feature, as tending to show the growth of a public sentiment antagonistic to war methods. So also it is pleasant to read the encouraging speeches made before our peace societies; but is not the bearing of our tariffs quite as important and effective on the peace or war question as any that may spring from Hague tribunals or peace societies?

A direct profitable business existing between any two people is a positive bond of union that very strong counteracting forces alone can break. Yet for half a century we have been building a high and still higher protective tariff wall around our country, and our selfish attitude toward others has influenced them to an increased tariff hostility toward us. But whatever may be said of the past, the present affords a good opportunity of testing the real sincerity of our peace-loving professions, for by a tariff reduction we can announce to the world a nobler live-and-let-live policy.

If it be argued that we have incurred losses through the adoption of a low tariff, we can say that profit is not the only thing to be considered, that we believe in peace, and that we are willing to make personal sacrifices in order to maintain it, that we believe international friendship highly desirable, and that we wish to prove our professions by our acts.

It must be obvious to almost every one that the more intimate commercial relations, the stronger the self-interest of each people would make for continual peace, the greater the quantity of merchandise passing and repassing between any two nations the greater the number of individual interests there must be to suffer in case of war and to be promoted by the prolongation of peace. In equal proportion must be the severance of friendly relationships should war arise, and from this force alone might spring even greater desire and more persistent efforts to prevent hostility. The currents of commercial opinion in each country are certain to make for peace wherever the exchanges of merchandise are mutually profitable.

It is argued that our costly battleships are great promoters of peace, but let the cost of a single battleship be paralleled by an equal amount of profitable trade between two peoples, and from which would spring the greater and more compelling influence in favor of continued peace?

LAW AND EFFICIENCY.

Uncovers Their Opposition in the Case of Gen. Bingham.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Xenophon's Memorabilia, Book I, Chap. 2, tells how Alcibiades, at the time when he was under the influence of Socrates, gave his uncle Pericles a logical demonstration that law and government are opposed to each other.

Just now it is exemplified in the Bingham matter. Mayor McClellan has done an act hostile to the present interests of good government in New York, for he has insisted that the government be subordinate to the law; both to the laws that the courts enforce and to those other laws which are recognized as part of the essence of our public institutions, but are not enforced by the courts. Mayor McClellan has done an act supremely essential to the future good government of New York. In our day, when there is no religious issue in politics—when public opinion worships efficiency, pays no attention to law, and contemptuously hates every principle that has "free" for part of its name—the supply of men who will do what Mr. McClellan has done is not enough to meet the Nation's needs.

I applaud a Mayor who insists that unequaled efficiency and unequaled usefulness shall not be accepted as a cover for a disregard of the rights of persons; and, since I see some people saying that his action is a good one if it works well, I want to put myself on record as one who thinks it a good one even if it works badly. The evils that may result from his action ill be conspicuous; the evils that would have resulted from his not taking this action will never be known. So history will never give him credit for the good he has done, but the good will be there.

The Weight-Guessing Game at Coney.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Can one of your readers make plain how the "weight guess" game is played at Coney Island—the game at the suspended chair scales where the weigher charges you 5 cents provided he fails to guess within three pounds of your weight.

With two friends I went to Coney the other day, and each of us was weighed in a chair. Each paid the 5 cents, because the weigher guessed beforehand within three pounds of the weight recorded. But before going to the weighing chair we each had been weighed on Fairbanks scales in the city before we went to Coney. Contrast our real weight with the weights indicated by the chair scales:

	Real Weight.	Chair Scales.	Weight Guessed
A	160	158	155
B	132	138	141
C	106	112	114

You will notice that had the guesser's machine given our exact weight he would have been a loser each time. But note how neatly the weight indicated in the chair scales came within the three pound guess limit. How was it brought about? That's what is puzzling many visitors to Coney Island. SURF.

Questions President Peters.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You recently published a letter from Mr. Peters, President of the Long Island Railroad, in which he partly answers questions and complaints made by one of your readers relative to the present condition existing in the train service to Manhattan Beach. He does not explain the following seeming paradox, however. If the service is poorer than in former seasons, viz., fewer trains and longer running time, why are the rates higher?

Why, also, is Manhattan Beach, beloved by so many, being so sadly neglected by Mr. Peters's road? Will he not explain the motives?

A suffering public would like to know.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was glad to read the address to free traders, published in to-day's issue of your paper. Following the speeches and votes in the present Congress, one would think the country given over to short-sighted selfishness and economic ignorance. It is about time that the free-trade sentiment of the country was organized and made itself felt.

Burial at Sea.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In reference to Mr. Osborn Congelton's suggestion of burials in the sea, I think how much more inspiring is the thought of having a person's body caressed by the waves and visited by the inhabitants of the deep rather than decay in the dark underground, becoming the food of worms. A. STEROPES.

TEACHERS OF CHINESE.

Pilgrim Church Provided Them from Ranks of Mature Women.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The suggestion of an Episcopal clergyman that the Legislature forbid women to teach the Chinese is most absurd. As well forbid them to teach in all mission schools. Even your editorial "Let Men Teach the Chinese" goes a step too far. This is not necessary. Pilgrim Church had for twenty-six years a large and flourishing Chinese Sunday school without ever the slightest whisper of scandal of any kind. The teaching was done by women with one or two exceptions. Several hundred Chinamen passed through this school, learning English and receiving New Testament instruction.

I never took my eye or hand from the work. The Superintendent was a lady of mature life and dignity of character, commanding the respect and regard of all. Young girls were not desired as teachers. The slightest exhibit of undue familiarity would instantly have received caution and rebuke, and if persisted in, either pupil or teacher, or both, would have been requested to leave the school. It does not appear that Miss Sigel was under the care of any school or organization. This is to be lamented. This is no place for independent "free lance" effort. But it is a good field for mature women. There are good practical reasons entirely apart from sentiment why they are preferred as teachers.

The Pilgrim School closed the last Sunday in 1907 because it was impossible to obtain teachers to maintain its high standard. But other schools are doing a noble and fruitful work, which should not be condemned because of this late lamentable tragedy, for which they are not in the least to blame. Neither the dens of apparently respectable Chinamen, nor the private bachelor apartments of other young men, are proper places for young ladies to visit alone, whatever their mission may be, social, philanthropic, or religious. No amount of allurement should induce them to enter these rooms without mature companionship.

Let society cease to visit Chinatown at midnight for diversion. There are better fascinations than those of gilded sin.

TIRED OF THE CITY

But Long Island Gardeners Do Not Need His Services.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos the recent controversy in the columns of THE TIMES in the matter of the scarcity of competent farm labor, I desire to mention a recent experience of mine. I have followed the Long Island agricultural movement, instigated by President Peters in 1906, with so much interest that this Spring I decided that I would like to "get into the game," and would gladly give up my machinelike artificial daily grind here in New York if I could find employment with one of the "modern method" business farmers on Long Island.

I accordingly procured the addresses of about twenty such, to whom I wrote, stating my wishes and qualifications, with the request that if they could not give me employment would they kindly mention me to any one who, they thought, could do so. From my previous knowledge of the regrettable custom of the average man not to reply to such letters when he is not interested, I did not expect to hear from a large proportion. To the twenty-odd inquiries I received but three replies, very courteously worded, regretting that the writers had nothing to offer, and offering to assist me in any way they could. Taking this as a basis, the situation does not seem to be that Long Island farmers, at any rate, are suffering from a farm labor famine.

The Farce of Paving.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent, Mr. C. Lowe, describes a scene the like of which must have been observed by every resident of the city who goes about with his eyes open. A few years since a gang of six or eight men spent practically a whole Summer in repairing the pavement of one street in Harlem, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues. By a careful computation, based on the superficial area of that one block and the then price for asphalt paving, I found that the city was paying for that mending with granite blocks a fraction over six and one-half times what it would have cost to pave new with asphalt, not counting the money paid for the granite and sand. And the very next year, after this reckless waste, the block was paved with asphalt! Can any one wonder that this city is hopelessly in debt? For these "workmen" observed by me and those watched by Mr. Lowe are fair representatives of the men employed in repairing, working in the parks, and playing with other city work. The street cleaners are some better, but even they would starve to death if they were engaged in productive labor where all they received was what they produced themselves.

An Ancient Sky-Pilot.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

From Garnett's Anthology, Vol. VII., Page 48, I copy the following, taken from the writings of Lucian, a Greek born about 100 A. D.:

> We were suddenly caught by a whirlwind, which turned our vessel several times around in a circle with tremendous velocity, and lifted it above three thousand stadia in the air, not setting it down again on the sea, but kept it suspended above the water at that height, and carried us on, with swelled sails, above the clouds.

In these days of air conquest, this quotation might be of utmost interest to aeronauts and also literary men. This ancient Gulliver long preceeded Swift, and as for outdistancing Jules Verne, another quotation is added:

> Having thus continued our course through the sky for a space of seven days and as many nights, on the eighth day we decried a sort of earth in the air, &c., (which proved to be the moon.)

The thoroughly familiar vernacular expression, "going some," applies with original vigor to this early and, perhaps, first sky-pilot.

The Women's Rear Car.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The McAdoo experiment in running cars for women only was doomed to failure from the beginning. The method of granting these exclusively minded ladies' request was not a compliment to tired and nervous womanhood, but a piece of ungallantry that any person with a good Irish name should be ashamed of. The rear car on a long and crowded train is the most difficult to reach, the first to have its doors closed, and the one in greatest danger in case of an accident. Nothing but desperation would induce me to ride in such a hencoop attached as a rear guard to a train in rush hours, and women have shown their proper sense of the fitness of things by letting this car alone. The incident, by the way, is a fine example of how men pretend to give women what they want, and then say the women did not know what they wanted.

The Sale of Cheap Revolvers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is pertinent to ask concerning the consciences and civic spirit of the proprietors of daily (or other) papers that advertise "cheap revolvers for the Fourth of July; $3 or $4 only." Every year numerous persons are killed or crippled by bullets fired from pistols used in celebrating. Legal responsibility for these deaths and maimings should follow the certain moral responsibility that rests upon the shoulders of whoever assists in furthering the sale of such weapons, whether by selling them over the counter or by advertising them. The money so obtained is blood money in both cases, and will be so regarded when American communities shall have attained to half the civilization they now vainly imagine they possess. THE KAISER'S PRIZE.

Concordia Singers of Wilkesbarre Feel They Should Have Received It.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A little space, if you please, to try to essay the almost hopeless task of correcting what would seem in the face of repeated denials to be a willful bit of prevarication about the Concordia Society of Wilkesbarre, which was hailed all last Wednesday in New York as the final winner of the Kaiser prize, but which was not given the decision owing to some of the most mysterious markings that have ever distinguished five otherwise distinguished judges.

It is true, as has been repeatedly stated, that Concordia is cordially feared and therefore cordially disliked by the body of the Northeastern Saengerbund. This is not because there is a preponderating Welsh influence in the society, for there is not. It is because the Concordia represents one of the smaller cities, and the societies of the big towns have never gotten over their resentment that Concordia won the contest in the second class at Brooklyn nine years ago; the first class contest at Baltimore six years ago, with a perfect score; the Kaiser prize at Newark three years ago, with another perfect rating.

Most of the wail that has been heard because Concordia was not declared the winner of the prize at the recent New York Saengerfest has come, not from Concordia, but from the great audience that heard the singing, and from a dozen of the most eminent choral leaders in the country, who have declared their conviction that the Wilkesbarre company deserved a rating well above any other chorus; because also the Maennerchor of Philadelphia conceded Concordia as winners, and because the Kreutzer Quartet Club thought that either Wilkesbarre would win or that they (the Kreutzers) would tie with Wilkesbarre Concordia for the prize.

The decision was a shock to practically everybody outside the Board of Judges, even President Lenz of the Bund declaring that it seemed beyond question that Concordia had maintained its supremacy.

Be this as it may, the fact remains, as to nationality, that Concordia is made up 50 per cent. of Germans or sons of Germans; 30 per cent. of Simon-pure Americans, including former members of a dozen college glee clubs; 10 per cent. scattered—Irish, English, Scotch, Polish, and Indian, and the remaining 10 per cent. Welsh. Its business sessions are conducted in German; it is a society thirty years old, and has all along adhered to the German plan and confined itself almost altogether to the German song. The leader is a native German.

Please help to set right these absurd stories about this "Welsh society." The description applied to the Scranton Maennerchor, whose leader is Welsh and the membership of which is 75 per cent. Welsh.

The great object of the Bund and of the Saengerfest is to spread the love and the influence of German song. This is acknowledged by all the Bund membership. If Concordia, with a big nucleus of Germans, is spreading its song influence among its cosmopolitan membership of Americans, Scotch, English, Irish, Polish, Indian, &c., is it not eloquently serving the great object of the Bund?

DRUGGED "SOFT" DRINKS.

The Food Law Has Partly Revealed Their Character.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter printed in to-day's TIMES signed by W. B. Keller, Jr., is as interesting for what it omitted to say about the "fake" soft drinks as for what it did say. Before the National pure food law was enforced the makers of the many kinds of "soft" drinks had a free field, and the terrible decoctions which they put on the market were far worse than most people had any idea of. Even the ordinary soda waters were mostly adulterated. Such fruit extracts or syrups as strawberry, raspberry, pineapple, orange, lemon, cherry, &c., were all "fakes"—not one had one drop of real strawberry, or raspberry, or pineapple, or orange, or lemon, or cherry fruit juice. It was just the same with the "ales," as ginger ale, which seldom contained much ginger. The other kinds of drinks were all "doped," usually with cocaine or caffeine.

For obvious reasons these "fake" drinks, as they look good and taste pleasant, have had a large sale in the prohibition places, but even there the authorities are putting a stop to the fraud and deception and to the sale of those drinks which contain drugs and chemicals. In a recent report issued by the W. C. T. U. a long list of the "fake" beverages is given, and that organization is now finding that more harm is being done by them, especially in the South, than by the stronger drinks.

One by one the makers of the fake fruit juices for soda water and other beverages have changed their game and their names. Thus, if you will look in the bottling trade journals you will find these advertised not as fruit juices or syrups, but as "soda water flavors." You will also find other compounds and imitations now advertised under different names. Special beverages are advertised with special names, but the labels of most of them are not as they were before the pure food laws got after them. I remember a concoction labeled once as a great thing for mental and bodily vigor, but now that is cut out, and the label is no longer of the patent medicine variety.

Axioms of Transit.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The transit philosophy of "Twentieth Century," which ranks the termination of a "lecture," as a cause of car crowding in this city before that of a theatrical performance or a concert, is evidently not indigenous to the soil. The statement that "rest is change and change is rest" gives a clue to its origin. Indeed, this axiom smacks of a higher philosophy than that of mere "strap hanging," and in its present application as a health hint to the sedentary might not inappropriately have been lifted entire from "Science and Health" itself. Goethe has said that "rest is the fitting of self to one's sphere." The Subway is the great "sphere" to-day of the New Yorker to which he is fitted, adjusted, not to say welded, by competent forces working to this end from behind. The "pay-as-you-enter system" seems to be our destiny in the future. The philosophy of these canvas showmen seems to be taken from that of the late A. Ward, Esq., over whose waxwork exhibit was posted this "notis": "You can pay without going in, but you can't go in without paying."

THE UNITED STATES OF RHODE ISLAND.

There was a stir in Providence,
  In Providence, R. I.
The flags were floating everywhere,
  The banners streaming high.
The word went 'round Rhode Island,
  "Hold steady—do or die!
They're going to move the Capitol
  To Providence, R. I."

And men were full of gladness,
  And women cheered and sang,
The bunting flapped out proudly,
  And all the church bells rang;
For was there not good reason,
  The States took up the cry:
"We're going to move the Senate
  To Providence, R. I."

And fast came news and faster
  From Washington, D. C.,
Till all New England heard it
  And cheered with ecstasy:
"Sound loud the drum and cymbals,
  Let all the banners fly,
They're going to move the White House
  To Providence, R. I."

And through the noon and sunlight,
  And through the dusk and gloam,
The cry went up and echoed:
  "Our Nelse is coming home.
The long-fought battle's ended,
  His flags are floating high,
He's bringing us the Congress
  To Providence, R. I."

"Three cheers!" cried Peleg Potter,
  "Three cheers!" cried Treadwell True;
And so the cheers were echoed
  Quite all the country through.
"The U. S. of Rhode Island,
  Its name shall be," they cry,
"And all else shall be Annex,

LONDON SEES PLAY BY SOCIETY LEADER

Mrs. Cornwallis-West Produces "His Borrowed Plumes" Before Brilliant Audience.

CALLED BEFORE CURTAIN

Mrs. Patrick Campbell and Others of Exceptional Merit in the Cast—Outline of the Plot.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 6.—So far as the reception given the play at the initial performance may serve as a criterion, "His Borrowed Plumes," by Mrs. George Cornwallis-West, formerly Lady Randolph Churchill, daughter of the late Leonard Jerome of New York, should be regarded as successful. It was produced this afternoon at the Hicks Theatre by Mrs. Cornwallis-West herself before an audience of great social brilliancy, which apparently accepted it without reservation as an original comedy of exceptional excellence. The cast was most capable, including Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Dawson Milward, Henry Ainley, Gertrude Kingston, Annie Hughes, Stella Patrick Campbell, and others of adequate merit.

There was an ovation to the author at the close, and, summoned to the stage by general acclaim, she made several stiff, embarrassed bows and an old-fashioned courtesy.

Among the Americans present were Consuelo, Duchess of Manchester; the Duchess of Roxburghe, Lady Barrymore, Lady Paget, Lady Cunard, Lady Johnstone, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. Frank J. Mackey, Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Moreton Frewen and Mrs. Jack Leslie, Mrs. West's sisters; Mrs. Potter Palmer, and Miss Maxine Elliott. Prince Francis of Teck, Grand Duke Michael of Russia, Princess Henry of Pless, Lady Charles Beresford, and Lady Sarah Wilson were among the twoscore or more of titled personages in the stalls. Mrs. Asquith was also there.

The plot follows: Fabia Sumner is a clever authoress married to an author less able than herself, but who is a V. C. and has a penchant for flirtation, and it is around one of his flirtations that the play centres. Mrs. Cranfield, the other party to the flirtation, gets possession of the manuscript of the wife's next book and imparts to the husband the plot of that book as an idea of her own. He embodies it in a play, his chef d'oeuvre, which is accepted by the National Theatre. He reads it to his wife, who by this time is very jealous, and she recognizes in it her own plot and characters.

Finally Major Sumner tires of Mrs. Cranfield, who on the night of the production of his play tells him the truth about it, and how she had stolen the ideas from his wife's book. There is a reconciliation between husband and wife in the anteroom of the royal box of the theatre, and, going on the stage in response to cries for the author, Major Sumner explains that the play, which has been given to the public as by an anonymous author, is the work of his wife.

CARUSO IS DISPLEASED.

Says Publicity Given His Operation Causes Reduced Demand for Tickets.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 6.—Before leaving for London Enrico Caruso, the tenor, unbosomed himself to the Temps and accused Italian journalists of spreading injurious reports regarding him.

"There is no proportion," he said, "between the insignificant fact of my going to consult a physician and the damage which such news causes me, even if true. I show a doctor my lungs, nose, and throat. What is surprising in that? But if it is printed in a newspaper, the story flies from country to country, and is distorted. The result is my great undeserved distress.

"The report has affected the demand for tickets for my twelve concerts next month in England. Whether I sing before or after an operation, with vocal cords of zinc or of leather, what is the difference to the public if I sing? I will give the money's worth, as I have always done.

"My only trouble was fatigue after the hard work of my last season in America and personal troubles. I have passed through a period of physical and moral depression. People who envy me don't know my case. I earn $300,000 annually, but that can't last over five years more, perhaps. Then I may cease singing. I wish to retire at my best, leaving only pleasant memories.

"I could not sign for an additional three years with the Metropolitan Opera too quickly for the Director after he had heard me sing for my friends."

Caruso is much annoyed because Hammerstein has engaged a young tenor named Carasa. He said it was unfortunate that the name was so much like his, as the young man needs more than the change of a vowel to be a rival.

On April 13, the day before Enrico Caruso sailed for Europe, THE NEW YORK TIMES published a statement that the noted tenor was suffering from an attack of rheumatism of the vocal cords and that he would go to Milan to place himself under the care of a specialist, in the hope that an operation would restore his throat to something like its normal condition.

On April 14, just as his ship was about to sail, Caruso strenuously denied the stories that he was going to Milan to be operated on.

On April 20 Caruso was met by reporters upon his arrival in Liverpool, and again emphatically denied these stories.

On May 25 Caruso entered the private hospital of Prof. Della Vedova, the throat specialist, in Milan, where the operation was performed.

MRS. COX SUES FOR DIVORCE.

Allegations of Extreme Cruelty Made Against the Congressman.

Special to The New York Times.

GAYTON, Ohio, July 6.—Mrs. James Cox, wife of the Democratic Congressman from the Third Ohio District, has begun suit for divorce in the local Common Pleas Court, alleging extreme cruelty. It is declared names of a number of society people will figure in the testimony because of the filing of the petition by Mrs. Cox instead of by the Congressman.

It had been understood here, since the separation of the Congressman and Mrs. Cox in Washington in June of this year, that the Congressman himself was to bring suit for divorce by agreement with Mrs. Cox, and that the action taken by him would arrange for her care financially and for disposition of the children.

HOTEL COLLINGWOOD ROBBED.

Burglar Climbed the Fire Escape and Entered by the Window.

The management of the Hotel Collingwood, at 45 West Thirty-fifth Street, reported to Police Headquarters yesterday that some time on Monday night a burglar had entered five or six apartments in the hotel and had taken some jewelry and other valuables, the amount of which had not been determined.

The burglar had worked his way up the fire escape, which is near the elevator shaft, and entered the open windows, taking whatever was nearest to hand.

Some of the apartments were unoccupied. The occupants of three reported articles of value missing yesterday.

FATHER'S SACRIFICE VAIN.

Broker Ellero Gave 22 Ounces of His Blood in Trying to Save Girl.

It became known yesterday that Miss Mary Ellero, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Giovanni Ellero, a real estate broker of New Rochelle, died on Sunday at St. Luke's Hospital of Bright's disease after a vain attempt to save her life by transfusing twenty-two ounces of blood from her father's veins.

Three or four operations were performed by Dr. Lyle of the house staff, who tried transfusion as a last resort.

DR. RAFFAELE ASSALTA DEAD.

He Was First Italian to Practice Medicine in Mulberry Street.

Raffaele Assalta, 52 years old, reputed to be the first Italian doctor to practice medicine in the Mulberry Street section, died last night in the New York Hospital while undergoing an operation for a throat affection. Dr. Assalta had been living at 39 Prince Street. Yesterday he had moved his wife and three children to Bath Beach for the Summer. He himself stayed at the Hotel Bertini, 154 Bleecker Street, for a few days.

In the afternoon his old throat trouble affected him so that he sent for a friend, and had himself removed to the New York Hospital. He was put on the operating table early last night, and died while the operation was going on. His funeral will be held on Friday morning at 10 o'clock from Old St. Patrick's Cathedral, on Mott Street.

Dr. Assalta was graduated in medicine from the University of Naples, and came to this country twenty-five years ago. He had always lived in the Italian quarter, and won thousands of friends there. He was a personal friend of the late Lieut. Petrosino.

ZIEGFELD GETS EVA TANGUAY.

She Will Appear Next Monday Evening in "The Follies of 1909."

Eva Tanguay, it was announced last night, is to abandon vaudeville to appear as the star in "The Follies of 1909" at the Jardin de Paris. Contracts with this end in view were signed by the dancer, who is appearing at the New Brighton Theatre, and F. Ziegfeld, Jr., last night.

Miss Tanguay is to appear in the "Follies" next Monday evening in a new part especially written for her. She will replace Nora Bayes, who has been out of the cast of the Ziegfeld production for a week on account of illness.

CUSHMAN, HUMORIST OF THE HOUSE, DEAD

Washington Congressman, the Homely Lincoln of the Coast, Victim of Pneumonia Here.

WON FAME IN FIRST SPEECH

Some of His Quaint Sayings Which Convulsed the House—Rose from Water Boy and Cowboy to High Place.

Francis W. Cushman, Representative in Congress from Tacoma, Wash., who was regarded as the foremost humorist of the House, died at 5 o'clock yesterday morning in Roosevelt Hospital of pneumonia. At his bedside besides the doctors and nurses were Senator Samuel H. Piles of Washington and Andrew S. Burleigh of this city, a lifelong friend. Congressman Cushman underwent an operation a short time ago, and pneumonia resulted.

The body will be put aboard the Chicago Limited of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which leaves Jersey City at 10:55 this morning, and go direct to Tacoma. Mr. Burleigh announced yesterday that he had received from the mother of the dead Congressman a telegram which read: "Wrap Frank in the flag he loved so well when he starts for home." Mrs. Cushman's wishes will be respected.

When Mr. Cushman's body arrives in Pittsburg it will be met by a party of six Congressmen, who will proceed from Pittsburg to Tacoma, as an honorary escort.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Mr. Cushman established a reputation for witty and clever oratory right at the outset of his service in the House, which began with the Fifty-sixth Congress in December, 1899. That was the session at which the Republicans put through the bill formally establishing the gold standard.

He had been in the House less than two weeks, and very few of the Representatives suspected that this ungainly and weirdly homely individual carried such brains in his small, peaked head.

He was not only unusually tall, but unusually thin. And from his narrow shoulders rose a long and wavering neck, surmounted by a small and narrow head. His high cheekbones accentuated the thinness of his face, which gave an appearance of abnormal size to his large nose. His lips were thin and shrewish, in character with the shrewish things he sometimes said, and especially about his political opponents, but in his eyes there was the constant twinkle that gave the clue to his effervescent humor.

When he rose to discuss the Gold Standard bill not half a dozen men in the House expected anything unusual. But the first two minutes gave indication of what was coming, and thereafter his speech was constantly punctuated with applause. He had told of his fight in Washington, and then promised his vote for the pending bill, saying "there would be no greater inconsistency to me in hearing a man talk of bi-yardism, bi-quartism, or bi-bushelism, than to hear any one discourse on the beauties of bi-metallism in the sense of using both metals as a standard."

"In 1896," he said, in his gold standard speech, "the Democratic Party turned its back on its past promises, and furnished the American voters with a brand new soap bubble, filled with Nebraska wind, and asked them to chase that off over another financial and industrial precipice."

"One of the great war cries of the campaign of 1896," he said, in another place, "was that we needed an increased amount of money per capita. The American people have come to understand from actual experience that they are not so much interested in the amount of money in this country per capita as they are in the amount per pocketa."

Toward the close of that speech Mr. Cushman said, in referring to Bryan, that he himself had lived in Nebraska and knew Bryan well. "Yes," he said, "I know him as well as if I had been through him with a lantern. The trouble with the immortal William Jennings Bryan and with most of you is that your arguments are so crooked you cannot walk around the block without meeting yourselves on the other side."

Of all Mr. Cushman's speeches in the House the best remembered is that which he made about his appearance as an insurgent, and took the hide off the House organization, the Speaker, and the rules. He had been three years in Congress then, and had learned from bitter experience the power of the Speaker and the organization. After describing the course of a bill to the calendar he asked what does a member do who has obtained that position for a bill in which his constituents are interested. "I will tell you what he does," said Mr. Cushman. "He either consents that the bill may die upon the calendar or he puts his manhood and his individuality in his pocket and goes trotting down that little pathway of personal humiliation that leads to where? To the Speaker's room. Aye, the Speaker's room. All the glories that clustered round the holy of holies in King Solomon's temple looked like 30 cents, yes, looked like 29 cents compared with that jobbing department of this Government."

Sereno Payne, who, then as now, was Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, came in for a special drubbing at Cushman's hands in that speech, as did Gen. Charles H. Grosvenor of Ohio and John Dalzell, the Speaker's Republican colleagues on the Committee on Rules. It was in that speech that Mr. Cushman gave his famous explanation of why he was so thin.

"I have behind me an honest but infuriated constituency," he said, "half a million worthy, honest, patriotic people, who are demanding, and rightfully, that I secure certain needed legislation for them. That is the pressure on me from the rear. Then, in this house, whenever I try to secure consideration of the matters in which my people are interested I run up against the stone wall that surrounds the Speaker and the Committee on Rules. That is the pressure in front. And I tell you frankly that between the two I have become thinner than a canceled postage stamp. That is what is the matter with me."

That speech marked the climax of Mr. Cushman's personal insurrection. For a year or so afterward he took his punishment in the defeat of his "local" bills and secured time for what brief speeches he made largely from the leader of the minority. Gradually his insurrectionary enthusiasm subsided, and he came more and more in harmony with the organization.

In his later years in the House, Mr. Cushman did not often display his wit. He saw that he was in danger of gaining a reputation as a professional wit only, and he was ambitious for something much more important. Under his wit and satire there was a good deal of solid ability, and he was looking forward to the time when he could obtain election to the Senate. If he had lived he probably would have made it next Winter, when the successor to Senator Piles will be chosen.

Mr. Cushman was only 42 years old, but he had had a widely varied experience. He began work when only a boy, carrying water for construction gangs on a railroad that was building near his home in Iowa. Then he went to Wyoming and worked as a cowboy for five years. He studied law in Wyoming and began its practice in Nebraska, thence moving to Washington. In his first campaign for Congress he defeated the famous "Jim Ham" Lewis of pink-whiskered celebrity, who got one term in the House on the strength of his fluent free-silver advocacy.

The Congressman held the title of being the homeliest man in the House and of looking more like Lincoln than any other public man of recent years.

MRS. E. F. BARTLETT WEDS.

Widow of William Bartlett Marries C. S. Eaton, Wealthy Bostonian.

Special to The New York Times.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 6.—The most interesting wedding of the season took place here to-day, when C. S. Eaton, the wealthy Boston restaurateur and yachtsman, was married to Mrs. Ella F. Bartlett of Pasadena, Cal., widow of William Francis Bartlett of Pittsfield. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Peter Goldsmith of Salem.

Mrs. Bartlett's first husband was the son of the late Gen. William F. Bartlett of Pittsfield and a twin brother of Robert Pomery Bartlett.

The former Mrs. Bartlett was a Western woman before her marriage, and after the death of her husband returned to California, where she has since lived.

DEATH OF JOHN L. RIKER.

End Comes to the Old-Time New York Merchant at Seabright, N. J.

John Lawrence Riker died last night at his country home at Seabright, N. J., at the age of 79. He came of one of the old Knickerbocker families, whose history has been bound up with New York's from its foundation. His family records go back even further. One of his ancestors, Hans von Rycken, with his kinsman, Melchior, took part in the First Crusade.

The family moved to Amsterdam later, and as loyal supporters of William the Silent in his resistance to Spain lost its fortune. Then several of its members crossed the Atlantic to try their fortune in the New World. Abraham Rycken received in 1638 from Gov. Kieft a large tract of land on the Wallabout, and established a place of business at Broad and Beaver Streets. In 1654 he received another grant of a farm on Bowery Bay, and in 1664 Gov. Stuyvesant gave him a patent for Hewlett's Island, in the East River, which thus acquired its present name of Riker's Island. It remained in the possession of the family till its purchase by the city in 1845.

The Riker family was distinguished in the Revolutionary war, Samuel Riker being for long a prisoner in the hands of the British. He left a son, John Lawrence Riker, who was born in 1787, and lived on the old family estate at Bowery Bay, L. I. He married twice, his second wife being Miss Lavinia Smith, who came of a Hempstead family, which had then been established on Long Island almost as long as the Rikers had been at Bowery Bay.

Mr. Riker, who died yesterday, was the son of this couple. He was born at Bowery Bay in 1830 and educated at the Astoria Academy under Dr. Haskins. He had no desire to follow the law, the traditional profession of his family, but embarked on a business career. He was known for many years as one of the city's principal merchants. At his death he was a Director in the Argentine Quebracho Company, the Atlantic Mutual Insurance Company, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg Railway, the Continental Insurance Company, the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, the Fidelity and Casualty Company, the Greenwich Savings Bank, the Hanover Fire Insurance Company, the Metropolitan Trust Company, the New Jersey Zinc Company, the Niagara Fire Insurance Company, and the Plaza Bank. He was also Vice President of the Bank of New York, the Fifth Avenue Safe Deposit Company, the Laflin and Rand Powder Company, and the Second National Bank.

Mr. Riker married in 1857 Miss Mary Anne Jackson. He leaves seven children—John Jackson Riker, Henry L. Riker, Margaret M. Lavinia Riker, Samuel Riker, Mattina Riker, Charles Lawrence Riker, and May J. Riker.

He was a member of the Holland and St. Nicholas Societies, the Sons of the Revolution, and the St. Nicholas, Union League, Metropolitan, City, Riding, New York Yacht, Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht, and New York Athletic Clubs.

FORDHAM MORRIS DEAD.

Bright's Disease Kills Member of Old New York Family at Lenox.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., July 6.—Fordham Morris of New York died suddenly to-night at 9:30 of Bright's disease. He arrived in Lenox for the Summer early in June, and soon afterward was taken seriously ill with Bright's disease, and his daughter, Mrs. R. Horace Gallatin, was summoned. After a fortnight he began to improve and seemed to be much better. To-night he suffered a relapse and failed to rally.

He was 67 years old, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis G. Morris of Fordham. He served in the civil war with distinction in the artillery brigade. For years he was a member of the New York bar. He was a Trustee of the College of the City of New York, a member of the Loyal Legion, New York Yacht Club, Century Association, and St. Nicholas Society. He was graduated from Trinity College in 1864 and from Columbia Law School in 1868. He leaves a widow, who was Miss Annie L. Westcott, and one daughter, Mrs. R. Horace Gallatin.

From Mr. Morris's family Morrisania and Fordham derive their names. The family owned vast real estate interests in the Bronx, but Mr. Morris had not lived there for some years. His town house was at 45 East Thirtieth Street.

Mr. Evans fractured two ribs in the accident, which caused an intestinal affection. He was born in St. John, N. B., sixty-seven years ago.

Charles Francis Barker.

BOSTON, July 6.—Charles Francis Barker, for many years the world's checker champion, died in this city last night. He had been ill for some time with gastritis. He was born in this city fifty-one years ago. In 1878 he won the championship of America by defeating M. C. Priest of Philadelphia and A. S. Heffner of Providence. In 1887 he won the world's championship by defeating James Wyllie at Glasgow, Scotland. Since that time he had defended his title successfully year after year.

THE NEW NOVEL BY JAMES LANE ALLEN
"Followers of Mr. Allen's work do not need to be reminded of his art. It was never more exquisitely revealed."
The Bride of the Mistletoe
By the author of "A Kentucky Cardinal"
"The best thing he has ever done.... a masterpiece of art."
Cloth, $1.25.
A book to be read and re-read; for the story is of a dramatic tenseness to make one hurry to the end; the meaning is subtle enough to send one pondering to the depths of his own heart; and the language and imagery are in themselves a delight throughout.
"A work of art more complete in expression than anything that has yet come from him. It is like a cry of the soul so intense one scarcely realizes whether it is put into words or not."—The Bookman.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Dull and Firm—Call Money Rates, 1½@1⅞ Per Cent.

GOOD STATE CROP REPORTS

Illinois, Ohio, and Missouri Note Improvement—Grain Markets Down—Foreign Exchange Rates Lower.

After a strong opening, with advances of a point or more in a number of issues, in response to a substantially higher range of quotations in London, the stock market here trailed off into the dullness characteristic of last week's sessions and maintained this apathy very steadily through the rest of the day. Southern Pacific preferred and common; Union Pacific preferred, and American Smelting were among the few stocks to display vigor in their movements and for their behavior no new explanations were forthcoming. The possibilities of dividend increases in Southern Pacific and Smelting were canvassed on the floor of the Stock Exchange once more, and renewed discussion was had of the position Union Pacific preferred will occupy in the event of any special distribution. Third Avenue shares were heavy during most of the day, but recovered toward the close, while United States Steel common maintained its ground, in spite of the further advices from Paris regarding the difficulties surrounding the plan to list it indirectly on that market. As an indication of the attitude of French investment institutions toward American securities the announcement of the sale to a group of Paris bankers of a block of $10,000,000 of St. Louis & San Francisco bonds was most interesting. Whether Steel shares are eventually listed or not, it is quite apparent that a genuine demand for American issues prevails in France, and this after all is the important fact. The persistent betterment of conditions in the business world was once more reflected in the enlarging orders for railroad supplies placed with manufacturers, by the increases in wages on the part of industrial concerns here and there throughout the country, and by excellent railroad earnings statements for the month of May, including that of the Wabash, with its increase of $251,000 in gross returns.

It was not in commodities markets, however, that the day's real developments of importance were to be found. Wheat prices declined nearly 2 cents a bushel, and corn fell as much. This weakness suggested the belief of these markets in a favorable Government report on the crops, covering conditions as of July 1, the statement itself appearing to-morrow and confirmation of this belief was obtainable from the unusually good State reports for June issued during the day by Ohio, Illinois, and Missouri. In Ohio Winter wheat improved from a condition percentage of 73 on June 1 to 77, in Illinois the gain was 8 points, and in Missouri the promised yield is nearly 3,000,000 bushels above that of last year. In all three States the improvement in corn is even greater, with the outlook for record yields.

Although foreign exchange rates were relatively weak, dropping some 15 points, it is still thought in banking circles that further shipments of gold to Europe and to South America in considerable volume will be arranged before the close of the week. Money rates remained abnormally easy, a tendency readily explained by the unusual surplus reserves of the local banks.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Day of Sluggish Trading, with Narrow and Irregular Price Movements on the Curb.

COPPERS UP AND DOWN

After Light Trading Gains and Losses in This Department Are About Evenly Divided—Goldfield Consolidated Off.

Curb trading was in small volume yesterday, and price movements, such as they were, showed irregularity, fractional gains and losses being about equaly divided at the close. Cumberland-Ely, British Columbia, and Nevada Consolidated made trifling gains, while Miami and Greene-Cananea sold down. United Copper and Miami sold off fractionally. Goldfield Consolidated was one of the few issues to show signs of weakness, losing ¼ on transactions of only 3,700 shares.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

London Buying Southern Pacific.

From the 1½ per cent. rise shown in the price of Southern Pacific common in London before the opening of our market yesterday brokers were led to expect something out of the ordinary in the way of a demonstration on the local Exchange. They got it in the initial transactions in Southern Pacific, which were approximately on London's level, but that ended the excitement. The stock held decidedly firm during the rest of the day, but failed to better its early quotations to any noteworthy extent. When the stock dropped under 133 brokers said that there appeared to be almost an unlimited buying demand, in spite of which it declined to 132½, but quickly recovered to around the opening figure. It was estimated that London's purchases of Southern Pacific common were in the neighborhood of 20,000 shares, but there was an unusual dearth of gossip or explanations to account for the exceptional strength of the issue. The fact that the buying started from London was regarded in some quarters as significant, it being recalled that the heavy purchases of Union Pacific preferred, which carried the stock from 97½ to 110 not long ago, began from London.

⁂

Revival of Harriman Rumors.

The old rumor that Southern Pacific common would be put on a 7 per cent. dividend basis in August, and that the Union Pacific Directors would declare a 12 per cent. rate on the common stock was revived, but although the action of Southern Pacific in the market might be construed as lending color to this story, the same could not be said of Union Pacific. The preferred stock advanced a point, but the common, which primarily would be benefited by such a move, failed to follow the lead. The stock was firm, but its extreme range of fluctuations, if such they might be called, was confined within ⅝ per cent., closing at a net advance of ⅛. If any actual news got into even private circulation that the dividend was to be raised to 12 per cent. the market failed to reflect it. In banking circles not much faith was placed in the Union Pacific dividend increase rumor. It has been intimated in authoritative quarters that no change in the Southern Pacific dividend should be looked for, at least until after Mr. Harriman's return.

⁂

Strength of Subsidiary Stocks.

A peculiar coincidence was exceptional strength shown in the stocks of Canadian Pacific subsidiary companies. Canadian Pacific itself made a net gain of only ¼ per cent. To be sure, that represented a recovery of a full point from the low level of the day, but was hardly commensurate with the advances in its allied shares. Wisconsin Central common, for instance, advanced 2 points, "Soo" common 2½, while Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic rose 1 and 1½ per cent., respectively, for the common and preferred shares. There was a revival of discussion of the possibility of the Canadian Pacific's extending its interest in United States territory through the acquisition of some other road or roads, but no one appeared to take this talk very seriously. If there was anything in it, it might be assumed that the stock of the parent company rather than of subsidiaries would be the one on which the buying would converge.

⁂

A Bull Theory.

Hundreds of brokers are firm in the conviction that the market is being conducted under the auspices of the "big men." In support of this theory it is contended that the bears have not been able to make much headway against the really important stocks. The experience recently of many traders who sold short leading railroad and industrial shares has been insignificant profits, or larger losses, when they attempted to cover. The same has not been true in the case of Third Avenue, Western Maryland, and one or two others, which declined heavily last week, but the assumption is that the general market is not particularly influenced by bad breaks in such stocks as these, and consequently no one of importance has been taking the trouble to protect them marketwise. These issues, it is argued, are a thing apart to stand or fall on their own merits, and have not been embraced in the community of interest agreement, as it were, which is alleged to exist concerning the more prominent shares.

⁂

Repurchasing Third Avenue?

Last Fall the Interborough-Metropolitan Company quietly slid out of holdings amounting to in the neighborhood of $7,000,000, par value, of Third Avenue stock at an average price believed to be not far from 40. This was accomplished when a great many bull points on Third Avenue were going the rounds and much was being said in unofficial circles about the merits of Third Avenue stock. It is worthy of mention that certain eminent bankers supposed to know a lot about the system did not give any encouragement at that time to those who sought their advice with a view to buying it. Since then, and only yesterday, the stock sold at 16. Suggestions are now being heard that the Interborough-Metropolitan Company might find it advantageous to repurchase the Third Avenue stock it has sold, thereby again obtaining a foothold in that property. The price at which the Interborough-Metropolitan got rid of its holdings would come pretty near to covering their present market value plus the twenty-five-dollar assessment. That might not be such a bad stroke of business, but, of course, whether or not the Interborough-Metropolitan has already bought back some Third Avenue or intends to do so is purely a matter of conjecture, from the public point of view. Secrets of this sort, if such exist, are not disclosed, for obvious reasons, until the time is ripe.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Americans Close Weak on the London Exchange.

LONDON, July 6.—The supplies of money considerably exceeded the demand on the market to-day, and discounts were easy.

Trading on the Stock Exchange was only moderately active, but the undertone was steady, especially in consols, colonial stocks, and the new issues, which benefited on cheaper money. Home rails were dull pending dividend announcements. Foreign rails were easy, and Kaffirs closed steady after hesitation.

American securities were quiet in the forenoon, but yesterday's advances were firmly maintained. The Wall Street opening proved disappointing, however, and with New York selling Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific, and United States Steel the market declined and closed weak.

Bar silver quiet, 23⅜d per ounce.

Money, ½@1¾ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills, 1¼@1 5-16 per cent.; for three months' bills, 1 5-16@1⅜ per cent.

PARIS, July 6.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were steady.

Three per cent. rentes, 97f 67½c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 18c for checks.

BERLIN, July 6.—Trading on the Boerse to-day was quiet, but prices were rather firm.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT.—There was a further adjustment of prices to more bearish crop conditions yesterday and the market closed weak. Rain in the Ohio Valley furnished the only unfavorable feature of weather news over the holidays, and this was practically offset by a drop of ¼@½d in the Liverpool market. Advices were that wheat was yielding 24 bushels to the acre in sections where not more than 18 bushels were expected. The Missouri report made yield 14.3 bushels per acre, or three bushels more than last year. The condition of 91 in Illinois was 8 per cent. higher than in May, while the Ohio condition of 77 contrasted with 73 the previous month. An official report from Canada placed the area of the three Northwest provinces at 6,788,000 acres, or 1,254,000 bushels more than last year, with an increase of 1,140,000 acres in the entire Canadian area. Reports from Kansas City said that mills would pay $1.12½ to $1.13 for new wheat, and were anxious to get it. There was an advance of 1¼c in Budapest since Friday and a decline of 1¾c at Berlin. Exporters bought twenty-five loads. Cash wheat in New York closed: Old No. 2 red, $1.45, elevator and free on board, afloat; No. 2 red, new, $1.19⅜, end of August; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.34⅜, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.31⅜, free on board, afloat.

CORN.—A break yesterday reflected prospects for a big crop. State reports were bearish, Missouri giving an increase of 7 per cent. in area over last year, with the best prospects since the record yield of 1902. In Ohio the condition was 88 and area 102, while Illinois had a condition 17 points better than last year. Cables were ⅜d lower and world's shipments about 1,300,000 bushels ahead of last week, while the visible supply decreased 164,000 bushels. Export business of twelve loads was reported. No. 2 corn in New York closed 78½c, elevator, and 78c, free on board, afloat, for old, and 63⅝c for new, free on board, afloat, latter Winter shipment.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 6.—Superior and Pittsburg was the feature in the local market to-day, advancing to 18½ on large transactions. North Butte sold off a couple of points on Western orders, while the balance of the list was fairly active, but shows little change in price level. The market closed steady, and with but little stock pressing for sale.

At the last State and National Bank call The New York Times as usual carried more statements of banks than any other newspaper—one hundred and two.

The New York Times is recognized by bankers and financiers generally as the foremost, most largely circulated, and most efficient financial advertising medium. The Times is kept on file in banking institutions throughout the country, and the financial houses use its advertising columns more extensively than any other newspaper in New York, or, indeed, in the world.

The circulation of The New York Times exceeds by at least five times the circulation of the newspaper next to it in volume of financial advertising.

REORGANIZATION OF THE Chicago Great Western Railway Company:

To the Holders of Debenture Stock, Preferred Stock A, Preferred Stock B, Common Stock

CHICAGO GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY:

At the request of the London Committee for Debenture Stock, of the New York Committee for Debenture Stock, and of the New York Committee for Preferred Stock A, Preferred Stock B, and Common Stock, the undersigned have consented to act as Reorganization Managers in carrying out a Plan for the Reorganization of the Chicago Great Western Railway Company. Copies of the Plan and of the accompanying Agreement whereunder participating stocks may be deposited may be obtained at our office.

NEW COMPANY.

A new Company is to be formed under the laws of Illinois or some other state, to purchase at or after judicial sale the property of the existing Company, including the stocks of the subsidiary companies.

The new Company is to authorize the following securities:

(1) First Mortgage Fifty-Year Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds, to bear interest from September 1, 1909.

Such bonds to the aggregate amount of $28,000,000 shall be issuable upon or presently after the completion of reorganization, for the purposes thereof, as stated in the Plan.

Additional bonds secured by said mortgage to such further aggregate amount as shall be determined by the Reorganization Managers, shall be reserved to be issued as stated in the Plan.

(2) Four Per Cent. Preferred Stock to an aggregate amount of $50,000,000, of which $41,021,402 is to be used for the purposes of the Plan, and the remainder is to be used as from time to time shall be determined by the Reorganization Managers or by the Board of Directors of the new Company.

In each fiscal year until June 30, 1914, the holders of the Preferred Stock shall be entitled to non-cumulative dividends at the rate of four (4) per cent. per annum; and unless and until such dividends from time to time shall have been declared, and the amount thereof paid or set aside for payment, no dividend shall be declared in such fiscal year on any other stock of the Company. In and for each and every fiscal year after June 30, 1914, the holders of the Preferred Stock shall be entitled to cumulative dividends at the rate of four (4) per cent. per annum before any dividend shall be declared on any other stock of the Company.

The preferred stock is preferred also as to principal upon liquidation and has such other rights and is subject to such other conditions as are stated in the Plan.

The Common Stock shall be subject to the rights and preferences of the holders of the Preferred Stock at any time outstanding.

If and when permitted by law, the new Company shall have the right at its option at any time to redeem and cancel its Preferred Stock, by payment to the holders of such stock of the par amount thereof, and any accrued and unpaid dividends for any fiscal year or years after June 30, 1914.

(3) Common Stock to an aggregate amount of $46,000,000, of which $45,245,613 is to be used for the purposes of the Plan, and the remainder is to be used as from time to time shall be determined by the Reorganization Managers or by the Board of Directors of the new Company.

VOTING TRUST.

All stock of the new Company (except such number of shares as may be necessary to qualify directors) shall, for the period of five years after the organization of the new Company, be vested in Messrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, George F. Baker and Robert Fleming, as Voting Trustees, with power to fill vacancies and other powers to be stated in the Voting Trust Agreement whose terms will be prescribed by the Reorganization Managers. The Voting Trust is to be subject to termination at any time in the manner stated in the Plan.

RESTRICTIONS AS TO ADDITIONAL MORTGAGE DEBT AND PREFERRED STOCK.

Provision is to be made that no mortgage, other than that mentioned in the Plan, shall be placed upon the property to be acquired by the new Company, nor shall the amount of its Preferred Stock authorized under the Plan be increased, except in each instance after obtaining the consent, in writing, of the holders of a majority of the whole amount of the Preferred Stock at the time outstanding, or the consent of the holders of a majority of the amount of such Preferred Stock represented and voting at a meeting of stockholders called pursuant to notice indicating that the subject is to be voted upon.

Provision will be made so that during the continuance of the voting trust, the consent in writing of holders of like amounts of voting trust certificates for Preferred Stock shall likewise be necessary for the purposes indicated.

FINANCIAL.

The cash requirements of the property for the purposes of the reorganization, the payment of outstanding debts, (other than the mortgage bonds of the subsidiary companies,) and for provision for betterments, improvements, and equipment, are as follows:

Notes and other obligations, with unpaid interest accrued and to accrue, and expenses of receivership and reorganization, say	$15,000,000
Cost of rehabilitation, additional terminals, additional locomotive terminals and shops, additional equipment, etc., immediately to be provided, say	9,892,274
Total to be provided, say	$24,892,274

Such cash requirements will be met by the Syndicate in the manner set forth in the Plan.

BASIS OF PARTICIPATION AND SYNDICATE OFFER.

The basis of participation of Debenture Stock and Preferred Stock A, and the offer made by the Syndicate (of which the undersigned will be members) to depositors of Preferred Stock B and of Common Stock, all as stated in the Plan, are as follows:

Participation under the Plan by holders of the several classes of stock is dependent on the deposit of the stock certificates with the undersigned, within the period limited therefor. The Plan embraces only the stocks so deposited. No certificate for any stock of any class will be received on deposit unless in negotiable form.

Debenture Stock and Preferred Stock A are to be received without payment, as stated in the Plan.

Depositors of Preferred Stock B must pay $15 in respect of each share of such Preferred Stock B so deposited, and will be entitled to obtain from the Syndicate mentioned in the Plan, Preferred Stock voting trust certificates of the New Company when issued, equal at par to such payment, and also Common Stock voting trust certificates of the new Company, when issued, to an aggregate amount at par equal to 60 per cent. of the par value of their present Preferred Stock B so deposited.

Depositors of Common Stock must pay $15 in respect of each share of such Common Stock so deposited and will be entitled to obtain from the Syndicate, hereinafter mentioned, Preferred Stock voting trust certificates of the new Company, when issued, equal at par to such payment, and also Common Stock voting trust certificates of the new Company, when issued, to an aggregate amount at par equal to 40 per cent. of the par value of their present Common Stock so deposited.

These payments must be made at the office of the undersigned in three installments, to be at least thirty days apart, when and as called for by advertisement in each instance at least twice a week for two weeks in the New York SUN and New York TRIBUNE.

All payments must be receipted for by the Reorganization Managers on the Certificates of Deposit.

In case of failure to pay any installment on or before the date specified in such advertisement, all rights of the Depositor in the deposited stock and in respect of any installment theretofore paid ipso facto will pass to and will vest in the Reorganization Managers and in the Syndicate, and any and all rights of the Depositor to further participation forthwith will cease and determine.

Holders of the above mentioned Debenture Stock, Preferred Stock A, Preferred Stock B, and Common Stock may now deposit their stocks with us, receiving therefor a Reorganization Certificate of deposit.

Certificates of deposit of Debenture Stock issued by the Bankers Trust Company as depositary of the aforesaid New York Committee for Debenture Stock, when exchangeable for such Debenture Stock, will be accepted by the Reorganization Managers in lieu of such Debenture Stock.

Certificates of deposit of Preferred Stock A, and of Preferred Stock B, and of Common Stock, respectively, issued by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York as depositary of the aforesaid New York Committee for Preferred Stock A, Preferred Stock B, and Common Stock, when exchangeable for such stocks, respectively, will be accepted by the Reorganization Managers in lieu of such several stocks.

All holders of stock of the Railway Company are invited to apply for copies of the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization, as depositors thereunder will be bound thereby irrespective of the contents of this notice. The Plan and Agreement set forth in detail many features which it is impracticable to condense into this notice, but which are of importance.

We believe that a prompt consummation of the Plan will insure to the best interests of the stockholders of all classes and will place the property on a sound basis.

Further information connected with the reorganization will be furnished to stockholders on application at our office.

KUHN, LOEB TAKE $37,500,000 BONDS

Union Pacific's Quota of Southern Pacific Convertibles Are Placed Here and Abroad.

SELLING WELL ABOVE PAR

The Union Pacific, Besides Making Some Profit, Converts Into Cash Its Advances to Other Road.

The $37,500,000 of Southern Pacific convertible bonds, the sale of which by the Union Pacific was reported last week, were taken by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. The bankers purchased the bonds from the Union Pacific in a single block and have since, it is understood, placed them here and abroad. The Union Pacific, as the principal stockholder of the Southern Pacific, had, in common with the other shareholders in the company, the right to subscribe at 96 to its share of the $82,000,000 of Southern Pacific convertible bonds announced last February. The Union Pacific exercised its subscription privilege and received $37,500,000 of the bonds out of the total issue of $82,000,000.

The Southern Pacific stockholders other than the Union Pacific were entitled to a total of $44,500,000 of these bonds. When the bonds were offered to the stockholders, an underwriting syndicate, of which Kuhn, Loeb & Co. were the managers, was formed to assure the successful flotation of the bonds to which the individual stockholders of the Southern Pacific were entitled to subscribe. Subsequently the same bankers purchased from the Union Pacific all of its $37,500,000 quota of these Southern Pacific bonds. The price at which the sale was made has not been made known, but it is understood to have been not much above the subscription price of 96, the sale having been arranged some time ago. The bonds, since they were put out, have shown a large advance, and within the last few days have reached a new high record, selling yesterday up to 104⅞.

By the sale of these bonds the Union Pacific, besides making some profit over the price at which it subscribed to the bonds, converted into cash the large advances which it had previously made to the Southern Pacific. These advances at the time of the Southern Pacific's issue of these convertible bonds amounted to about $20,000,000, which served as an outset to that extent to the subscription price of the $37,500,000 of bonds taken by the Union Pacific. By selling the bonds the Union Pacific has converted these advances to the Southern Pacific into cash and has realized in addition a further substantial sum in cash.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Early Weakness Short Lived—Closes at 16 to 25 Points Net Advance.

Cotton again made new high records yesterday, after some early irregularity, and closed very steady, 16@25 points net higher.

The market opened firm at an advance of 5@9 points, and quickly sold 11@12 points net higher on an accumulation of buying orders attracted by Friday's Government report. The advance was temporarily checked by good weather over the holidays and reports from Liverpool that English spinners were likely to remain out of the market owing to unfavorable trade conditions. The Continent was believed to be a large buyer here during the afternoon.

Contract prices were as follows:

$1,500,000 More Gold for Argentina.

The National City Bank has arranged to send $1,500,000 gold coin to Argentina by next Saturday's steamer, indicating that the gold movement to that country, which has been under way for a number of months, has not yet run its course. Inquiries were made at the Assay Office yesterday for more gold bars for export to Europe, but no supply of bars suitable for export was available. Sterling exchange rates eased off before the close, demand sterling declining to 4.8790.

CASH FOR WEST. MARYLAND

Possibility of a 40 Per Cent. Stock Assessment—To-day's Meeting.

The plan of reorganization of the Western Maryland Railroad is to be considered to-day at a meeting of the General Lien Bondholders' Committee, of which Alvin W. Krech is Chairman, and an announcement of the plan will probably be made some time this week. It is most likely that the plan will call for a heavy assessment on the stock of the company, rumor having it that the assessment may reach 40 per cent., or $20 a share.

It is known to be the policy of the committee to place the company in such position as to avoid all likelihood of embarrassment in the future, and the way to do this with the greatest certainty, it is thought, is to call upon the stockholders for a large amount of new money, with which to meet the company's requirements.

The plan will call, it is understood, for the raising of a total of from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 cash, part of which will be used to pay off receivers' certificates, part to complete the purchase of coal property upon which installments of purchase money were paid before the road went into the hands of a receiver, and part for other needs of the company.

The Western Maryland has outstanding, besides $42,518,000 of first mortgage bonds, $10,000,000 of general lien convertible bonds and $15,685,400 of stock, exclusive of bonds and of subsidiary lines. Even during the receivership the road has been earning the interest on its first mortgage bonds, and, so far as is known, the reorganization plan will not call for any readjustment of these bonds. The Rockefeller interests in the road are understood to be large holders of both the general lien bonds and of the stock of the company.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—Traders in this city were apparently unable to throw off the holiday spirit of the last three days, and it was about the dullest session on the Exchange this year. Not a sale of Philadelphia Rapid Transit, Union Traction, or United Gas Improvement was made in the first three hours, and, with the exception of Reading, of which 1,500 shares were sold, and United States Steel, of which about 2,000 shares changed hands, not more than three stocks had over 100 shares to their credit.

This company is the owner of the famous Palmilla Mines in Parral, Mexico, formerly owned by Pedro Alvarado, having recently secured full ownership of the property, though the company was originally formed with the same capital stock to secure a 15-year lease of the property on a 55% royalty basis. The Mines are located 2½ miles from the City of Parral, Chihuahua, Mexico, connected by a branch of the Mexican Central called the Parral & Durango R. R., which passes within one mile of the property.

These properties were owned by the father of Pedro Alvarado. No considerable mining was done until 1898, but from that time until 1906 Pedro Alvarado produced, from the best data obtainable, $25,000,000 (Mexican). Through the careless manner in which the property was run it is estimated that at least 25% of the total value of the ore was stolen.

The property is situated on what is known as Palmilla Hill, which rises abruptly from 300 to 500 feet above the surrounding country. This hill seems to be the vein centre of the district, as veins enter it from many directions.

The development has disclosed two well-defined ore chutes. These ore chutes, designated as the North and South chute, are connected by a drift on the 600-ft. level on the vein, carrying ore of commercial value. The ores carry gold and silver in the average proportion of one-third gold and two-thirds silver in value. At the 600-ft. level or lowest level these chutes are 100 feet wide.

The property is well equipped throughout with good shaft houses, blacksmith and machine shops, dwelling houses, etc., with up-to-date hoisting and pump equipment and also with an aerial tram 2½ miles in length from the mine to the railroad at Parral.

Work Done By Present Management

The following letter from Prest. A. J. McQuatters shows the work that has been accomplished by the present management:

To Directors and Stockholders,

Dallas, Texas, June 25, 1909.

Gentlemen: Since accepting the presidency of the Alvarado Consolidated Mines Co., I have been in very close touch with its local management, in fact, I have been almost constantly at the property.

From an examination of the mines at that time it was evident that we had two very important problems confronting us; first, the successful handling of the water in the mine, and second, to prove the mine to depth.

To accomplish these results we first installed a large and adequate pumping plant on the 6th level and are now handling the water with comparative ease and at a very nominal expense. We retimbered a number of the shafts and installed up-to-date electrical hoisting equipment. A large working tunnel was driven through the Palmilla hill for a distance of 1100 feet, which taps the mine workings at 437 feet below the collar of the shaft, thereby reducing the water and ore lift 437 feet. A three-compartment shaft was started at the tunnel level and is now down to a depth of 350 feet below that point, or 200 feet below the lowest point worked by Alvarado, and is still being sunk at the rate of 2½ feet per day. At the bottom of the new shaft, or the 800-ft. level, we are cross-cutting and drifting through the ore bodies, which work, when complete, will give us enormous ore reserves, as we will have opened 200 feet of virgin ground.

The upper levels have been carefully examined by our engineers, who report more than 300,000 tons of milling ore left in the mine by Alvarado and blocked out by us, that will average net values, after treatment charges, of $7.00 per ton (gold). We have over 250,000 tons of ore already mined and now on the surface, from which we have taken over 3000 samples, the assays from which indicate net values after deducting treatment charges of $6.00 per ton gold.

We have been prospecting the bottom of the mine, where we expect to secure our high-grade ore, with diamond drills to an average depth of 225 feet. A large number of assays from these drill holes showed ore of fabulous richness, as well as proving the existence of large bodies of milling ore. As the ore bodies are more than 100 feet wide at this depth, with a combined length of more than 750 feet, the quantity of ore indicated from the diamond drill prospecting would be from 900,000 to 1,100,000 tons. Taking the average of the high-grade and the milling ore and it is safe to figure upon the company realizing very handsome profits in the treatment of this tonnage.

As we have demonstrated by diamond drills that the ore bodies at a depth of 225 feet below the 600-ft. level are over 100 feet wide, there is of course every reason to believe that the values and size of the bodies continue to great depths.

Having solved the problems of handling the water and having proven the permanency of the veins and values below the water level and having demonstrated in a satisfactory manner that the ore yields readily to treatment and that excellent results are obained, I unhesitatingly recommend the immediate construction of a cyanide mill of a daily capacity of 1000 tons to be constructed in units of 250 tons each.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) A. J. McQUATTERS, President.

The New Mill

In order to build the new mill it is proposed to organize a Milling Company with a capital of $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares, par value $1, to treat the ores of the Alvarado Consolidated Mines Co. and the ores of other nearby mines. The shares of the milling company will be given to the stockholders of the Alvarado Mines Co. as a bonus, one share of Milling Co. stock for each share of Alvarado Consolidated Mines Co. stock so purchased and can only be obtained this way.

THE DIRECTORS OF THE MILLING CO. ARE:

JAMES I. LONG, Parral, Mex.
F. W. CLIFFORD, Minneapolis, Prest. Cream of Wheat Co.
J. DUDLEY CLARK of H. C. Wainwright & Co., Bankers, Boston.
SPENCER W. RICHARDSON, Retired Senior Member of Richardson, Hill & Co., Bankers, Boston.
L. S. GILLETTE, Capitalist, Minneapolis, Minn.

The proceeds from the sale of 200,000 shares of the capital stock of the Alvarado Consolidated Mines Co. are to be used in paying underwriters' commission, all expenses and commissions in the flotations of its securities and the buying of an interest in the MILLING COMPANY, so that said MILLING COMPANY will have in its treasury at least $750,000 in cash to build and equip a 1,000-ton mill.

THESE 200,000 SHARES OF TREASURY STOCK (WITH A BONUS OF ONE SHARE OF MILLING STOCK) ARE NOW OFFERED FOR PUBLIC SUBSCRIPTION AT $5 PER SHARE, AS FOLLOWS:

$2 per share to accompany the application for subscription ; and the balance of $3 per share payable within 10 days after notice of final allotment

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD.

New Sixteen-Story Building for Wall Street—Midtown Dwellings Sold—Dealings by Brokers and at Auction.

The leasing of 14, 16, and 18 Wall Street by the Bankers' Trust Company and the proposed erection of a sixteen-story office building there is reported in detail in another column.

Mrs. Tams Sells 22d St. Dwellings.

William A. White & Sons have sold for Mrs. J. Frederick Tams 136 and 138 East Twenty-second Street, two four-story dwellings, each on lot 16.3 by 98.9.

West 58th St. Dwelling Sold.

The McVickar, Gaillard Realty Company has sold for Mrs. C. F. Bratten the four-story dwelling 130 West Fifty-eighth Street, on plot 16.8 by 100.

Hulbert Peck & Sons were the brokers in the sale of 511 Eighth Avenue, on plot 20 by 74, recently reported. The property has not been transferred in more than fifty years.

New Tenth Floor for Macy's.

Eugene W. Stern, as architect for Nathan Straus, filed plans with Building Supt. Murphy yesterday for enlarging the R. H. Macy store on Broadway, from Thirty-fourth to Thirty-fifth Street, by adding a new tenth floor, which will occupy the large area now taken up by the arched dome and skylight. The dome is to be removed and the space floored over with reinforced cement concrete, and a fireproof pent house story erected with walls of terra cotta block and a roof of reinforced concrete. The improvement will materially increase the space for the display of goods, and is to cost $80,000.

Building Supt. Murphy has approved an application for another open-air theatre, to be operated upon the vacant plot at the corner of Lenox Avenue and 145th Street, a good distance above the regular Harlem theatre zone, and which is to be called The Airdome. It will be devoted to moving pictures and vaudeville.

To Tear Down Old "Mystic Flats."

Building Supt. Murhpy has issued a permit for the demolition of the old Mystic Flats, three seven-story buildings at 121 to 125 West Thirty-ninth Street, opposite the Casino, which were built by the late banker Fish, President of the defunct Marine Bank, and which were famous as theatrical lodgings of the old Tenderloin and became the talk of the town at the time of the Marine Bank crash. They were afterward occupied as the Parker Hotel, and when the latter closed the property passed into the hands of Felix Isham, the Philadelphia theatrical and real estate operator, who planned to build a new theatre on the site. The latter project was abandoned because of the fact that the plot as it stood would not permit the fulfillment of the requirements of the theatre law in the matter of side courts. The buildings have been vacant for several years, and are now, according to report, to give place to a loft and office building.

Schwartz & Gross, as architects for the Brevoort Construction Company, have filed revised plans for the twelve-story loft and store building to be erected for the company at 6 and 8 West Eighteenth Street, to cost $240,000. It is to be of limestone, with a frontage of 52 feet and a depth of 82 feet.

Bronx Flats Sold.

Laumeister & Co. report the following sales: No. 643 Meade Street, Van Nest, a six-story house, on plot 25 by 100; 647 St. Ann's Avenue, a five-story double flat-house, with stores, on plot 25 by 100; 438 East 147th Street, a five-story triple flat-house, on plot 25 by 100; 410 East 156th Street, a six-story tenement, on plot 39 by 100.

Plot on Burnett Place Sold.

E. Lowenthal & Son have sold for P. E. Goepfert a plot, 50 by 100, on the south side of Burnett Place, 45 feet east of Barry Street.

Bungalows for May's Landing.

D. H. Scully & Co. have sold for A. J. Griffin sixteen lots on Franklin Avenue, May's Landing, N. J., with a frontage on Little Harbor River. The purchaser will erect bungalows on the site.

Stores Leased.

M. & L. Hess have leased for the West Twenty-sixth Street Corporation to Mitchell, Bloch & Kronenberg the third loft at 37 to 43 West Twenty-sixth Street for a term of years; also, for the estate of Joseph B. Bloomingdale to the Grossman Leather Company, the ninth loft at 78 Fifth Avenue; also for Camman, Voorhees & Floyd to Rosenberg Brothers, the first loft at 38 West Eighteenth Street.

Frederick Fox & Co. have leased for E. Deutsch to William Jackman's Sons the fourth and eighth losts at 11 and 13 West Thirty-second Street, containing 10,000 square feet of space, for a long term of years; also, for the Marmac Construction Company, 6,000 square feet of space in the new building now in course of construction at 104 and 106 West Twenty-seventh Street, to S. Arohson & Co.

Rent Receivers Appointed.

Justice Blanchard of the Supreme Court has appointed Thomas Shiels receiver of the recents of 1,163 Hoe Avenue, the Bronx, a tenement house, in a suit brought by Elizabeth H. Hoar against the Eastern Crown Realty Company and others to foreclose a mortgage of $17,000.

William H. TAX ASSESSMENT IS $7,250,500,000

Increase in Valuation Is Under $100,000,000—Sharp Cut in Franchise Valuations.

REDUCED BY THE COURTS

The "Swearing Off" Heavy This Year—Metz Scared Delinquents—Carnegie and Mrs. Sage Pay on $5,000,000.

With the presentation of the tax books for the present year to the Aldermen yesterday by the Board of Tax Commissioners and their consequent opening to the public it became evident that the forecast of a nine-point rise in the tax rate this year will probably prove to be no exaggeration. The total assessed valuation of the city is fixed by the Tax Board at $7,250,500,559, of which $6,807,179,704 is in reality and $443,320,885 in personal property. Of this total $4,946,648,920 is assigned to Manhattan and $476,663,679 to the Bronx.

The increase in the assessed valuation of the city this year is less than $100,000,000. The normal increase in years past has been from $400,000,000 to $500,000,000. This naturally accounts for the large increase in the tax rate this year. The normal increase is usually from six to seven points, but this year it will undoubtedly go from 1.61 to 1.70.

There is a $12,000,000 decrease in corporate real estate and $18,000,000 decrease in special franchise taxes. This is due to the decisions of the courts reducing the valuations of many of the large corporations on which they have been taxed. When the Consolidated Gas Company saw that the eighty-cent gas law would undoubtedly be confirmed, it immediately took the question of its valuation to court and won a very profitable decision. Other corporations followed its example. The personal assessment roll shows a $7,000,000 increase, but it is held that this is not as large as it might have been. The "swearing off" this year was very large. The failure of the city to start the Fourth Avenue subway and other projected improvements is given as a reason for the failure of real estate values to take their usual rise.

Metz Scared Delinquents into Paying

The Controller declared some time ago that the rate this year would not be more than 1.65, a normal increase, and he has not yet changed this estimate. The collections of arrears since his advertisement of tax sales, entirely clearing up the back tax books of the city, have been large, and they are still piling in by the hundreds of thousands. This money all goes into the general fund for the reduction of taxation and will be a feature to be reckoned with.

The tax books will remain open fifteen days for the inspection of the public in the City Hall library. In the meantime the Finance Committee of the Aldermen, the Tax Board, and the Controller will compute the rate.

The recapitulation of the figures set forth in the books follows:

NAVAL AGREEMENT NULL.

Parliament Will Not Act on International Conference Decisions.

LONDON, July 7.—The Standard says the Government has decided to postpone indefinitely Parliamentary discussion and ratification of the declaration embodying the decisions of the international naval conference. The Standard says it may, therefore, be concluded that the agreement will remain a dead letter.

The naval conference concluded its sittings on Feb. 26, and a declaration was signed, consisting of seventy-one articles, containing a large number of generally recognized rules of naval warfare. This declaration was made public on March 21, and the principles enunciated were to act as a guide for the international prize court to be established at The Hague.

Princess Pauline Duleep Singh arrived yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie on a three months' visit to this country. She is the eldest daughter of the late Maharajah Duleep Singh by his second wife, an Englishwoman, whom he married in Russia. She has a younger sister, the Princess Josephine, and two half-brothers, Prince Victor and Prince Frederick Duleep Singh. Her father was the son of the "Lion of Lahore."

Princess Pauline is a slim brunette, with large, dark eyes. The Princess was met at the pier by her friend, Mrs. Daniel G. Gillette of Lake George, with whom she will spend the greater part of her time in the Eastern States before going to California and Mexico.

HARRIMAN CHILDREN SAIL.

Off to Join Father in Europe—Young Roland's Luggage a $1,000 Bill.

Among the passengers who sailed on the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinz Wilhelm for Bremen yesterday, were the Misses Mary and Caroline Harriman and their brother Roland, a boy of 14, the three children of E. H. Harriman, to join whom they are going to Europe. He had sent them a cable dispatch on Monday, saying that he was improving every day, and asked Roland to bring over with him four boxes of his special brand of cigars.

Charles C. Tegethoff, Mr. Harriman's secretary, was at the pier to see the children off with their aunt, Mrs. Robert L. Gerry. Just before the liner sailed a messenger came down with a thousand-dollar bill, which Mr. Tegethoff handed to Roland Harriman.

MISS BELEN DE AZPIROZ WEDS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The Washington friends of the late Señor Don Azpiroz, former Ambassador from Mexico, have been notified of the marriage of Miss Belen de Azpiroz, his youngest daughter, to Philip Frederick Hostop of England. The ceremony took place this morning in the City of Mexico, in the private chapel of the Archbishop.

The bride, who came to Washington as a child, made her début here five years ago as a contemporary of Miss Pauline Morton, Miss Katharine Elkins, and Miss Alice Miller. She speaks several languages. Mr. Hostop has resided several years in Mexico, where he has extensive interests, and will make his future home in Mexico City.

SUMMER DREAMS OF CITY POLITICS

What McCarren Wants and What Others Will Do About It Heard in Brooklyn.

METZ FOR MAYOR ONE WANT

If Mr. Murphy Doesn't Like It There'll Be Fireworks, According to Brooklyn—Receptivity of Mr. Coler.

With politics in Brooklyn depressingly dull, that familiar and strangely garrulous authority, "a man high up in the councils of his party," is handing out interviews over there in an effort to enliven political matters.

Like his much quoted fellow, "the veteran politician who enjoys the confidence of the leaders," this talkative person seems to have an uncontrollable weakness for revealing to any one interested that which is told to him in strict confidence by the rulers of the parties. Yesterday afternoon he leaned against a lamppost and held forth about Senator McCarren's plans for the municipal election, which, it seemed, had been discussed with him by the trusting Senator and his lieutenants.

It appeared from what he said that Senator McCarren, who in all probability will be in the minority in the city convention, has "served notice" on Leader Charles Francis Murphy of Tammany, who in all likelihood will have the majority say, that Brooklyn will insist upon a programme of its own being carried out. The panic-stricken Murphy has been told that Brooklyn, first of all, wants Herman A. Metz named for Mayor. Its second choice will be George B. McClellan. If Tammany begs to be let off as to either of these two, McCarren, who would not have it appear that he was taking undue advantage of Tammany's weakness, will graciously accept Justice Victor J. Dowling for the head of the ticket, providing Metz is renominated for Controller.

Should Tammany implore the Senator to be allowed to nominate Justice Gaynor for Mayor, however, Senator McCarren will become peevish. He has a profound admiration for the distinguished jurist, but feels that as they have lived so long together in the same town the distinguished jurist may not entertain quite so profound an admiration for him. If Mr. Murphy tries rudely to push Mr. Metz off the ticket altogether and thus leave the Senator with no political anchor to windward after the first of the year he and his nominees will be driven to the cyclone cellar by the storm of wrath that will come out of Brooklyn, where the untamed and emotional Democracy may suffer an attack of nearsightedness on Election Day, leaving it unable to distinguish between a Tammany ticket and a Republican or Fusion ballot.

After the "man high up in the councils of the party" had told all about McCarren's plans the "politician who enjoys the confidence of the leaders" came out of a near-by thirst-quenching emporium where "free lunch" is plentiful and loosely guarded to confide the news that Borough President Bird S. Coler again had his ear to the ground, listening for the call of the Common People. Mr. Coler, said his volunteer spokesman, was just aching for another chance to uplift the downtrodden and oppressed and was threatening to run for Controller on any old ticket.

He might be the candidate of a fusion of the Coler Democrats, the Jim Dunne Democrats, the Mike Flaherty Democrats, the ex-Hearst Democrats, or even the fearless band of patriots led by the irrepressible Bela Tokaji. If none of these should nominate him the Borough President might go into convention with Secretaries Charles Frederick Adams and John A. Heffernan and name himself, anyhow, just to beat Metz.

Then, just as the "veteran politician who enjoys the confidence of the leaders" was about to reveal the secret that Parsons and Woodruff were to form an alliance with McCarren to defeat Tammany, he saw a willing buyer go into the throat-irrigating works and hurried after him.

THAW IN WHITE PLAINS JAIL.

Justice Mills Orders Him Held There Pending Decision on His Application.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, July 6.—Justice Mills of the Supreme Court remanded Harry K. Thaw to the White Plains Jail to-day to await the decision of Justice Gaynor of the Appellate Division, who is to say whether Thaw's forthcoming trial regarding his mental condition is to take place in Westchester County or New York County. This was a point in Thaw's favor. His lawyer says he has been disturbed by the "jabbering of lunatics."

Thaw's mother, brothers, and sister, the Countess of Yarmouth, were in court with him, and will stay at a hotel in White Plains pending the disposition of his case. Justice Mills said that if Justice Gaynor did not make an order transferring the trial to New York County he would go ahead with it here on Monday.

If the case is transferred, Justice Mills will send Thaw back to Matteawan and give the trial Judge an opportunity to say where he shall be confined.

Ex-Gov. Stone of Pennsylvania is an important witness for Thaw. He was in court, and on the request of Thaw's lawyer he was permitted to give his testimony concerning the prisoner's mental condition, for the reason that he found it necessary to return home at the earliest possible time. In his examination he was asked:

"How did Thaw talk—as a rational or as an irrational man?"

"His conversation impressed me as being perfectly rational."

"Did he speak from memory?" asked Justice Mills.

"Yes; he spoke of his father's will, naming the trustees, and also naming the various items of property that his father had left."

He was examined in the Thaw bankruptcy proceedings, which involve about $600,000. He said that Thaw had shown a knowledge of every account and that his mind was perfectly clear on business affairs.

Robert Good, a large glass manufacturer, of Poughkeepsie, also testified that in his opinion Thaw was sane.

Besides the Thaw family, the hearing was attended by the Rev. F. T. Valentine of the Poughkeepsie Methodist Church and the Rev. Dr. Toop of the Fishkill Protestant Episcopal Church. Mr. Jerome's office was not represented.

The State was represented by Mr. Clark of the Attorney General's office.

TRIED TO KILL HER WITH GAS.

Girl Says Sweetheart Choked Her When She Refused Death Pact.

Charged with attempting to kill a girl to whom he was attentive and himself, James Morey of 195 Dean Street, Brooklyn, was locked up last evening in the Butler Street Station, after he and the young woman it is alleged he tried to kill had been taken from a gas-filled room in the house where Morey lives. The young woman, Miss Catherine McCauley of 438 Union Street, is in the Long Island College Hospital suffering from the effects of the gas which she had inhaled, but the physicians there say she will recover.

According to the story told by Miss McCauley to the police, she has known Morey for some time, and he has been calling upon her at her home. Hearing that he was married, her parents told her, she says, that Morey must cease his attentions to her. She said that she went to the room he occupied at the Dean Street address late yesterday afternoon and told Morey that he would not be permitted to call upon her again. He became much disturbed, and, after talking with her for a few minutes, pulled down the window shades, lighted a cigarette, and told her that, as he "never could have her," they might as well "die together." The young woman says she screamed and became hysterical, and then detected an odor of illuminating gas in the room.

Morey, she told the police, then seized her by the throat and a struggle ensued. She lost consciousness, and when she came to her senses again found herself in the hands of an ambulance surgeon from the Long Island College Hospital.

The discovery that an alleged attempt at a double tragedy had been made was due to several of the tenants in the building, who smelled the escaping gas. Tracing it to Morey's room they forced open the door and found Morey and Miss McCauley unconscious. They called in a policeman, who had the two removed to the Butler Street Police Station. There both were revived, but as Miss McCauley seemed to be still suffering from the effects of the gas she was taken to the hospital. Morey, who is a chauffeur out of employment, would not talk about the affair.

Morey is said to be a member of the family of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Morey, who frequently figured in the public prints as a claimant to about all the land known as Coney Island. She asserted that her title to the property came down to her from Colonial days. Mrs. Morey quarreled with the late John Y. McKane, the one-time political boss of Gravesend, whom she accused of having in his possession lands which rightfully belonged to her. She was often seen in the Coney Island Police Court defending her many "rights."

BOSTON, July 6.—Announcement was made to-day of the death of Alice, wife of the Vicomte Paulo de Fonrenillat de Caen of Normandy, at the home of her mother, Mrs. George Bruce Upton, in Milton, at the age of 50 years, on Monday. The Vicomtesse was born at Rock Island, Ill. Her father was the late George Wolcott Huntington of Norwich, Conn., and her mother Alice Henderson of Baltimore. Alice Huntington passed much of her youth in Germantown, Penn. She was married to the Vicomte in Paris on Sept. 9, 1887.

Housesmiths Want to be Taken Back.

It was announced yesterday on behalf of the Housesmiths and Bridgemen's Union, which was ruled out of the General Arbitration Board for persistent violation of the arbitration plan some years ago, that it has decided to make another attempt to be readmitted to the protection of the plan. The Employers' Association, since the union was expelled from the board, has been employing the housesmiths on the open-shop plan at union wages.

NEW OFFICE BUILDING FOR WALL STREET

Sixteen-Story Structure, Costing $1,500,000, to Go Up on the Stevens Site.

EIGHTY-FOUR-YEAR LEASE

Ground Rent, It Is Estimated, Will Bring in a Round $7,000,000 for the Term of the Lease.

A new sixteen-story office building, costing in the neighborhood of $1,500,000, is to be erected on the site of the present Stevens Building, 14, 16, and 18 Wall Street. The property was leased yesterday to the Bankers' Trust Company of 7 Wall Street. The company has obtained a ground lease to the property for twenty-one years, or with renewals for a period of eighty-four years, at an aggregate rental estimated at $7,000,000, and will begin erecting the new sixteen-story office structure as soon as the present lease on the building expires next May.

The old seven-story Stevens Building at present enfolds the Gillender Building, at the northwest corner of Wall and Nassau Streets, running around it in the shape of an L and facing the Sub-Treasury, at 3 Nassau Street. It has a frontage of 69 feet on Wall Street and 28.5 feet on Nassau Street. It was erected in 1880. The plot on which it stands was acquired by Joseph Sampson in 1840 and never transferred from the Sampson family. The present ground lease was obtained from the owner, Mrs. Adele Livingston Sampson, through Henry P. Davison of J. P. Morgan & Co., who negotiated the deal as Chairman of the Executive Committee of the trust company. Mrs. Sampson has lived in Paris for years, and the transaction was carried out for her by her son-in-law, Frederick H. Allen.

The terms of the lease could not be learned at the office of the Bankers' Trust Company yesterday, but it was reported that the rental would be based on a 4 per cent. net return on the value of the realty, which has been appraised at $2,000,000. This would mean an annual rental of $80,000, or $6,400,000 for the full term of eighty-four years. It was also said that the cost of the new building would be about $1,500,000, an estimate which the officials of the trust company would neither confirm nor deny.

In the new building the Bankers' Trust Company will occupy the basement and ground floor, which will be fitted up as one of the finest banking rooms in the city, with lofty ceilings and a floor space of 65 by 115 feet. In its new home the trust company will have as its neighbors the twenty-story office building of the Hanover National Bank, the Astor Building on the west, running from Wall to Pine Street, and the slim thirteen-story Gillender Building on the east; the First National Bank Building, the American Surety Company's Building, the New York Real Estate Security Company, and the Schermerhorn Building.

The erection of the new building will mark the third important real estate change that has occurred in the financial district in the last six months. The southeast corner of Cedar and Nassau Streets was recently purchased by the Fourth National Bank for about $1,400,000 from the Germania Life Insurance Company, and more recently still the Bank of Montreal acquired the eleven-story building at 64 and 66 Wall Street for a sum reported as $800,000. No. 1 Wall Street, only a short distance away from the Stevens Building, was sold a few years ago at $4 per square inch, the highest price ever paid for real estate in this city. The unusual phenomenon of the erection of so large a building by a financial institution on leased ground is assigned by brokers as due to the prohibitively high price at which property in this block is held for sale.

The Bankers' Trust Company of 7 Wall Street was organized in 1903, and, according to the Corporation Directory, has a capital of $1,000,000. Edmund C. Converse is its President, and among its Directors are Stephen Baker, Samuel G. Bayne, Edwin M. Bulkley, Frederick T. Haskell, A. Barton Hepburn, Thomas W. Lamont, Albert H. Wiggin, and Samuel Woolverton.

Liner Brings in 460 Cabin Passengers.

The North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie arrived from Bremen yesterday with 460 first cabin passengers, a large number coming westward for this time of the year. In the absence of Capt. Högeman, who is on leave, the liner is commanded this voyage by Capt. N. Johnsen, her chief officer. In spite of the rough weather and fog the passage was made in 5 days 21 hours and 48 minutes, at an average speed of 22.18 knots.

Fireman George Krapp Becomes Krupp

George Krapp, a fireman in Hook and Ladder Company 30, living at 376 Ford Street, the Bronx, obtained an order yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Blanchard permitting him to change his name to Krupp. He says he has been annoyed by facetious attempts to connect him in consequence of his name with dice gambling.

Commodore Gerry Home from Europe.

Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry, who arrived yesterday from his annual trip to Europe with his family on the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, said he was glad to be back. The weather had been cold and rainy in Paris and London. "We had a rough passage coming over," said the Commodore.

The trouble began during a horse trade, the negro threatening to shoot a horse trader. City detectives went to the trader's assistance and James began firing. He took refuge in a barn and a riot call was turned in. Citizens joined the police in shooting at the negro, who returned the fire until he was killed in the barn, where he had finally hidden behind some mules.

A newspaper publisher once told a friend of The Times that he considered the location of The Times Building to have contributed largely to The Times' success

There isn't another building in New York more prominent, none so much in the centre of the business to-day or which is likely to be 10 years hence than is

The Times Building

Over a million people pass in and out of The Times subway station in three months—must be that many people every day pass within sight of the building on the converging transportation lines or on the street.

What has been good for The Times may be just what you are looking for. All cool, airy and light offices. Ask the Agent, room 406. He will tell you all.
